U.S. COURT GIVES 3 OTHER NAZIS LIFE TERMS FOR MASS MURDERS

'Irrefutable Record' of Wholesale Deaths—75 S.S. Men Face Trial for Massacre of Yanks at Malmedy.

DACHAU, Germany, May 13 (AP)—A general military court today sentenced 58 operators of the notorious Mauthausen extermination camp to be hanged. Three others were given life terms in prison.

The 61 defendants were found guilty by the American court Saturday of murdering thousands of victims imprisoned by the Nazis in persecution campaigns.

The court called the defendants one by one to hear their sentences. This parade lasted 45 minutes. Each reading took 38 seconds and then the defendants were led away by white helmeted guards of the Ninth Division.

Fifty-eight times, the court president read, first in English, then in German:

"The court in closed session, two-thirds of the members being present and concurring, sentences you to death by hanging at such time and place as a higher authority may direct."

August Eigruber, gauleiter of the upper Danube region and dictator of much of upper Austria during the Nazi rule, took his sentence without emotion. He wore a gay Bavarian costume.

Other defendants turned white. Some had to be helped from the courtroom by guards.

The court said it had found an "irrefutable record of death by shootings, gassings, hangings and regulated starvation" which made every official "culpably and criminally responsible."

This largest of all mass war crimes trials lasted six weeks. It will be followed, beginning Thursday, by the trial of 75 SS. men for the massacre of American soldiers at Malmedy, Belgium, during the Battle of the Bulge in the winter of 1944-45.

POPE URGES VOTE FOR THOSE RESPECTING CHURCH'S RIGHTS

VATICAN CITY, May 13 (UP)—Pope Pius XII urged the Catholic women of Italy Sunday to vote only for those political candidates who guarantee to respect the rights of God and the church.

Speaking from the main altar of St. Peter's Basilica, the Pope addressed an estimated 20,000 young women gathered to commemorate the month of the Virgin Mary. It was his first public appearance since the consistory Feb. 21. He stressed the virtues of the Virgin Mary and warned the assembled women against divorce.

BIG 4 MINISTERS PREPARE TO TACKLE REICH PROBLEM

Byrnes Calls Gen. Clay and Envoy Murphy to Parley—French Hint They May Compromise on Ruhr.

By EDWARD P. MORGAN
The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1946.

BERLIN, May 13—The four-power occupation of Germany is going to break down unless basic issues can be settled very quickly, high American officials said here today.

The German problem is scheduled to be taken up by the Big Four foreign ministers in Paris, probably tomorrow or Wednesday. Principal issues include frontiers, disposition of the Ruhr and Rhineland, and creation of central German administrative agencies.

United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes has summoned both Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American deputy military governor, and Ambassador Robert D. Murphy, who is political adviser to the United States Commander in Europe, for consultations. They will fly to Paris tomorrow.

Byrnes, it was learned, had a long telephone conversation with Gen. Clay last night and asked him to bring along "clearcut views" of the Allied Control Council on German questions.

FEDERATED RUHR MAY BE SOLUTION

PARIS, May 13 (AP)—The four-power foreign ministers met again this afternoon in an effort to resolve their points of disagreement, and were reported to have resumed discussion of the Italian peace treaty.

The ministers canceled a morning session when British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, who had flown to London yesterday for consultations, was delayed in returning until after the session's scheduled starting time.

It was learned the conference expected to reach the German

COUPLE WILL JOIN CHURCH IF PASTOR FINDS THEM A HOME

An offer to join St. John's Methodist Church if the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Albea Godbold, could find an apartment for them was made by a man and his wife at the chancel of the church following yesterday morning's service, he reported in his sermon last night.

"I told them, as I have told many others, that I can't find apartments for people," he said. "The only way I know to locate an apartment is to have friends, and keep reminding them—all of them—that you are looking for an apartment. Sooner or later they, or friends of theirs, will move, and those looking for new living quarters will be told and will have first chance."

YUGOSLAV FINDS $600 IN COAT OF U. S. DONOR, MAILS IT BACK

Deposit Book Showing $9000 in Bank Also Returned to New York Woman.

BELGRADE, May 13 (UP)—Milos Markov, secretary of the people's committee in the village of Novi Knezevas, was distributing a shipment of clothes of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration when he felt a bundle under the collar of a coat.

The bundle turned out to be more than $600 in bills and a deposit book showing that Mrs. Delia Hyer had more than $9000 in Immigrants' Industrial Savings Bank of New York.

Markov mailed the bills and the deposit book to Mrs. Hyer. He said it was his "duty as an honest worker and citizen of our republic."

INDIA TALKS FAIL, BUT BRITISH PLAN INTERIM CABINET

Parley on Self-Rule Breaks Down Over Inability of Two Parties to Reach Agreement.

By A. T. STEELE
(Copyright, 1946.)

SIMLA, May 13—The British Cabinet delegation and leaders of India's two major parties admitted failure last night in their eight-day effort to reach agreement on the pattern of self-rule for India.

With the breakdown of talks over India's complex constitutional problems, the British mission is preparing to leave Simla tomorrow for Delhi, where it is expected positive steps will be taken to set up an interim government for India, with or without interparty agreement.

Yesterday's announcement which came in the form of two communiques—one from the whole conference and one from the British delegation—was no surprise in view of the consistently uncompromising attitudes of the Moslem League and the Congress party. Yet the blow will nevertheless be a severe one to the Indian public, which had hoped against hope that with the promise of freedom laid at their doorstep, India's parties would somehow be able to resolve their differences.

The communique issued by Lord Pethwick-Lawrence, head of the British delegation, emphasized that collapse of local talks "does not, in any way, bring to an end the mission with which they were charged by His Majesty's Government and the British people." This is taken to mean that the mission does not intend to return to England empty-handed.

The delegation came here with

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—A 24-year-old Navy lieutenant says he will appeal the ruling of the New York supreme court that he is the father of a boy born to his wife 355 days after he left for the Pacific.

Lt. (jg) Robert A. Lockwood sailed for a 20-month tour of duty on April 24, 1944—and a son was born to his wife April 14, 1945. The pair was married in March, 1944.

The court ruling was made by Supreme Court Justice Peter M. Daly in denying a plea for divorce by the naval officer, who contended that a 355-day pregnancy was impossible and therefore proof of adultery.

Justice Daly ruled, however, that in "the present state of medical knowledge and belief, it can not be said that it is impossible that the plaintiff is the father of this child."

Justice Daly also said evidence by a Jamaica (N. Y.) hospital doctor showed that the delivery was abnormally delayed, and added that "the presumption of legitimacy is one of the strongest and most persuasive known to law." As precedent he cited a British probate court decision of 1921 upholding legitimacy of a baby born after a 331-day pregnancy.

Commenting on the ruling, Lockwood said: "I wish some one could convince me that he's right." Mrs. Lockwood said only "the decision tells the story."

(A United Press story from Chicago said the American Medical Association reported that it had no record of a child being born after 355 days in gestation. The association's records showed that a normal pregnancy lasts 280 days, but that pregnancies have ranged from 240 to 336 days.)

In a recent Chicago case, a jury decided that former Chief Petty Officer Joseph Sowa could not have been the father of a baby born to his wife 349 days after his departure. He was granted a divorce.

HOOVER REPORTS ON FOOD CRISIS; WILL SEEK AID IN SOUTH AMERICA

Ex-President at White House, Terms Relief Needs Through September Smaller Than Previously Stated.

By JOSEPH HANLON
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 13—Just back from a world-circling tour to investigate food shortages and possible sources of supply to avert famine, former President Hoover reported to President Truman today that mass starvation can be prevented if food-surplus countries do their best this summer.

There is need, he said, for further vigorous conservation efforts. The co-operation of Russia and Latin American countries, he added, might go far toward bridging the gap between the available food supplies and the amount required.

To Go to South America.

As Hoover was reviewing his report at a crowded press conference in the White House just after he had seen the President, Truman's press secretary, Charles G. Ross, announced that Hoover had accepted an assignment to go to Latin America to enlist support of countries there in dealing with the food crisis.

The former President seemed confident that voluntary efforts would enable the United States to meet its obligations to peoples who depend on it for food exports, but ducked the explicit question as to whether he would favor a return to food rationing.

"You'll get more food by a voluntary program than you will ever get by any other program," he told the reporters. Operating as we have been, he said, we will have exported by the end of this crop year 450,000,000 bushels of wheat, the largest export figure we have ever reached.

Asked to go one step further and give his views on rationing, Hoover pleaded to be excused.

"I've seen a lot of things in the countries I visited that I didn't particularly like," he said, "but I haven't uttered a word of criticism, or an atom of controversy since I took the job. I'd like to keep out of any domestic controversy."

To Speak Friday Night.

For the time being he preferred not to enlarge on his views of what further conservation measures may be required in this country, but said he would have something to say about that in a radio report to the people he is to make Friday night from Chicago over a nation-wide network of stations.

He did say that the food conservation measures proposed by the Department of Agriculture seemed to have been accepted generally by householders, and "in some cities by public eating places." In other cities, he said, restaurants had not co-operated fully, and it was time for someone to show some indignation about this.

In his report Hoover trimmed somewhat previous estimates of food requirements for meeting the immediate need and by a small margin increased estimates of what may be available. This may be accounted for partly by the circumstance that he extended his estimates through September, while others had stopped at June or July. Carrying the figures through the summer season enables an allowance for greater use of home grown crops in food deficit areas.

The revised figures, covering the five months from May to September, inclusive, indicate a

PRICE CEILINGS UP 6 PCT. ON CLOCKS, CHEAP WATCHES

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration today increased retail ceiling prices for clocks and inexpensive watches an average of 6 per cent to offset higher wage and material costs. The increase, effective immediately, applies to spring-wound and electric clocks and to watches with seven or fewer jewels.

The OPA last night lifted price controls on a variety of goods and services, including custom fabricating of certain types of whisky barrels, crinoline cheese cloths and some photography services.

Controls will end today on: All photography services except photostating, blue printing, microfilming and photo finishing and sensitized paper used in developing films; custom fabricating of new white oak bourbon whisky staves, heading bolts or barrels and incidental services.

Also on diamond core drilling; dental laboratory services in connection with prosthetic dental appliances; cheese bandages, crinoline cheese circles and press cloths for use in cheese manufacture; sub-assemblies, accessories and any other integral part of the several hundred consumer durable goods now explicitly removed from price control, and on high alloy steel castings used as component parts of industrial equipment.

OWNERS' ACTION CLEARS WAY TO OTHER ISSUES IN COAL CONTRACT

Health and Welfare Fund, Increase in Wages Still to Be Discussed—Situation Reviewed by Truman.

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—Soft coal operators today agreed to pay $3,000,000 in back holiday pay claimed by John L. Lewis's miners, clearing the way for discussion of key issues in the contract negotiations.

In a statement the operators said that in agreeing to make the payment the action "is not to be construed as a recognition in any way of any merit in the demand made, nor as establishing a precedent for future action."

"The sole purpose is to open the way for real negotiations," they said. "The operators now call upon the union to proceed immediately to negotiate a contract."

Lewis's claim involved overtime payment he said was due to those workers who worked a full week in the weeks in which Labor day, Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year holidays occurred.

Cause of Contention.

Prior to President Truman's revocation of Executive Order 9240 last Aug. 21 the miners, as well as other war workers, were guaranteed pay for six major holidays in the year, including the four involved in the mine dispute. The operators contended that after Truman revoked the order they no longer were required to pay for the holidays or to consider them as days worked in computing overtime for six consecutive days of work.

The operators estimated the claim involved will range from $4 to $16 each for workers who had labored on the holidays.

The operators said they had offered to settle the controversy under a grievance provision of the contract or to submit the question to arbitration. The union rejected the proposal, the operators said.

Since the negotiations have been stymied on the issue, the operators said they had agreed to make the payment in view of "the extremely critical situation" of the country, and as a "sincere endeavor" to start the conference upon its basic work.

Other Proposals.

With the issue out of the way, the conference could turn now to Lewis's nine contract proposals, chief of which are:

1. Creation of a health and welfare fund by the operators. The producers say Lewis wants this financed by levying a 10-cent royalty on each ton of coal mined, enough to net the union $50,000,000 to $60,000,000 annually. The operators say also that Lewis demands complete administration of this fund.

2. Improved safety measures, including agreement by the operators to accept recommendations of federal mine inspectors for improving mines. These are now advisory only.

3. Adjustment of the controversy over unionization of supervisory workers.

4. Increased pay and shorter working hours.

The coal situation, meantime, came for review at a meeting of President Truman and congressional leaders.

House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts told reporters after the weekly legislative conference at the White House that the coal situation had been canvassed in "a very general way." He said, "Everybody hopes that the negotiators will get down to an agreement."

The negotiators, asked by Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach to meet "morning, noon and night" in an effort to reach an agreement by Wednesday, met yesterday also, but little progress was indicated. Afterward, McGrady said the Sunday conference amounted to just "talk."

The coal situation had brightened earlier with the return of most of Lewis's 400,000 miners. In Pennsylvania, however, despite Lewis's back-to-work plea, more than 40,000 miners voted to abide by their traditional "no contract, no work" policy.

In Pennsylvania miners become eligible today for unemployment benefits. The state ruled Saturday that return of miners to work meant "none will be compensable" but did not explain what would

FLOUR SHORTAGE FACING BAKERS HERE IN 2 WEEKS

Mills in Area Have Grain for Only 8 Days and Can't Get More Until Late in June.

Wholesale bakers in St. Louis, forced to cut production of bread by 25 per cent because of Government restrictions on flour mills, may be without flour in two weeks because mills are unable to get wheat, the Post-Dispatch learned today.

A survey of mills and sales outlets in the St. Louis area revealed that flour mills have stocks for only eight days and do not expect new supplies of grain until late in June or early in July.

"For the last few weeks we have not been able to buy any wheat," A. L. Christman, production manager of Valier & Spies Milling Co., told a reporter. "Unless we get more wheat this month, we will have to close down until the new wheat crop comes in late in June. Fortunately, the new crop is about two weeks ahead of schedule this year."

Millers reported they were unable to buy wheat in elevators or from farmers, because the farmers are selling their grain to the government for foreign relief shipments at a bonus of 30 cents a bushel from the Commodity Credit Corporation.

John B. Ferguson, district manager for Standard Milling Co., said: "We aren't even able to keep our mills running by milling the wheat for foreign shipment—the grain is being rushed to ports while the mills stand idle."

Millers reported that on May 1 they were allotted 21 days' supply of wheat by government order, which was expected to last them for 60 days. "The government has ordered us to cut milling for domestic consumption to

BIG 4 MINISTERS FIND UNITY (PANDA) IN BRITISH CARTOON

'There Is Such an Animal,' Says Line Under Drawing Showing Diplomats Before Cage.

LONDON, May 13 (UP)—Lien Ho, the London zoo's new panda, made her bow as the subject of a political cartoon here today.

Lien Ho's English name is Unity. "Vicky," cartoonist for the News Chronicle, pictured the Big Four foreign ministers standing in front of her cage. Beneath the cartoon was a line reading: "There is such an animal."

The panda, flown from Calcutta on a cake of ice, kept several thousand persons waiting in front of her cage for hours Sunday while she napped. When the keeper entered the cage to poke her out, she bit him.

Off Wagon After 100 Years.

LYNN, Mass., May 13 (UP)—Augustine F. Littlefield, a teetotaler who observed his 100th birthday yesterday, was off the wagon today. He started his 101st year by taking a drink of brandy, recommended by his doctor to overcome insomnia.

$500,000,000 MEASURE FOR 3000 NEW AIRPORTS IS SIGNED BY TRUMAN

WASHINGTON, May 13 (UP)

PRESIDENT TRUMAN today signed into law a bill designed to provide the country with 3000 new airports during the next six years.

The measure authorizes the Federal Government to spend $500,000,000 between next July 1 and July 1, 1952, to help any state, municipality or other local government agency that wants to build an airport and can provide a share of the necessary money.

Federal funds will be handled by the Civil Aeronautics Administration. They will be allocated among states under a formula based on both population and area. Preliminary estimates show that Texas, New York, California, Pennsylvania and Illinois will receive the largest allocations in that order.

All except 100 of the projected new airports will be of the smaller type suitable for private flyers and feeder airlines, according to CAA estimates.

STRIKE OVER, WESTINGHOUSE PLANTS RESUME OPERATIONS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 13 (AP)—A gradual resumption of operations was under way today at Westinghouse Electric Corp. plants in 12 states, ending the long strike of 75,000 CIO production workers. A company spokesman said it would be two and a half weeks before all employes would be back at work.

Official ratification of an agreement calling for a wage increase of 18 cents an hour was announced in New York last night by Edward Matthews, international representative of the CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers.

RAILWAY FREIGHT MOVEMENTS HERE BACK TO NORMAL

Return of 23,000 Miners in Illinois Brings Hope That Area Coal Shortage Will Be Eased.

Movement of railway freight in St. Louis was back to normal today following lifting of the Government embargo on non-essential shipments, and a back-to-work movement among 23,000 Illinois members of the AFL United Mine Workers encouraged the hope that the local coal shortage might soon be eased.

The two UMW mines in St. Clair county, the Okay Mine at Marissa and the United Electric Coal Co.'s mine at Freeburg, reopened today. But the 25 other mines in the St. Clair field, operated by members of the Progressive Mine Workers, remained closed while leaders of the 18,000 PMW strikers in Illinois were resuming wage negotiations at a conference in Springfield.

Large-scale layoffs planned by St. Louis industries unable to obtain raw materials will be forestalled by lifting of the freight embargo, the Chamber of Commerce reported, but the coal situation here remained tight, and voluntary dimout measures continued in effect.

Regular Auto Radio-Telephone Service Expected Here This Month

As soon as the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. gets its 41 radio-telephone sets this month, St. Louisans will have the first opportunity in the country of using a regular service for making calls from their homes or offices to automobiles on the street.

Company spokesmen said they expected to have a total of 138 sets on hand by Sept. 1, after it was announced yesterday in New York that the Federal Communications Commission had granted the first license for commercial radio-telephone service to the St. Louis company.

As soon as the system is perfected here, it was said, a man living in Alton would be able to talk to the driver of a truck going south down the highway toward Fenton, Mo. Or a St. Louis business man could pick up his telephone and speak directly to one of his salesmen as he is driving through St. Charles.

The new service will extend throughout the St. Louis metropolitan area and take in places as far away as High Ridge, Chesterfield and Edwardsville. It will cover an area about 75 miles in diameter.

Anyone can buy the service, but the telephone company expects the most practical use will be obtained by such business firms as express companies, public utilities, newspapers and ambulance services.

The anticipated cost to the consumer, pending approval by the Missouri Public Service Co., is $15 a month, plus a $25 installation fee, with a separate charge made for each call depending upon the distance and time involved.

The customer has the option of providing his own mobile equipment, consisting of a receiver, transmitter, antenna and telephone.

If a man in his office wishes to call a truck driver on the street, he dials long-distance and asks for the mobile service operator in the branch office at 2654 Locust street. He then gives the number of vehicle he is calling, for example, WJ 2-3873.

The operator connects with the telephone company at 1010 Pine street through telephone lines and a call is sent out over the company's 250-watt transmitter atop the building to the truck driver. He is notified by an amber light and a bell which rings on his receiver. To reply, he pushes a "talk" button on his set and the signal is picked up for transmission by one of the five receiving stations being established in this area.

SPANISH EXILES CHARGE GERMANS IN SPAIN CARRY ON ATOMIC WORK

Giral Has Long Report to Submit to U.N. Committee — Franco Accused of Hiring Former Gestapo Men.

By MAX HARRELSON.

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—The Spanish Government-in-exile said flatly today that the Government of Francisco Franco is threatening world peace by working on atomic energy with the aid of German scientists.

This statement is contained in one of the documents which Dr. Jose Giral, premier of the Government-in-exile, brought from Paris yesterday for presentation to the United Nations subcommittee investigating the Spanish question.

Although the 350-page report still had not been presented to the United Nations this afternoon, it was learned from a reliable source that it contained a statement that atomic research was being carried out in two Spanish cities—Granada and Murcia.

Other Charges.

The report, which Giral said would be submitted "within the next 24 hours," also said that:

1. Franco is maintaining a huge military force, a large part of which was massed on the French frontier.

2. The Franco Government is not only sheltering many notorious Nazis, but actually is employing many former Gestapo agents in its secret police. The report listed the names of some of these.

3. Franco is violating human rights by "tortures, terrorism and cruelties" in Spanish jails and concentration camps.

Giral said he would present the report directly to Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations, which meant that it probably would not be in the hands of the five-man subcommittee when it meets this afternoon.

Giral indicated he would not appear before the committee personally before he leaves Wednesday for Mexico, but that he might appear when he returns to New York in about 10 days.

"I will present a very extensive report to the United Nations," Giral said. "This report was prepared by the Spanish government-in-exile and consists of one main document and 20 other documents."

The subcommittee, which is expected to meet almost daily from now until May 31, when it must submit its report to the Security Council, also will get reports this week from the United States and Mexico on the Spanish situation.

Next Council Meeting.

Meanwhile, a U.N. spokesman said the council probably would be called into session Thursday to take up two other matters.

One of these is a resolution circulated Friday night by United States Delegate Edward R. Stettinius Jr., proposing that the council hold up action on requests for U.N. membership pending study of qualifications and procedure by a subcommittee.

This may produce a clash between Russia and the western powers, since approval of the resolution would have the effect of delaying admission of Albania, whose membership is sponsored by Yugoslavia and favored by Russia.

The other matter would be a report of the council's committee of experts on rules and procedure, which is ready to submit another group of rules for approval.

Members of the council continued to watch closely the situation in Iran, where press dispatches indicated a civil war was threatened. Any disturbance there might have an important effect on the Iranian case, which is scheduled to come up again May 20.

MIHAILOVIC SAID TO PLAN 'FULL CONFESSION' AT TRIAL

BELGRADE, May 13 (UP)—Semi-official sources said today that former Chetnik Gen. Draja Mihailovic would turn state's evidence and make a full confession at his trial, which is scheduled for May 20.

These sources said the confession was expected to contain a complete list of persons in Yugoslavia and other countries who aided his guerrilla organization.

If the expected confession is made, it was believed that Mihailovic may escape the death penalty, but it was indicated the Government would regard the sentence as a political instrument to be used for the best interests locally and abroad.

NAZIS HAD ONLY 20 U-BOATS IN 1939, ADMIRAL TESTIFIES

German Says Navy Conceded Sea Rule to Britain—Asserts Old Rules of War Became Outmoded.

By NOLAND NORGAARD

NUERNBERG, May 13 (AP)—Adm. Gerhard Wagner, former chief of the Nazi naval command staff, testified before the international tribunal today that the German Navy drafted no prewar plan of operations against Britain "because such a war appeared absolutely hopeless."

The witness, who appeared in behalf of Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz, former naval commander in chief, said Britain's sea might was so overwhelming that submarine warfare "was the only means we had to damage England, and it was not given preferential treatment" in prewar planning.

As a result, he continued, Germany entered the war with only about 20 submarines fit for Atlantic service, "whereas Britain and France each had over 100."

Wagner declared the Nazi naval command decided, on the advice of the foreign office, to adhere strictly to the 1935 London agreement on U-boat warfare until it was clear that Britain was violating its terms, because "we recognized the power of enemy propaganda in the last war and didn't propose to give the enemy cause to speak against us again in the worst possible way."

Wagner said it was almost immediately apparent that the British were converting merchant ships into armed warships which engaged in artillery duels with U-boats.

He said the German Navy considered the old rules of submarine warfare had been outmoded by two new factors — the use of planes against U-boats and the development of radar and other electrical detection devices.

Wagner said he knew of no conference between the German high command and the Japanese on any mutual war aim before the Pacific war began on Dec. 7, 1941.

The attack on Pearl Harbor, he testified, came as a "complete surprise" to the German navy. He said Grand Adm. Erich Raeder, then navy commander-in-chief, Adm. Doenitz, his successor, and all naval departments were ignorant of the Japanese plan.

Doenitz's counsel asked Wagner: "Is the report true that Adm. Raeder tried to get the Japanese to go to war against the United States?"

"It is not true," Wagner replied. "I know Raeder stressed that all naval measures should be examined very closely regarding the effect on the United States, to prevent incidents. In the summer of 1941 he even ordered submarines withdrawn from American waters."

BIG 4 MINISTERS PREPARE TO TAKE UP REICH PROBLEM

question tomorrow. A compromise on French demands for detachment of the Ruhr appeared to be a possibility.

A well-informed French source said the germ of a possible compromise was contained in a recent British proposal reported to have suggested some form of federation for the Ruhr region, which might even include part of the Rhineland.

The British and Americans have opposed France's demands for complete political separation of the Ruhr from the Reich under international political control, and have proposed establishment of economic control instead.

The French source said a federated Ruhr similar to the setup the American occupation forces instituted in Greater Hesse might meet French approval so long as the federated state was not under complete control of a centralized German authority in Berlin. In any event, he continued, French acceptance of such a plan would depend on the satisfactory working out of details and international economic control would be insisted on.

View on Byrnes Pact Plan.

United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes's proposal of a 25-year four-power mutual assistance pact to assure German disarmament was received warmly by the French, but an authorized French spokesman declared flatly that it was not in itself a sufficient guarantee against further German aggression.

It would work, one French source said, only so long as the Big Four remained in complete agreement. He added that France expected a resurrected Germany to use every means to sow the seeds of discord among the Allies.

The Allies yesterday joined in France's formal observance of the first anniversary of their victory. The observance was postponed from Wednesday in order to coincide with Joan of Arc day.

The foreign ministers reviewed a military parade from positions of honor in front of the Arch of Triumph and heard President Felix Gouin appeal for "the triumph of a human peace" so that the world's "sacrifice will not have been in vain."

Deadlock on Italian Issues.

The ministers still are deadlocked on the major items of the Italian treaty—reparations, colonies and the disputed port of Trieste—but compromise solutions seemed within reach on all except the Trieste issue.

Byrnes contributed to a possible solution of the Italian reparations issue last week by offering to agree to $100,000,000 for Russia if the payments were restricted to merchant ships, some naval vessels, surplus factory equipment and Italian assets in the Balkans.

Abandonment of Soviet demands for trusteeship over Tripolitania also offered hope of a solution to the disposition of Italian colonies, although the problem still was complicated by Britain's demand for trusteeship over Cirenaica. Tripolitania and Cirenaica are parts of Libya.

Ethiopia, represented by Emperor Haile Selassie, was reported ready to present demands this week for part of Eritrea.

Meanwhile Marshal Josip (Tito) Broz of Yugoslavia, in a speech reported by the Belgrade radio, took issue with the recommendations by French, British and American experts of a boundary commission for a division of Venezia Giulia on an ethnic basis.

"Have the British any ethnical claims to India or Africa? Have the Americans any ethnical claims in the Pacific?" he was quoted as asking. "I do not believe in these ethnical principles—they do not exist. But something else does exist—strategical reasons. We do not agree with the British and American governments, nor will we desist from our rights. All we want is Istria, Trieste and the Slovene littoral."

PLEBISCITE ON MONARCHY IN GREECE SET FOR SEPT. 1

ATHENS, May 13 (UP) — The government today announced that the plebiscite on the Greek monarchy will be held Sept. 1. The announcement was made to the opening session of the Greek parliament.

DE GAULLE CALLS FOR STRONG FRANCE

Speaks at Clemenceau Tomb —Tells Press He Won't Run for Assembly.

PARIS, May 13 (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle, who retired last January as president of the French provisional government, says he has no intention of running for election to the new Constituent Assembly which France will choose next month.

De Gaulle made his statement in an interview yesterday after laying a wreath on the tomb of Georges Clemenceau in Colombier during victory anniversary ceremonies at which a crowd of 5000 heard him give a brief, nonpolitical speech. He brushed aside all other questions concerning his future role in French politics.

"I cannot predict the future," he said in the interview, held at Chateau de Feole, home of Michel Clemenceau, son of Georges Clemenceau.

"We cannot have security, liberty and efficiency tomorrow any more than yesterday without great disciplines accepted under the leadership of a strong state in the ardor of a mustered people," he said at the tomb.

Although he declined comment on defeat of the proposed French constitution by the May 5 referendum, De Gaulle remarked to correspondents who accompanied him on the tour that "I suggested it (the referendum)."

RAILWAY FREIGHT MOVEMENTS HERE BACK TO NORMAL

age, closed its plant in Wellston today, laying off about 450 workers. But the Aluminum Ore Co. canceled plans to lay off 1000 employes at its East St. Louis plant today, and the Hussmann-Ligonier Co., manufacturers of refrigerators, called back 1200 workers who had been directed to take their vacations or had been laid off last Friday.

Illinois UMW leaders indicated there would be general acceptance of the order to resume mining operations under the 12-day truce called for by John L. Lewis, but pointed out there might be communications difficulties in transmitting the back-to-work order to the idle miners, many of whom had gone fishing to remote points.

At Centralia, where about 2000 UMW members operate two mines, management spokesmen said clean-up and repair work might delay a general return until Wednesday. At some mines, however, maintenance crews had remained on the job during the strike and the diggings were ready for immediate operation.

Two Trains Resumed.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad yesterday resumed two St. Louis trains which had been discontinued last week because of the coal shortage. One train departs for Evansville, Ind., at 11:30 p.m., and the other arrives from Evansville at 7:15 a.m. But 28 other St. Louis trains discontinued by various lines for the time being remain suspended.

The nation's railroads had been ordered to cut passenger operations by coal-burning trains 25 per cent last week with an additional 25 per cent reduction scheduled to become effective next Wednesday. The second cut has been revoked.

A coal shortage threatening City Hospital and Homer G. Phillips Hospital was alleviated for at least four months when the St. Louis Housing Authority today made 600 tons of coal available to the two municipal institutions. This supply came from the Housing Authority's stockpile of more than 1200 tons, the authority rejecting bids on the supply not needed to release the fuel for city use.

The Chamber of Commerce today received an answer to the letter in which it appealed last week to President Truman for drastic action to bring about resumption of coal production. Reconversion Director John W. Snyder wrote George C. Smith, president of the chamber, that the problem was receiving urgent attention and every effort was being exerted to reach a solution.

AZERBAIJAN HEAD LEAVES TEHRAN WITHOUT ACCORD

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN

TEHRAN, May 13 (AP)—Jafar Pishevari, "premier" of the dissident Azerbaijan province, left Tehran today and sources close to the central government said no agreement had been reached.

He had been negotiating with Iranian officials in secret for several days.

Unfavorable flying weather held up Pishevari's departure for Tabriz yesterday. Central government sources said the delay was fortuitous, because Pishevari called Premier Ahmed Qavam of the central government and agreed to resume negotiations on the return of Azerbaijan to Tehran's jurisdiction.

It was not stated when the talks would reopen.

The official radio station in Tabriz, Azerbaijan capital, asserted earlier that negotiations had broken down because of "reactionary elements" in Tehran, and said the Azerbaijan people were "ready to fight."

Likewise, an official who had accompanied Pishevari to the airport said that a breakdown of negotiations might mean "armed conflict."

The official Tehran radio denied a statement attributed to Qavam that force would be used.

However, the Iranian army has been on the alert for the last few days and reinforcements have moved to certain frontier stations.

Reuters news agency said a translator's error was responsible for its circulation yesterday of a dispatch saying Azerbaijan had gone to war with the central government of Iran.

The agency's explanation said the Tabriz radio broadcasting in the Turki language said war was "threatened" — which was translated as "declared."

MAX SCHMELING REPORTED JAILED AND FINED BY BRITISH

LONDON, May 13 (AP) — The Hamburg radio reported that a British military tribunal today sentenced Max Schmeling to three months in prison and fined him 10,000 marks (about $1000) for building a house in defiance of occupation authorities.

The prosecution charged that the former boxing champion had been ordered to halt construction of the house, but had resumed two months later.

TOP JAPS DISPUTE ALLIED AUTHORITY FOR TRYING THEM

Counsel Contends Surrender Was Conditional, Precluded Charges Against Leaders.

By DUANE HENNESSY

TOKYO, May 13 (AP)—Argument that Japan did not surrender unconditionally and does not have to obey every Allied command was presented today to the Far East military tribunal by the chief defense counsel for Japan's major war criminal suspects.

Attorney Ichiro Kiyose's challenge to the court's authority to try the 28 defendants on 55 counts was taken under advisement and the tribunal adjourned until tomorrow morning.

The Allied chief prosecutor, Joseph B. Keenan, labeled Kiyose's argument as the "height of absurdity" and offered documentary evidence that Japan's surrender was "utterly without condition."

Kiyose said that in giving the tribunal jurisdiction over crimes against peace and crimes against humanity "Gen. MacArthur is exercising authority which he does not possess and the Japanese people are not bound to obey that order."

Japan's top statesmen, Kiyose said, agreed to surrender in the belief they would not be prosecuted as war criminals.

Potsdam Ultimatum.

The attorney declared that in the surrender last September Japan recognized that it would obey orders and directives of the Allied powers, but only those in accordance with the Potsdam declaration.

Thus he challenged the tribunal's authority to try the defendants on charges of crimes against peace and crimes against humanity—charges which make up a large part of the indictment against the defeated leaders.

Keenan said that examination of Japanese communications delivered to the Swiss Government at the time of surrender would show it was without condition.

Keenan turned to the surrender ultimatum prepared by the Allies at the Potsdam conference last July for further support for his argument.

From paragraph 13, he read:

"We call upon the government of Japan to proclaim now the unconditional surrender of all Japanese armed forces. . . ."

And from paragraph six:

"There must be eliminated for all time the authority and influence of those who have deceived and misled the people of Japan into embarking on world conquest. . . ."

As Keenan spoke of the "pillage, murder and plunder" which he said the 28 defendants had caused, he was interrupted by Chief Justice Sir William Webb, who asked:

"Do you think those rhetorical phrases are fitting at this time?"

Keenan replied that he had no desire to let the defense's contentions go unchallenged.

Defense Contention.

Kiyose took a different view of the Potsdam declaration. Under its terms, he said, the Allies could prosecute all war criminals guilty of violating accepted laws and customs of war. But he argued that no provision was made for charges included in the present indictment which hold the defendants responsible for inciting war and for mistreatment of Allied peoples.

The Potsdam declaration not only binds Japan, but binds the Allies," the white-haired counsel declared. "We in Japan at no time expected that it would be extended to crimes against peace and charges against important statesmen, diplomats and other leaders."

Germany's surrender was wholly unconditional, Kiyose said, but the Potsdam agreement "presented an offer" to Japan.

"It is this that was accepted and it is this that the Allies must observe," he contended.

Kiyose told the tribunal—over the objection of Keenan—that he could see no reason why the question of Japanese aggression in Manchuria should be covered in the indictment. He said several countries had recognized the state of Manchoukuo, set up there by the Japanese.

The counsel, who spoke for all defendants, also asked that charges of crimes against Siam be stricken because Siam "is not and was not an allied nation."

Trial Set for June 3.

Today's session of the tribunal was held especially to hear Kiyose's challenge. The trial is set to begin June 3.

Justice Webb delivered a second admonition to Keenan when the prosecutor asked permission to read excerpts from a 1942 radio address by President Roosevelt, which he said showed an early Allied intent to bring to justice Axis leaders and henchmen for inciting war.

Webb cautioned the florid-faced American against making "inflammatory statements" which might prejudice the court.

After consultation when Keenan assured them he would keep within bounds of decency and good taste, the nine justices permitted him to quote Roosevelt, Stalin, Churchill and Chiang Kai-shek.

ITALY'S EX-KING WELCOMED TO EGYPT BY KING FAROUK

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 13 (UP)—Vittorio Emmanuelle III of Italy and former Queen Helena began their self-imposed exile today as guests of the Egyptian government.

They arrived yesterday aboard an Italian war ship and were greeeted by King Farouk. Royal guardsmen stood at attention as the former Italian monarch mounted the steps from the quayside.

THREE MISTAKEN FOR JEWS, LYNCHED BY BUDAPEST MOB

BUDAPEST, May 13 (UP)—Mobs, incited by Hungarian Nazis and carrying anti-Semitic placards, lynched three workmen in Budapest suburbs Saturday and Sunday.

Police fired into a mob in the suburb of Pesterzsebet and saved one man from being hanged after he had been gravely wounded. None of the lynched workmen was a Jew, though the mobs evidently suspected that all were.

TWO TEXAS CITIES HIT BY STRANGE EPIDEMIC

San Antonio Schools Closed —Corpus Christi Forbids Public Gatherings.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 13 (AP)—San Antonio's schools were closed today as a strange, polio-like sickness spread over this city of nearly half a million persons. At Corpus Christi, 175 miles south, even more drastic measures were taken, with officers patrolling highways to prevent children and youths from entering Nueces county and public gatherings of more than five persons barred.

Fifteen cases already have been reported in this city, crowded with military personnel. Four persons have died. At Corpus Christi, four cases have been reported.

In Nueces county, of which Corpus Christi is a part, the city and health boards closed all schools, churches, theaters, night clubs, parks, playgrounds and swimming pools for two weeks and prohibited public gatherings of more than five persons.

In San Antonio, an earlier city order closing schools in half the city was extended yesterday to include all schools, public and parochial, and university and college classes were ordered curtailed.

Dr. Edwin Sulkin and Dr. Charles L. Wisseman Jr. of the Southwestern Medical College bacteriology department at Dallas arrived here yesterday and began testing cultures taken from victims.

Dr. Sulkin said he is going on the assumption that the epidemic might be both poliomyletic and encephalitic in nature. He explained that poliomyletis, of which infantile paralysis is one form, attacks the spine, while encephalitis, known as sleeping sickness, attacks the brain.

Dr. George W. Edgerson of the Corpus Christi Health Board described the malady as resembling polio and yellow fever. He said it had been so quickly fatal at San Antonio that it had been impossible definitely to establish its symptoms.

Both cities planned widespread use of DDT to kill disease-bearing insects.

30 YEARS FOR JAP CIVILIAN

MANILA, May 13 (AP)—Toshieke Nakada, Japanese civilian propaganda expert, was sentenced today to 30 years' imprisonment at hard labor for participating in the massacre of some 650 Chinese at San Pablo, in Laguna province, last spring.

Nakada was the last of five Japanese to be convicted of participating in the massacre.

VETERAN HOUSING BILL APPROVED BY HOUSE, 298 TO 71, SENT TO SENATE

Measure for 2,700,000 Homes in Two Years, Subsidies on Scarce Materials, May Go to President by Night.

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—By a 298 to 71 roll call vote, the House today stamped its approval on veterans housing legislation intended to facilitate construction of 2,700,000 homes by private enterprise in two years.

The compromise measure embodied $400,000,000 in subsidies designed to increase production of scarce building materials. It is expected to receive quick Senate approval and may be forwarded to President Truman's desk by nightfall.

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—The National Association of Home Builders today advised Government housing officials the output of critical building materials is "totally inadequate" to meet the Administration's goal of building 2,700,000 homes in two years.

Unless the Government takes "vigorous" action and solves the problem, "veterans a year from now will still be waiting for the homes promised them," the association said in a statement to Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt Jr., at the opening of a four-day meeting of the organization's 139 directors.

Simultaneously, the Builders' Weekly News Letter said the problem of building veterans' homes is "far more serious than anything we experienced during the war."

Unfinished After a Year.

"Some projects started more than a year ago are not yet completed through lack of hardwood flooring, radiation or other materials," the letter said:

"Workmen with an eye on the rapidly disappearing pile of materials reduce their production accordingly. . . . Projects ranging from a few (dwelling) units to as many as 3000 are presently being abandoned."

The association's statement to Wyatt asserted a scarcity of 15 materials threatens the success of President Truman's emergency program, despite Government reports of improvement in supplies.

The group presented to Wyatt and OPA Administrator Paul Porter the findings of an industry survey, naming the materials and recommending remedial action—in most cases, higher prices.

Builders have started an estimated 171,000 dwellings, said Joseph Meyerhoff, Baltimore builder and association president, while priorities have been obtained for 300,000 more since Jan. 1.

Trying to Do the Job.

"This shows that the home builders of America are trying to do the job," his statement said. "However, if with this start we find the supply of building materials inadequate, how can we get into full scale production?"

The 15 "totally inadequate" items, said the survey, are asphalt shingles, insulation board, clay sewer pipe, soil pipe, gypsum board and lath, hardwood flooring, warm air furnaces, pipe and fittings, bath tubs, pine and fir doors, millwork, and softwood lumber and plywood.

EX-WIFE OF R. B. ROBINS SUES FORMER MRS. A. R. LINDBURG

Suit for $100,000 damages alleging alienation of affections was filed in circuit court at Clayton today against Neva Lindburg Robins by Beatrice F. Robins, whose divorced husband, Russell B. Robins, married the former Mrs. Lindburg in California last month.

The suit asks $50,000 actual and an equal sum in punitive damages and requests a decree declaring a residence at 4 Huntleigh Woods, Huntleigh Village, the property of Mrs. Neva Robins, for the purposes of a judgment.

Robins, now manager of an automobile agency in San Francisco, was sales manager for Arthur R. Lindburg, automobile dealer, who was divorced April 17 on grounds of desertion and general indignities. Three days later Mrs. Lindburg married Robins, whose wife obtained a divorce March 21. The Robinses formerly lived at 2105 Briargate lane, Kirkwood, and the Lindburgs at the Huntleigh Woods address.

LARGER ALLOWANCE OF SUGAR FOR HOME CANNING LIKELY

WASHINGTON, May 13 (UP)—Sufficient sugar may be available to give housewives a larger allowance of home canning sugar this year, the Department of Commerce said today on the basis of estimates that civilian supplies will be 341,000 tons greater than last year. It said the annual household ration of 15 pounds a person probably can be maintained.

Last year's canning sugar allowances totaled seven pounds per application. This year, a spare stamp good for five pounds of canning sugar already has been validated by OPA. Another spare stamp good for five pounds more probably will be validated in June or July.

The department said the increase in the sugar supply will come chiefly from the domestic sugar beet crop. Last year's total was 5,092,000 tons.

SEOUL, May 13 (AP) — The United States military government today ordered the nationalizing of three Korean railroads by May 17 "to develop an integrated national system of railway transportation."

Metropolitan Opera Back in St. Louis After 36 Years, 'Tannhauser' Tonight

Company of 300 Singers, Dancers and Musicians to Take Part in Brilliant Opening — Three Performances.

The Metropolitan Opera, nearing the end of its most extensive tour in many years, will crown St. Louis's winter musical season with the first of three performances tonight in the convention hall of Kiel Auditorium.

Not since 1910, when the young tenor, Enrico Caruso, and the world-famous Alma Gluck headed the cast, has the "Met" visited St. Louis. Tonight's opening is expected to rival in brilliance the first night of 36 years ago, described by a reviewer of the day as "a majestic spectacle."

Most of the heavily-laden opera company arrived yesterday in special railroad cars from Chicago, with Kerstin Thorborg, Norman Cordon, Thelma Votipka, Martha Lipton, Lucille Browning, Leonard Warren and Richard Manning in the vanguard of stars.

Others who will play principal roles in the productions here—Torsten Ralf, Rise Stevens, Licia Albanese, Jan Peerce, Patrice Munsel, Ezio Pinza and others—were to arrive today or tomorrow. St. Louis's own Helen Traubel was a Saturday night arrival.

Travel Troubles.

Shepherding the huge company of 300 singers, dancers, musicians and administrative personnel, which traveled en masse in a circus-like caravan until the coal shortage last week put a crimp in rail transportation, was Edward Johnson, pleasant little gray-haired manager of the Metropolitan.

Adding to the "blue ribbon" character of the company are internationally known conductors Fritz Busch, Cesare Sodero and Wilfred Pelletier.

In its current tour, the Metropolitan is carrying its own scenery and properties, something never before attempted. This, in itself, involves the not inconsiderable feat of putting up, taking down and transporting tons of equipment and still opening performances on time. The trick is sending the sets on to the next stop as soon as a performance is completed even though the company has an engagement of several nights.

Little Acclaim at Station.

The world-renowned singing stars went virtually unnoticed on their arrival late yesterday at Union Station. Crowds such as usually greet motion picture stars and noted radio and stage artists were singularly absent, and only a relatively few persons in the station midway were attracted by the flash of photographer's bulbs as the "Met" principals alighted.

They arrived in two special cars attached to the regular Chicago-St. Louis train of the Alton Railroad and were preceded by several cars earlier in the afternoon carrying the orchestra of 90, the chorus of 90 and the ballet of 40.

The company appeared in good-spirits after a week's engagement in Chicago which was beset with difficulties stemming from that city's dim-out under coal conservation regulations. Johnson and many of the principals said they were looking forward to the St. Louis engagement because of the city's reputation as a center of musical culture and especially because it marks the return of the "Met" after such a long absence.

Fritz Busch on Podium.

Fritz Busch, distinguished German opera and concert conductor who will be on the podium tonight for "Tannhauser," recalled that he received an invitation 25 years ago to become permanent conductor of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra. He was unable to accept because of other commitments and never visited the city, although he has traveled widely in this country since leaving Germany because of Nazism in 1933.

Tall, heavy set and silver-haired, Busch has bright blue eyes whose twinkle relieves a stern countenance. Interviewed in his Park Plaza Hotel suite with his son-in-law, Martial Singher, baritone, who will play the role of Wolfram in the opening production, the maestro waved his expressive hands as he joked: "'Tannhauser' conducted by Busch in St. Louis! What could be more appropriate—'Tannhauser'—Busch!"

Kerstin Thorborg, Swedish mezzo-soprano who will sing Venus in the Wagnerian opera, also is visiting St. Louis for the first time. Leaving the company after tonight's performance, she will fly to New York and embark Saturday for Sweden. "I haven't been there for seven years and I'm homesick," she exclaimed in a pleasing accent.

She expressed the view that America has become the music center of the world, attested by the enthusiastic audiences she has appeared before in the "Met" tours and in recital. "Americans love music," she said, "and why not? You have the best music, the best orchestras and the best conductors. I love America, but I don't like crooning."

Another of the "Met" stars who has a fond recollection of St. Louis is Norman Cordon, bass-baritone who will sing the role of Landgraf Hermann in "Tannhaeuser." It was when he was appearing here in 1936 with a special company in "Lucia" that he received a telegram from Johnson offering him a contract with the Metropolitan. Also it was in "Tannhaeuser" that Cordon made his St. Louis debut in 1935.

Cordon, tall, slender and bald, said the "Met's" current tour, while thoroughly enjoyable, has been somewhat tiring and he is looking forward to a summer of golf and fishing in the North Carolina mountains. "I only regret that I could not be in St. Louis during the Municipal Opera season," he said. "I have heard a great deal about it and would like very much to see it."

St. Louis Stars of the Past.

The reappearance of the Metropolitan here recalls almost forgotten names of grand opera stars of past years who were born or reared in St. Louis—Letitia Fritch, Marion Telva, Edith Mason, Stella DeMette, Elda Vettori and June Noria, known to St. Louis neighbors as Josephine Ludwig.

The Metropolitan appeared here seven times in the 1880s and 1890s, presenting more than 30 performances, and followed with other visits in 1901, 1906, 1907 and 1910. All of the great stars of that era sang at the old Olympic Theater, the St. Louis Exposition and Music Hall and the 1910 company in the Coliseum.

For the current Metropolitan engagement, the Missouri Historical Society has opened a special exhibit entitled "St. Louis Goes to the Opera, 1837-1941," at Jefferson Memorial in Forest Park. It will continue to May 31.

Predicts U. S. Will Become Exporter of Opera Stars

Edward Johnson, Metropolitan Manager, Says War Has Shifted Emphasis in Search for American Singers.

The United States will become an exporter of grand opera stars instead of an importer as in former years because of the war-engendered necessity of developing American singers for the opera stage in the opinion of Edward Johnson, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera.

In St. Louis with the Metropolitan company for a three-night engagement, Johnson said the world-famous "Met" has achieved a unique position through its talent quest among native Americans, who have become the mainstay of the Metropolitan singing group.

"In the old days attention was centered on a few big names like Caruso," he said, "but now, thanks to radio and the general high level of musical appreciation among younger persons, the emphasis has shifted to the entire production and the organization as a whole. Also, the public is conscious of the conductor, who commands a very important position in the grand opera of today."

Credited With Saving 'Met.'

Johnson, credited with being the "savior" of the Metropolitan, said that audiences today want a good show, which demand has resulted in the static performances of the "old days" being condemned to oblivion. "Now we not only have singing of the finest quality, but also drama," he said. "We have excellent stage directors to insure good acting and the result has been remarkable in audience reaction."

Now in his twenty-fourth year with the Metropolitan, the last 11 as manager, Johnson said the organization's success of recent years and especially the rise of unknown young American singers into foremost stars have given him a glow of pride. "I'm like the man with a racing stable who won the Kentucky Derby," he said laughingly.

The current seven-week tour has proven a huge financial success but last week's engagement in Chicago was completed under extreme difficulty. Because of the dim-out imposed by the coal shortage, a Lake Michigan steamer was run up the Chicago river behind the Civic Opera House and its diesel engines produced the power for the auditorium lights. In one performance, a fuse blew out and the audience sat in the dark for a half hour while it was repaired.

Played to 150,000 on Tour.

"We are making the tour in response to public demand," said Johnson. "We could close up the New York house and do nothing but tour; in the seven cities visited thus far we've played to more than 150,000 persons. Radio broadcasting has provided an extraordinary audience, more vast than we ever dreamed of, and we found that most of our listeners want to see opera 'in the flesh.'"

It was Johnson who took over the Metropolitan in 1935 when it was in an acknowledged state of retrogression and financial embarrassment and who not only turned the tide but restored it to a high plane.

BILL SEEKS TO BAR CITY INCOME, USE AND SALES LEVIES

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 13—All municipalities in Missouri would be prohibited from levying city income, sales or use taxes, under a bill introduced in the House this afternoon by Representative William Jones (Dem), of St. Louis.

Jones, operator of a St. Louis tavern, said the measure was directed primarily at the St. Louis income tax measure proposed recently by Mayor Aloys P. Kauffmann, as a means of raising additional revenue for operation of the city government.

"We pay too many kinds of taxes now," Jones told a Post-Dispatch reporter, "without having to pay a city income tax, too. A lot of people have been complaining to me about this proposed city income tax."

COLLEGE GROUP TO ACT IN FIRINGS AT BRENTWOOD

Association Gets No Reply to Inquiries About 'Arbitrary' Dismissal of 10 Teachers.

The Missouri State Committee of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools today announced its purpose to take action on charges filed with it against the Brentwood School Board, following the dismissal of 10 teachers and the resignation, April 12, of Superintendent John E. Holman.

John Rufi, professor of education at the University of Missouri and chairman of the Missouri committee, released for publication the text of four letters, written within the last five weeks, in which the Brentwood board was asked to reply to the charge that it had dismissed teachers arbitrarily and without consulting the superintendent, as required by the association's code.

No Official Reply.

Chairman Rufi said the Brentwood board had disregarded the requests for an official statement in reply to the charge, and that he had received no word, except a personal letter from E. Eugene Clark, president of the Brentwood school board. Clark said he was writing unofficially, and that he had not presented the matter to the board.

In a letter written to the secretary of the Brentwood board May 4, Rufi said the organization had possession of documents specifically charging: (1) That the Brentwood board has abruptly taken action which will terminate the services of teachers, eight teachers being named, and that this was done contrary to the superintendent's recommendation; (2) that the board's policies are not "such as to attract and retain well-qualified and competent teachers"; (3) that the board's relationship with the superintendent and the high school principal have not been such as to "insure efficient and successful administration"; and (4) that the board engaged in staff promotion without the superintendent's recommendation.

The chairman's letter stated that, if an answer were not filed by the Brentwood board within a reasonable time, the association would feel free to take appropriate action. He stated today that this time limit had expired.

5 CHIMPANZEES ZOO GOT IN TRADE ARRIVE BY PLANE

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

Five new, young chimpanzees acquired from the Armand Denis anthropoid research laboratory of Dania, Fla., in a trade for five older apes arrived here early today and were introduced to their new quarters at the Zoo.

The youngsters, which will be trained to take part in next year's monkey show, seemed in good spirits as they frolicked around the training addition to the ape house. They showed no qualms about parting company with Mrs. Leila Roosevelt Denis, their former owner.

Mrs. Denis said the animals slept most of the time during the seven-hour flight. Tomorrow she will take the five older apes the laboratory is buying for breeding purposes on a trip to Chicago and then will return with them to Dania.

One of the pets which is making the Florida trip is Lady, a former star in the monkey show and the mother of Oofy, a neophyte performer.

BALL PARK BOTTLE THROWER FINED $500

Frank B. Boston, 42-year-old maintenance man, was fined $500 and costs by Police Judge George J. Grellner today on his plea of guilty to a charge of throwing a beer bottle at Stanley Musial, Cardinal left fielder, during a baseball game yesterday. The bottle did not hit Musial.

Detective Ashel Robb told the court he had brought two witnesses with him to testify that Boston did not act maliciously but had thrown the bottle as a result of the general excitement of the fans at the game, the second game of a doubleheader between the Cardinals and the Cincinnati Reds.

Boston, who gave his address as 4952 McPherson avenue, said he had not intended to hit Musial, but only wished to scare him. Judge Grellner termed the act "an unsportsmanlike way to treat a ball player."

The maintenance man, who had been sitting in the second row of the bleachers, threw the bottle as Musial backed up to the wall to catch a long fly. Police said he was arrested to protect him from possible "bodily damage" when other spectators became angry after Boston threw the bottle.

A hearing on Boston's application for a writ of habeas corpus was to be held in the court of Judge Louis B. Comerford of the Court of Criminal Correction later today.

Capt. Robert E. Duncan of the Naval Hospital said today that Cochran was gradually improving and probably he would be allowed to return to his apartment in several weeks.

'I AM AMERICAN DAY' SPEAKER TO BE AMVET COMMANDER

Harvey M. Fisher, commander of the Maplewood Post of Amvets, will speak on "Unity in Peace" at a meeting in observance of the annual "I Am an American Day" next Sunday at 3 p.m. at Beaumont High School Auditorium. Fisher, a lawyer, was an agent in the Army's Criminal Investigation Division in Europe for two and a half years.

Sponsors of the program include the St. Louis Public Schools, the Federal Immigration and Naturalization Service, International Institute, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, St. Louis nationality groups, and the Urban League. The day will be part of a nation-wide program in honor of 2,000,000 men and women who became citizens in the past year, either through naturalization or by becoming 21 years old. Recently-naturalized citizens and St. Louisans who recently attained their majority have been invited to attend.

MARSHALL HOLDS CHINA LOAN VETO TO BACK U.S. AIMS

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall is holding an absolute veto over a $500,000,000 American loan to China, one of the strongest grants of power ever made by a President to an American envoy to back up United States policies in a foreign country.

The Chinese loan is cited by diplomatic authorities as a striking example of the extent to which President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes have carried their new policy of bargaining for American aims with American dollars.

In another application the State Department has suspended credits to Poland—involving $90,000,000 in cash and surplus was property—until it can determine whether the Polish Government intends to grant promised political freedoms.

Dollars Versus Ideologies.

On still another financial front, Treasury Secretary Vinson, French negotiator Leon Blum and Export-Import Bank officials may make the financial decisions this week necessary to release about $650,000,000 to France and make available war goods and other credits to give the French total assistance of substantially more than $1,200,000,000.

While officials are wary on the subject, every indication is that the timing on the French elections in June. Privately, American officials make no denial that they would like to strengthen Foreign Minister George Bidault's Popular Republican Movement and Leon Blum's Socialist party against the Communists.

In the case of China, the loan is being used directly for political effect. When Marshall was sent to China last December, Truman announced that the United States would regard financial aid for China favorably to the extent that the Chinese put their house in order.

Conditional Aid for China.

Marshall returned here in March and had several conferences with Truman. The Chinese had once filed for credits and cash of $2,000,000,000. At that time they were well on the way to getting $500,000,000. The loan was being negotiated by the central government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

But Marshall is said to regard his problem as being to bring the central government and Chinese Communists together in the interest of strengthening China. The loan, which was about ready for Export-Import Bank action, was held up and Marshall was assured of his full control over that, as over all other aspects of American relations with China under the President.

While he was in this country a formula he had worked out for keeping peace and slowly merging the Communist and central government forces broke down under the stress of disputes in Manchuria. Since he returned to China, Marshall's problem has been to recover from this setback.

His most practical tool in doing so has been his control of the loan. American troops have been cut to little more than 30,000, mostly marines doing guard duty.

BOWLES GETS PARTY ASSENT TO SEEK SENATORIAL SEAT

HARTFORD, Conn., May 13 (UP)—The Hartford Courant says that United States Senator Brien McMahon, head of the Democratic party in Connecticut, has withdrawn his opposition to the political aspirations of Chester Bowles and the economic stabilization director consequently may have the Democratic nomination for the Senate in the fall elections.

The newspaper said that Bowles and McMahon reached an amicable understanding at a luncheon in Washington last week at which McMahon told Bowles he could have either the guebrnatorial or senatorial nomination in Connecticut. Bowles was said to have chosen to run for the Senate.

Friends of Bowles here report that he will leave his present Washington post late this summer to make the race for the Senate. The incumbent, Thomas Hart, a Republican, holds the seat under an interim appointment and plans to retire. He was appointed last year to fill out the term of office of the late Senator Francis Mahoney.

THIEVES TAKE $5500 FROM FLORIST'S SAFE

Two Ex-Convicts Held for Questioning in Theft at Nettie's Flower Garden.

More than $5500 in cash, representing proceeds from the pre-Mother's Day rush for flowers, and a diamond stickpin valued at $150 were stolen last night or early otayd from a safe in the Nettie's Flower Garden, 3801 South Grand boulevard, George Kirt, manager, reported to police today.

He said entrance to the store was gained by breaking a padlock on an iron door at the rear of the hothouse. The combination was knocked off the safe in a balcony office.

James (Red) Cooper, an ex-convict who is under burglary and larceny charges for a theater safe robbery, was arrested today by police as he left the courtroom of Circuit Judge David J. Murphy and was held for questioning in the flower shop burglary.

Harvey Miller, an ex-convict, notorious safe-cracker and an associate of Cooper, also was arrested for questioning in the case. He currently is on trial in circuit court at Clayton on burglary and larceny charges and is at liberty on appeal bond after receiving sentences totaling 20 years in two other cases.

Cooper had surrendered on a bond forfeiture after he had failed to appear for trial last week before Judge Murphy on charges growing out of the theft of $5500 from a safe in the Northside Theater last Sept. 4. After posting a new bond, he was picked up by detectives in the corrider of the Municipal Courts building.

A safe containing $2724, the proceeds of a special service yesterday, was stolen last night or early today from Calvary Baptist Church, 2822 Easton avenue, the Rev. Itelus Moore, Negro, pastor of the church, reported to police. The money was raised at the church's annual ushers' day service, attended by representatives of all Negro Baptist churches in St. Louis.

AFL OPENS DRIVE FOR TWO-PARTY SYSTEM IN SOUTH

William Green Kept Off Air in Asheville, N. C., When Radio Wires Are Cut.

ASHEVILLE, N.C., May 13 (AP)—Southern AFL leaders set out today to destroy the one-party system in the South, but the one party that interested them immediately was the party who cut William Green off the air.

The puzzle of the "dead" microphone into which the AFL president shouted for 15 minutes Saturday night produced these new developments:

1. An Asheville AFL leader who asked to remain unidentified offered a $100 reward for capture of the person who cut the wires.

2. A group of 50 federation leaders adopted a resolution asking Attorney General Clark to order the Federal Bureau of Investigation to investigate the case.

3. George Cooge, AFL Southern representative, announced that a recording was made of Green's speech and that it would be broadcast "over practically every radio station in this country within 48 hours."

The AFL's Southern labor conference, which ended yesterday indorsed Negro voting in the South.

It approved a policy statement saying "Organized labor will make this right to vote effective in all Southern states, and this revolution will end rule by one party in the South."

The statement declared that "the two-or-more party system is the only wholesome condition for the development of democratic practices." (Negroes are voting in some Southern state primaries this year for the first time.)

AFL SOLIDLY BEHIND LEWIS, SAYS GREEN

By SPENCER R. McCULLOCH
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ASHEVILLE, N.C., May 13—The American Federation of Labor is solidly behind John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers in the position he has taken against the coal mine operators, William Green, president of the federation, said yesterday.

Green, who commented on the coal situation at the conclusion of a two-day southern organization meeting of the AFL, told the Post-Dispatch the federation was backing Lewis "without reservation."

Green, a former officer of the UMW, said that there was a "crying need" for the health protection of the miners. He expressed himself as hopeful that a peaceful settlement could be reached in the mine fields. The AFL Executive Council, Green disclosed, will discuss the coal mining situation as well as other current developments at its quarterly meeting convening in Washington Wednesday.

Detailed policies of the AFL postwar southern organization drive were approved yesterday by 2000 delegates from 11 states. One of the primary attributes of the campaign is to label the CIO as Communistic and to attack its organization campaign as a subterfuge to conceal political objectives.

In adopting the recommendation of a policy committee, the conference decided to concentrate the membership drive on unorganized members of seven industries. They embrace workers in textiles, garments, lumber, chemicals, office workers, service trades employes and public employes, including those on the federal and state payrolls.

Politically, the conference went on record as committed to a nonpartisan policy of "rewarding our friends and punishing our enemies."

It took an indirect slap at the Political Action Committee of the CIO by saying that political control by one group would result in group dictatorship.

"As believers in self-government," the approved resolution stated, "we resent invasion from other communities to direct our use of the ballot as well as our use of economic power. We know too well with what irresponsibility and unconcern for our welfare carpet-baggers seek to carry out missions assigned to them by outsiders. We welcome advice and co-operation, but as free workers we must accept responsibility for our own lives and make our own decisions."

Speakers at the final session of the conference, which climaxed 16 years of organization activities in the South, principally in skilled trades and crafts, included Gerard D. Reilly, senior member of the National Labor Relations Board, and Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution.

Reilly, who detailed the work of the board, said that collective bargaining had not reached all industrial plants and warned that in the near future acceptance of it "in certain areas" may be put to a severe test. He recalled that after the First World War the "open shop plan" left a wake of "disrupted unionism."

McGill asserted that the "great majority of Southern employers were not hostile to organized labor but he complained of a lack of popular knowledge of labor's objectives. He urged union responsibility and an appreciation of community welfare.

COAL STRIKE HELPS PUT OUT LIGHTS IN LEWIS'S HOME TOWN

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 13 (AP)—The coal strike helped put the lights out in John L. Lewis's home town last night for an hour.

To conserve coal, the boilers in the Alexandria power station had been banked and the city was being served with power from a central plant at Charlottesville, Va.

The transmission line went out after a thunderstorm and it was an hour, company officials reported, before the boilers in the Alexandria station could be put into full service, to provide steam for the local generators.

75 per cent, but we're lucky if we grind 40 per cent of our normal amount," George Utter, St. Louis manager for Larabee Flour Mills Co., told a reporter.

E. M. Holcomb, manager of the St. Louis office of General Mills, Inc., said, "We have enough flour to handle contract customers for maybe a couple of weeks, but our mills in Kansas City, Chicago and Wichita will run out of wheat this week."

Several bakers reported they were not receiving flour shipments from millers and their stocks were lower than the 30-day supply permitted by the Government.

A spokesman for a large wholesale bakery here said his organization had been forced to turn down out-of-town requests for bread in order to maintain a reduced supply for retail outlets here. He said his firm would be able to maintain deliveries for about 30 days in "greatly reduced amounts."

Archie Milton, production manager of the Ward Baking Co., said his firm had reduced production by 25 per cent in co-operation with the Government orders restricting milling, and said curtailed operations would continue at least until the end of June.

Possibility of further curtailment this summer because of a shortage of moisture in grain-raising areas in Nebraska, Kansas and the Texas Panhandle was feared by several millers.

a two-fold task: One, to help India's parties set up constitutional machinery for the long-range objective of Indian independence; two, to assist the formation of the interim government which will rule India under the Viceroy's supervision during the period which must elapse until the constitution can be drafted and made effective.

Having explored every avenue of agreement between the Indian parties without success, the British are now faced with the necessity of taking the initiative. Their problem is a serious one. In the absence of inter-party agreement, no matter what decision they take, they risk offending one party or the other, with all the consequences that it implies.

Positions of Two Parties.

While the British have not shown their hand, it is generally believed that shortly after their return to New Delhi, they will state the views of the Indian problem, based on their month and a half of investigation, and possibly also propose a solution. The very least that is expected is a formation, through the Viceroy, Lord Wavell, of an interim government, although this would be difficult to accomplish without also involving long-range constitutional questions.

The Congress party, which hopes to take the dominant role in the interim administration, demands that the British declare India free, and simultaneously transfer power to the interim government which would then work out its own constitutional destiny.

The Moslem League, headed by M. A. Jinnah, opposes this idea, not only on the grounds that its views would be swamped by Congress majority, but because it refuses to participate in any interim government until the principle of Pakistan (a separate Moslem state) is recognized.

Gandhi Clings to Hope.

Last night's concluding meeting of the Simla conference followed a day of foreboding with rumors of impending failure on almost everybody's tongue. Everybody, that is, except Mohandas K. Gandhi, whose evening prayers, on a hill only a mile or two from the Viceregal Lodge, happened to coincide with the last conference session. Gandhi voiced a note of hope and warned his audience not to be taken in by newspaper rumors.

A crowd of several hundred Indians was waiting outside the main entrance to the Viceregal grounds when the delegations came out singly and in pairs. The mountain tops resounded with cries of "long live Pakistan," and answering shouts of "you can't have Pakistan."

As Maulana Azad, Moslem, who is the retiring president of the Congress party, passed in his rickshaw, a Moslem League partisan denounced him as a traitor to the Moslem cause. The police immediately seized the offender. Later, in Simla's crowded bazaar district, the police broke up an impending riot between slogan-shouting bands of the Congress party and Moslem League followers.

The minor but disturbing happenings are symptomatic of the feeling aroused between the two camps throughout the country over the Pakistan issue, which was the reef on which the Simla negotiations broke. It was apparently to reduce the possibility of disorders that the conference communique issued a statement to the following effect, "the Cabinet mission desires to emphasize that no blame can be placed on either party for breakdown of the conference as both sides did their utmost to come to a settlement."

Correspondence that passed between the parties during the tripartite conference will be published within a few days. Only then will it be possible fully to assess the results of this abortive series of meetings.

From the very beginning, however, the auguries were for failure. What little hope existed was based on the scant chance that one or the other party, in the face of a showdown, would back down from its fundamental position. From the British point of view, the effort to bring the parties together was necessary, firstly, to clarify the issues beyond any question of doubt, secondly, to narrow differences to their minimum limits, and thirdly, to demonstrate conclusively that inter-party agreement was impossible before proceeding to unilateral action.

The conversations, which began eight days ago, have been featured by stubborn refusal of both camps to compromise on the basic question of a united or divided India, although there were superficial concessions from both sides.

The Moslem League, while standing firmly on the proposition of dividing India into sovereign groupings of predominantly Hindu and predominantly Moslem provinces, offered to sacrifice certain limited power to a union center.

The Congress party, which stands for a united India, would accept the idea of groupings only on the basis of a strong government and legislature at the center, with powers far more extensive than the Moslem League was willing to consider. The Moslem League wanted a separate constitution for Pakistan and Hindustan. Congress adherents were adamant in demanding a single constitution for all India.

The Moslem League would talk of central legislature only if the Congress party would concede sub-legislatures to two proposed groupings. This suggestion was rejected.

The question of arbitration came up toward the end of the conference, but was dropped. The Moslems were reported to have refused arbitration on the basic demand for Pakistan, although they were willing to submit to arbitration on details.

MINERS WILL GET $3,000,000 BACK HOLIDAY WAGES

happen to those who declined to work in the 12-day truce.

Compensation officials at Harrisburg, Pa., were seeking legal advice as to whether a renewed walkout might be considered part of the original walkout or must be considered as a new stoppage.

State-by-State Survey.

Elsewhere in the nation—for two weeks at least—the coal strike appeared to be over, although the return to work got off to a slow start in some states.

A state-by-state survey showed:

WEST VIRGINIA — Most of state's 104,000 union miners back at work. Six mines employing 3350 remain idle in local disputes with union.

KENTUCKY—Many UMW operations still idle but bulk of men due to return to pits today.

OHIO—90 per cent of 20,000 miners in District 6 at work or arranging to return.

ILLINOIS—Walter James, state secretary and treasurer of the UMW, said most miners observing the truce, with 23,000 Illinois miners back on jobs.

MISSOURI-KANSAS — All the 1500 miners reported back at work.

INDIANA — About half the state's 8000 miners returned to the pits, with the remainder expected back tomorrow.

ALABAMA—About 5000 of a total of 23,000 were digging coal today. Failure of return-to-work telegrams to reach many locals caused delay.

IOWA—The state's 1500 UMW workers still idle, pending meetings today and tomorrow with operators to discuss truce terms.

WASHINGTON—21 locals voted a work return.

OKLAHOMA - ARKANSAS—4000 miners going back to work.

NEW MEXICO—1300 returning to pits.

Lewis's "Contribution."

Lewis had asked his men to return to their jobs for the next 12 work days as a "contribution . . . to our nation's economy."

Coal mined in that period, he said, can be diverted to essential facilities "and the nation's health and security thus safeguarded while efforts to negotiate the contract continue."

In this connection, the Solid Fuels Administration assumed control of the entire output of the truce period, originally estimated at from 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 tons.

The agency gave top priority to railroads, utilities, laundries, hospitals, food processing plants, dairies, bakeries and refrigeration plants. They will get daily needs plus a 20-day reserve.

In the next preferential class will be industrial users, who will receive actual daily requirements and nothing more. Domestic consumers in distress or hardship will form a third group with preferred claims.

The Office of Defense Transportation, mindful of the potential results of its railroad freight embargo, lifted that restriction but retained the 25 per cent cut in railroad passenger service. Plans to make it a 50 per cent reduction by Wednesday were abandoned.

The ODT said also that circuses and carnivals were still barred from train travel unless they had special permits.

1474 Chess Book Brings $7600.

LONDON, May 13 (AP) — A book on chess published in 1474 and reputedly the second volume printed in the English language brought $7600 at a Southeby's auction today. It is "The Game and Playe of Chesse" by Jackobus de Cessolis, translated by William Caxton.

HOOVER REPORTS TO TRUMAN ON FOOD SHORTAGE

need for export of 14,484,000 tons of wheat and other cereals against an estimated available supply in the surplus countries of 10,897,000 tons. That means that about three-fourths of what is needed may be available.

What is needed is calculated in this report on the basis of about 14 ounces of bread a day in the famine areas. That is a couple of slices less than a loaf of bread, which usually weighs 16 ounces.

Meat And Fats Also.

Hoover's report dealt in terms of wheat and bread, he said, because cereals can provide 85 per cent of an emergency diet, but in addition we ought to make available as much meat and fats as we can.

"It is entirely too early to determine the crop outlook for next year, or the world policies that must be pursued next year in food distribution," Hoover said. "If we get through the year without another drouth there will be a drastic shift in the food balance sheet. There will be a breathing spell about Sept. 1, when the worst of the present crisis is over, and in September we should know more about what will be available for next year."

He ventured the guess that the problem in wheat would not be as acute next year as this, estimating that Europe's wheat crop this growing season would be about 75 per cent of prewar, instead of the 40 per cent last year.

Asked if he has seen any starvation on his tour, Hoover replied, "All our efforts to date have been to prevent starvation. There has been no great mass starvation. I don't mean to understate the difficulty, that doesn't mea nthat individuals haven't starved to death. And I doubt there is a country in the world today, with few possible exceptions, that has on hand more than a 30-day supply of food. The problem is to maintain the stream of food. If we were to stop tomorrow the situation would be dreadful."

Month-by-Month Summary.

In his report, Hoover submitted a month-by-month and country-by-country summary of food requirements in deficit areas and what should be expected in exports from surplus areas. In most cases, he said, the governments of the food-shortage countries had accepted his figures as to what would be their allotments. In the case of China, he said, the need was at least 500,000 tons a month, but the figure of 200,000 tons a month is used because he was assured that was all that could be transported inland from the seacoast to the famine areas.

Hoover, who is approaching his seventy-second birthday, arrived in Washington yesterday after his tour by air which took him 35,000 miles through 22 countries. He appeared to be fit after a night's rest and eager to discuss his assignment. Secretary of Agriculture Anderson joined him at the head of the table and occasionally answers to reporters' questions came as a result of collaboration between Hoover and Anderson.

Herbert Morrison also Sees Hoover on Food Situation.

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP) —Herbert Morrison, president of the British Council, discussed the food situation today with President Truman and told reporters a published report that he was asking Truman to ration meats and fats in the United States was "without foundation." Morrison said:

"Any idea of me telling the Americans what they are going to ration and what they are not going to ration is not on my agenda."

(In London, the political correspondent for the World, quoting the "highest authority," reported that Morrison would ask the President to ration meats and fats in the United States.)

Stabilization Director Chester Bowles was said to be planning to urge Truman to resort to wartime food rationing—with bread added to the list for the first time in American history. Bowles's suggestion, if it is made, will call for action by August, one official said.

On the domestic scene, meanwhile, the closing of Pillsbury's A mill at Minneapolis stood out as a grim reminder that the shortage of wheat can well make deep inroads into American eating habits. Unable to obtain grain for the first time in its 66-year history, the mill shut down Saturday night.

Truman has said repeatedly he would not hesitate to order wartime rationing restored if such action becomes essential. Thus far, however, he has taken the position that machinery could not be started up again in time to help in the current crisis, which officials first estimated would last only until this summer's crops are harvested.

B-29 SETS HAWAII-TO-U. S. RECORD; 7 HOURS, 14 MINUTES

HAMILTON FIELD, Calif., May 13 (AP)—An Army B-29 set a speed record of 7 hours 14 minutes yesterday for the flight from Hickam Field, Hawaii, to the mainland.

This mark was faster by 40 minutes than the record set May 5 by a Pan-American Constellation clipper.

The aircraft which made the flight—the "Fluffy Fuz V"—holds the speed record of 21 hours 30 minutes from Honolulu to Manila and was one of the three B-29s which flew non-stop from Tokyo to Washington last November in 27 hours 30 minutes.

The pilot was Lt. Col. R. L. Gould of Baltimore. Col. Gould was pilot also on the Tokyo-Washington hop.

Rise in Missouri Pensions.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 12 (AP)—The average check sent to Missouri old age assistance recipients this month was 45 cents higher than last month. The State Social Security Administration reported that the average check amounted to $28.02, with the total cost for the month $2,931,058. This was $67,456 more than the total for March.

SMALL BUSINESS IS BANK BUSINESS

A young salesman for a national food distributor was sold on the idea of opening a small super market. He had no capital, but fortunately he brought his plans here. His knowledge of the grocery business, his constructive ideas and his soundness of character were enough collateral for us, and we lent him the funds to get started. In a short time, his store has outgrown its original quarters, and he is planning broad expansion.

This is just one of the many personal success stories that make our business a highly gratifying one. In recent months alone, we have financed 71 different types of small business. These loans ranged from $500, and 87% of them averaged below $3500. If you need money to enter business, or if you need money for an established business, be sure to see Mississippi Valley Trust Company. Our business is meeting the financial needs of other businesses.

TRUMAN SENDS ROSES, MESSAGE TO MOTHER, WHO IS ILL

Later Makes Sunday Drive With Family and Mrs. Truman's Mother to Shangri La.

GRANDVIEW, Mo., May 13 (UP)—Confined to her bed by a slight cold, Mrs. Martha E. Truman, 93-year-old mother of the President, "talked" through her daughter to the Chief Executive yesterday and received from him a bouquet of three dozen American beauty roses as a Mother's day gift.

When the President telephoned Miss Mary Jane Truman, his sister, relayed his questions.

The President asked his sister to tell Mrs. Truman he would see her next weekend when he plans to receive an honorary degree from William Jewell College at Liberty, Mo.

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—President Truman drove to Shangri La, the wartime presidential retreat at Thurmont, Md., 80 miles from Washington.

Truman was accompanied by his wife, their daughter Margaret, and Mrs. Truman's mother, Mrs. David Wallace, who is visiting at the White House. The group returned to Washington in the late afternoon.

COALITION AGREES ON BILL AGAINST UNION ROYALTIES

Senate Debates Labor Measure — Administration Handling of Strike Assailed.

WASHINGTON, May 13 (UP)—9 bipartisan Senate group agreed today to support a labor law amendment which would forbid collection of royalties by unions.

They decided informally to support a proposal by Senator Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, aimed at the welfare fund royalty demand of John L. Lewis in the current soft-coal dispute.

The Senate group, meeting privately, sought to draw up a list of amendments to be offered to labor legislation pending in the Senate.

Other Proposals.

They also considered the tentatively approved the principle of sponsoring other amendments which would:

1. Establish compulsory mediation.
2. Require a 60-day cooling off period after the Federal Mediation Service has assumed jurisdiction of a dispute.
3. Require an additional 30-day period of delay before any strike in a dispute affecting public utilities.
4. Outlaw secondary boycotts.
5. Make unions liable to suit for breach of contract.

Among Senators participating in the meeting were Republicans Ball of of Minnesota, Smith of New Jersey and Knowland of California; and Democrats Ellender of Louisiana and Lucas of Illinois.

Ball said the group would work together in sponsoring the group of amendments to the pending watered-down version of the House-approved Case anti-strike bill.

The pending bill, as rewritten by the Senate Labor Committee, would merely set up a five-man federal mediation board without mandatory powers.

Senate Debate Opens.

Senate debate on the labor question opened today with Senator Willis (Rep.), Indiana, blaming the Truman administration for failure to end the coal strike.

Willis told the Senate that the Administration has used "loaded laws with a plain intent to gain political advantage."

He called for a congressional review of the Wagner Labor Relations Act, which he said was drawn to favor labor unions against employers. He urged examination of the Administration's activities in wartime labor disputes.

Willis urged that Congress not act hastily in enacting labor legislation, and that Lewis "should not be dignified" by aiming any bill approved directly at his activities.

In laying labor troubles at the White House door, Willis said that:

"Blame belongs first with the Democratic majority which passed the one-sided laws, secondly with the Democratic executive which deliberately through the years has administered even loaded laws with a plain intent to gain political advantage."

Accuses Congress.

Senator Murray (Dem.), Montana, chairman of the Labor Committee, accused Congress of being "remiss" in failing to pass labor legislation which "would have prevented occurrence of these strikes." He said Congress could do nothing now that would settle the soft coal dispute by legislation.

Murray said Congress had "given industry every opportunity to reconvert after the war" but had done nothing to aid labor in its reconversion.

Senator Lucas (Dem.), Illinois, demanded to know what Murray "proposed to do" in the event the coal strike is not settled.

"You can't settle it by legislation at the moment," Murray repeated angrily. "I'm no prophet, but I feel confident that a settlement will be made within a very few days."

Flashes of Life

Nothing New.

PORTLAND, Ore.—Two policemen found missing three-year-old Penny Morehouse on a bridge. She didn't want to go home. They tried to coax her by offering to let her hold a cop's shiny badge and listen to the patrol car radio. Coaxing failed.

Finally by "force" they delivered Penny home and were met by her father — Patrolman E. S. Morehouse.

No Brass.

WAUKEGAN, Ill.—Army records list him as General Johnson but he receives only a private's pay. General Johnson, that's his name, enlisted recently for a three-year hitch, the Waukegan army recruiting station reported.

Time.

FAIRFIELD, Ill.—Citizens can find the score of the latest battle between city and county authorities on the courthouse clock.

The clock was advanced an hour when the Fairfield city council put the county seat on daylight savings time. But the hands were moved back when Wayne county commissioners decided county offices would observe standard time.

COURT TO REHEAR HOLDING COMPANY DISPERSAL CASES

Supreme Justices Lack Quorum in Two Instances Because of Chief Justice's Death.

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—The Supreme Court today ordered reargument next term on two cases involving application of the death sentence clause of the Public Utility Holding Company Act.

The order stated that because of the death of Chief Justice Harlan Stone the tribunal lacked a legal quorum of six justices in the cases, three having disqualified. The cases were set for reargument in the week of Oct. 14.

One of the cases involves a Securities and Exchange Commission order requiring the Engineers Public Service Co. to dispose of properties and interests worth $30,000,000.

The other is an appeal from commission orders calling for dissolution of the American Power and Light Co. and the Electric Power and Light Corp. These firms are holding companies in the Electric Bond and Share Co. system.

The two cases have been pending since 1944. Justices Douglas, Reed and Jackson have disqualified themselves.

The court has upheld validity of the death sentence clause which requires utility holding companies to confine themselves to a single integrated system.

Tax Case Decision.

The court upheld 7 to 0 the right of a Pennsylvania county to tax machinery of a federal agency—the Defense Plant Corporation.

The opinion, by Justice Black, said that it had long been the rule in that state that all machinery necessary to operate a plant must be considered as a part of the real estate and as such taxable under the state's definition of the real property. It involved a plant in Borough township, Beaver County, Pa., which was leased to Curtiss-Wright Corp.

The court declined to review an award of $2 to New Woodville, Okla., for the taking of property by the Federal Government for construction of the Denison Dam and reservoir. New Woodville asked for $13,346 for town property destroyed.

The court agreed to review a decision that cashing in one state of a forged check drawn on a bank in another state is not a violation of the National Stolen Property Act.

STEEL UNION BARS STRIKES IN '46 EVEN IF OPA ENDS

Murray Says Agreement on Wages Will Be Kept — Urges Senate to Extend Price Controls.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 13 (AP)—Philip Murray says the CIO Steel Workers Union will abide by its wage agreement and avoid another 1946 strike even if Congress abandons the Office of Price Administration and junks inflation controls.

Murray, president of both the steel union and its parent CIO, told reporters here that, regardless of what happened, the union would keep its contractual bargain with the steel industry.

Nevertheless, Murray sent a strongly-worded telegram to Senate Majority Leader Barkley (Dem.), Kentucky, and Senate Minority Leader White (Rep.), Maine, urging that Congress extend the OPA and establish an "adequate minimum wage." By doing this, he said, Congress could speed reconversion.

Some labor leaders have said that abandonment of OPA would lead to a new series of wage demands on industry to compensate for an upsurge in living costs they expect if prices are left free to fluctuate.

Cites Commitment.

"We maintain our contractual commitments," Murray told reporters. "We are working under a contract now with the steel industry which expires Feb. 15."

That contract was negotiated after the 26-day strike which ended in mid-February, with an 18½-cent hourly pay increase for 850,000 steel workers.

Murray said wages would be one of the prime subjects for debate at the union's convention opening here tomorrow at which more than 2600 delegates are expected. Convention discussions on wages will be referred to the union's 250-man wage policy committee which will meet next fall to map its final wage program for 1947 contract talks with the steel industry.

A guaranteed annual wage, or an assured minimum annual pay for a worker, long has been a goal of the steel union and is slated to be discussed at the convention.

Action In '47 Indicated.

There are indications Murray will press for a guaranteed annual wage in 1947 contract negotiations as a security measure for steel workers, particularly if John L. Lewis succeeds in establishing a health and welfare fund in his current wage talks with the soft coal mine operators.

Murray wrote Barkley and White that Congress should defeat the House-approved Case strike-control bill now before the Senate. Instead, he said in his message, Congress could best help reconversion and labor-management relations by enacting strong inflation controls, a higher minimum wage, and pending health and social security measures.

"The record of this seventy-ninth Congress on bills for human welfare remains to be written before it adjourns to campaign for re-election," Murray declared. "Almost no legislation has been passed to date by the seventy-ninth Congress to benefit the average American.

Warning on Stampede.

"The executive board of the United Steel Workers of America urged the Senate of the United States to act in its best tradition as a deliberative body and not to allow itself to be stampeded into hasty and ill-conceived labor legislation.

"Congress has had previous ill-fated experience of legislating anti-labor laws in haste and leaving the country to repent at leisure.

"If Congress wishes to assist in orderly relations between management and labor, and desires to speed reconversion," Murray said, "It will act before adjournment to pass . . . bills . . . directed at the welfare of all Americans such as the pending health and social security measures.

"Failure to pass these needed bills for human reconversion from war to peace has contributed to the plight of American workers, organized and unorganized.

"Meanwhile the employers in America have received the most favored treatment by the tax legislation guaranteeing their prewar profits whether they operate or close down."

CENTRAL OFFICE FOR ALL PERMITS STUDIED BY CITY

Establishment of a central office in City Hall where all types of city permits would be issued is being considered, Director of Public Safety Charles J. Riley, told reporters today.

It has been estimated that a citizen seeking certain types of permits is frequently required to spend several hours visiting as many as five City Hall offices in order to comply with ordinance requirements before getting the permit. Under a central office system this "leg work" would be done by city employes and the applicant could return at a specified time for the document, Riley explained.

Late this week Building Commissioner A. H. Baum and Sim B. Comfort, secretary of the Board of Public Service, will go to Milwaukee to study a central permit system in operation in that city.

City Hall officials admit they do not know how many different permits are issued by the city, but several estimated that the number runs into the hundreds.

FLAGSHIP TO LEAVE BIKINI 4 HOURS BEFORE BOMB TEST

ABOARD U.S.S. MT. McKINLEY, EN ROUTE TO HONOLULU, May 13 (UP)—The U.S.S. Mt. McKinley, flagship of the Operations Crossroads fleet, will clear Bikini lagoon just three hours before detonation time, and will stand by to witness the blast from a distance of only 10 miles.

An operational schedule calls for V. Adm. W. H. P. Blandy's flagship to stay in the lagoon all night before each of the two test days, designated as "A-Day," July 1, and "B-Day," July 22.

MACMURRAY COLLEGE HONORS F. A. BEHYMER

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

F. A. Behymer, for 57½ years a member of the Post-Dispatch staff, was one of two recipients of the honorary degree of Master of Journalism at the commencement exercises of MacMurray College, Jacksonville, Ill., last night. The other honorary degree went to Charles N. Wheeler, political reporter for the Chicago Daily News. Former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota was the chief speaker at the commencement exercises.

Behymer, in his speech of acceptance of the honor, commended formal education for journalistic careers but told, whimsically, how he had managed to get along without it when the schools didn't provide it. Out of school at the age of 12, he said he wanted to do something that didn't require an education, so he took up writing.

"Grammar bothered me a little at first," he said, "sort of cramped my style, so I quit using it and went in strong for floating participles and split infinitives. If I do say it myself, I am really good at splitting those things. I don't know what they are but I split them anyhow, just to show that I can't be intimidated."

He had found, he said, that the best way to get along with editors is to break all the rules. "That gets them down," he said. "They don't know what to do about it. So they end up by putting your stuff in the paper, after which they tell you how awful it is. That is mostly what editors are for. They only occasionally tell you how good you are. At least they put it off until the last. Generally before they get around to it they die and you never find out how good you are."

He was not disparaging formal education, he hastened to say: "I am simply trying to laugh off my own lack of it. Maybe if I had had some of it I might have amounted to something. Maybe, though, I am not as dumb as I look, for see what has happened to me here."

Behymer, viewing the award as made on the basis of his long service, magnified the benefits that come with length of days. "Any way you look at it," he said, fifty-seven and a half years on the job makes me a very old man. But what of that? You expect me to say that I feel bad about it, but I'm not going to do it. Life begins at 76. What though the day is far spent, the twilight is sweetest. What though the night cometh, it bringeth rest and peace. And there's a voice: "Be of good cheer. Let not your heart be troubled. All is well.'"

JOBS FOR 225,000 DISABLED IN WAR USES MAJOR GOAL

It Is Sound Business for Employers to Hire Such Veterans, Says U. S. Official.

Placement of 225,000 disabled veterans in suitable jobs is the "first line of responsibility" of the United States Employment Service, K. Vernon Banta, chief of the disabled veterans' section of the service, told veterans' employment representatives at their twelfth annual conference today at Hotel Coronado.

The conference opened Saturday and will continue through Wednesday, when Gen. Omar N. Bradley, head of the Veterans' Administration, Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach and Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey are scheduled to take part in the closing discussions.

"Our approach to an employer, who is considering hiring a disabled veteran, is that it is sound business for him to employ the veteran," Banta said in a panel discussion of the problems of suitable job placement.

Employers, Veterans Aided.

"In promoting such employment we aid both the employer and the veteran in analyzing the physical, mental and occupational requirements of the job."

It is the responsibility and duty of the employment service to place disabled veterans and also develop proper jobs for those with difficult placement problems, the speaker said.

Increased job specifications by some employers is making the task of placing disabled veterans in jobs increasingly difficult, Banta stated. He said the understanding and co-operation of employers, trade groups and the public has assisted the employment service in making placements.

Telegram From Truman.

The following telegram was received today by the conference from President Truman: "It is a source of satisfaction to know that the twelfth annual conference of veterans' employment representatives is being held in Missouri. Two years have passed since I met with you in St. Louis. In this interval you have continued to look after the interests of veterans. In the field of employment you have recognized not only his values, but his needs. That your conference will be fruitful of courage and wisdom and practical help to the veteran is my ardent wish."

Service men are returning to civilian life older and with greater responsibilities, but without sufficient training or work experience to command the salaries they need, O. D. Hollenbeck, assistant head of veterans' employment service, told a panel group yesterday. "That is where on-the-job training seeks to fill the gap, providing needed training and, through subsistence allowances, a wage equal to that of a trade journeyman," Hollenbeck said.

Hollenbeck said a few cases had come to his attention in which employers hired veterans as salesmen, but kept them in a warehouse "learning stock" for months as cheap labor. He urged the setting up of a screening process by the employment service to determine if the veteran is qualified for the on-the-job training he applies for.

Representatives of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Disabled American Veterans announced to the conference that their organizations are pressing Congress to provide the employment service with funds required to carry out their programs.

GOV. WARREN'S HELP SOUGHT IN 11-DAY TRANSIT STRIKE

LOS ANGELES, May 13 (UP) —Intervention of Gov. Earl Warren of California in the 11-day Los Angeles transit strike was sought today in the hope some solution might be reached to end the walkout.

Mayor Fletcher Bowron, in an attempt to restore transportation to 1,000,000 street car and bus riders, urged resumption of mediation meetings and suggested appointment of an arbitrator.

Striking AFL employes accepted in principle the Mayor's arbitration proposal, but officers of the Los Angeles transit lines demurred until they could determine more about choice of an arbitrator.

STATE REFUSES TO INTERVENE IN LABOR DISPUTE AT BANK

JEFFERSON CITY, May 13 (AP)—M. E. Morris, state finance commissioner, advised James Davis, executive secretary of the state CIO, today that he had no authority to intervene in a labor dispute at the First National Bank in St. Louis.

Davis had asked for an investigation of letters allegedly sent the bank's employes "smearing the CIO." Morris told him, however, the bank was chartered by the national Government and he could not interfere with it.

Man Killed in Row Over 20 Cents.

William A. Turner, Negro, of 2738 Thomas street, was stabbed to death yesterday by Louis J. Brown, Negro, of 1105A North Leonard avenue. Police said Brown told them the stabbing occurred at Easton and Compton avenues after the men quarreled when Brown refused to lend Turner 20 cents. Brown said he stabbed Turner in the neck when he saw the latter reach into his pocket as though he were going to withdraw a weapon.

MAN ARRESTED IN STOLEN AUTO ADMITS STEALING 2 OTHERS

Edward Kenyon of 7939 Church road, arrested with Robert Reding Saturday after detectives fired a shot at a stolen machine Reding was driving in downtown St. Louis, admitted stealing two other automobiles today, police said. He also implicated two other companions, they reported.

Kenyon said he and another man stole a machine from a lot at 3504 South Grand boulevard April 25. On May 7, Kenyon asid, he and a man who has not yet been arrested, stole a machine parked on Kingshighway near Forest Park boulevard, drove it to Boschertown, Mo., eight miles north of St. Charles, and abandoned it.

Both Kenyon and Reding, who gave his address as 1901 South Seventh street, have previously been convicted of auto thefts.

NO EFFORT TO RENEW RAIL NEGOTIATIONS, UNIONIST SAYS

CLEVELAND, May 13 (UP) — With only five days remaining before the deadline set for a nationwide railroad strike, a spokesman for one of the two brotherhoods involved said today that neither the Government nor the carriers had made any effort to renew negotiations. The spokesman for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen said no advances had been made since the end of negotiations in Chicago, May 2.

3 OUT OF 5 EXPECTED TO GET TAX REFUNDS AVERAGING $40

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—Internal Revenue Bureau officials estimated today that about three out of every five persons who made tax returns on 1945 income will get a refund—averaging more than $40—and that the repayments probably will be completed by July 4.

About 30,000,000 of the 50,000,000 persons who made income returns will get back about $1,250,000,000, it was estimated. Last year 21,000,000 got $1,100,000,000 on 1944 income taxes in a refunding operation that required about seven and a half months and cost the Government $17,000,000 in interest charges.

This year the bureau hopes to cut the interest bill at least $10,000,000 through the refund speed-up. The interest charges, which amount to one-half of one per cent a month, began April 1 on 1945 returns, which were due March 15.

HORSE, HURT IN CRASH, KILLED

A horse which ran against the side of an automobile in Forest Park yesterday was severely injured and had to be destroyed. The animal had been rented by Pvt. Roger Krimm of Scott Field from the Missouri Stables.

Krimm had dismounted and was allowing the horse to graze when it apparently became frightened and bolted into the street at Hampton avenue north of the express highway. Miss Betty Jean Schneider, 672 Atalanta avenue, Webster Groves, suffered minor bruises when the animal collided with the machine in which she was riding.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY LAID TO DIVORCE AND NEGLECT

CHICAGO, May 13 (UP)—The Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, president of the University of Notre Dame, today laid to divorce and parental neglect the "appalling record of constantly increasing juvenile delinquency."

"In many cities," he said, "a ratio of three divorces to one marriage is not uncommon. There is such a widespread shirking of parental duties that we are rearing a generation of children who even now are reaping the bitter fruit of their parents' neglect."

Father O'Donnell, in a radio address here last night, said that divorce and planned parenthood are destroying the dignity of womanhood as well as the sanctity of the home.

ARCTIC PROVED TRAVERSABLE BY MILITARY FORCE

Men's Health Improved on Muskox Expedition, Machines Were Able to Operate.

WASHINGTON, May 13 (UP)—The joint Canadian and American Muskox expedition to the Arctic proved conclusively that military forces can operate above the Arctic Circle, American military observers said today.

The observers returned from Fort Nelson, Canada, where they participated in the closing phases of the 81-day trek above the Arctic Circle.

The tractor-propelled snowmobiles used in the expedition carried the party over the Arctic wastes without serious breakdown. The snowmobiles received gasoline dropped from American Army planes guided to the party by radar and Loran systems of navigation.

The health of the 50 men who made the rigorous trip was "slightly improved" at the end of the trip over what it was at the start, an Army medical observer said.

The men were not exposed directly to the 50 degree below zero temperatures because they remained in the heated cabs of the snowmobiles, where the temperature did not drop below zero.

An American Army spokesman said the party found the Canadian monopack and United States Army "10-in-one" ration well suited to their food needs.

There is a strong possibility of other such expeditions to the Arctic to test equipment and prepare the North American continent against trans-Polar attack, one observer said.

One improvement might be making the snowmobile amphibious because the vehicle encountered difficulties in crossing rivers in the spring breakup. They had to be forded across on rafts.

The men suffered some colds and other minor respiratory infections. A few suffered from frostbite.

NONSTOP AIR SERVICE DAILY ST. LOUIS TO NEW YORK

Daily nonstop passenger air service between St. Louis and New York will be started Wednesday by Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc. E. W. Meyer, district manager, said one flight daily will be made in each direction, using 38-passenger Boeing Stratoliners. The planes have four engines.

The eastbound flight, which starts in Kansas City, will leave St. Louis at 2:55 p.m. and arrive in New York four hours and 35 minutes later. The westbound flight will leave New York at 5:40 p.m. eastern daylight saving time, arriving in St. Louis at 11:55 p.m. It will continue to Kansas City, where connections will be made with flights to the West Coast.

Five other flights, all of them with intermediate stops between St. Louis and eastern or western cities, will be added to the daily schedule of the line on Wednesday. Eastbound, one will arrive from Los Angeles at 7:50 p.m., continuing to New York, and one from Kansas City will arrive here at 10:15 p.m. and continue to Pittsburgh. INFLATION-HIT HUNGARY TO USE 1,000,000-PENGOE NOTES

BUDAPEST, May 13 (UP)—The Hungarian Government, trying to simplify bookkeeping for banks and commercial establishments in the inflation sweeping the nation, established "millpengoe" notes by decree today.

A millpengoe will equal 1,000,000 pengoes. Though the measure will help bookkeepers, it was not expected even to slow the inflation.

2 ST. LOUISANS' WAR BRIDES ARRIVE HERE

Husband of Mrs. A. S. Gerlach Still in Germany—Welcomed by His Family.

Mrs. Alexander S. Gerlach of London, one of two British war brides of St. Louisans who arrived at Union Station yesterday, looked very lonely as she walked down the platform between trains leading a contingent of 60 British wives of veterans of Missouri and the Southwest. Her husband, she told reporters disconsolately, was still in Germany.

Mrs. Gerlach didn't look lonely a minute later as seven of her husband's relatives recognized her from a photograph and swooped down on her. Each of the seven kissed and hugged her and then started over again in turn.

"I truly feel like one of the family now," she said when she could catch her breath.

She is the wife of Master Sgt. Gerlach, who married her Sept. 6 in London, where she did volunteer first aid work for the Red Cross. He is a veteran of three years' service in England, France and Germany and expects to join his wife here next month. Until then, she will live with her father- and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Gerlach, 2218 Osage street.

Those meeting her at the station, in addition to her husband's parents, were his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Gerlach, 5641 Walsh street; his two sisters, Mrs. John Kuehner of Webster Groves and Mrs. Joseph Kaspar of Kirkwood, and Joseph Kaspar, her husband's brother-in-law.

Mrs. Marjorie Horler Bodine, the other St. Louis war bride in yesterday's group, was met by her husband, James Bodine, 2351 Klemm street. They were married last Dec. 5 near her home in Newquay, Cornwall. Bodine, a former staff sergeant, served in England and France for two years and was discharged March 11. Mrs. Bodine was a clerical worker for the United States Army for three years in England and France.

The 58 brides who had farther to go included nine for Missouri, four for Arkansas, eight for Oklahoma and 34 for Texas.

Mrs. Lena M. B. Burrus of South Wales was listed as a passenger on the "war bride" transport Barry, due in New York about Wednesday with 538 British wives and children of American service veterans. Her husband, Pfc. C. E. Burrus, lives at 412 Hillsboro avenue, Edwardsville.

THE ALSOPS

Stalin Plan to Divide World Into Spheres of Influence With U. S. Hinted in Official Reports

Soviet Leader Quoted as Saying Russia Has No Serious Clash of Interests With America, but Is Universally in Conflict With Britain.

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP
(Copyright, 1946.)

WASHINGTON.

OFFICIAL reports reaching Washington from Moscow have outlined two remarkable conversations between Generalissimo Stalin and two of his Balkan supporters. In the course of each of these talks, Stalin made the same deeply significant statement. He emphasized that in his opinion the interests of the United States and the Soviet Union did not clash seriously in any area.

He went on to say, however, that the clash of British and Soviet interests was obvious and universal. Moreover there was, he felt, no real assurance that this clash of interests might not lead to war with Britain.

The first of these conversations took place between Stalin and a Balkan prime minister. As if further to underline what he had said, Stalin then made the same statement during a personal talk with another eastern European official who was visiting Moscow.

Pearl of Great Price.

Stalin is no fool. He knows that the foreign diplomatic community in Moscow is a tightly bound little group, forced in upon itself by the total isolation in which all foreigners live in Russia. He knows further that any important statement of opinion which he may make is a pearl of the greatest possible price to the foreign diplomatic services. It can, therefore, be assumed that he knew that his remark would eventually reach both American and British ears, and that this was, in fact, his intention.

At any rate, whether or not it was his intention, the statement deserves the closest possible consideration, for it lifts a corner on what is going on in the mind of the Russian dictator, and gives some inkling of how the world looks to him from his great offices in the Kremlin. On Stalin's conception of the world's future, the world's future may largely depend.

It is now generally agreed among expert observers of the Russian scene, that Stalin's conception of the world, and of Russia's future place in it, was blocked out last fall at Sochi. At that time the story that Stalin was desperately ill, and probably dying, was very widely believed.

What in fact happened was that, after the desperate strain of the war, with its innumerable daily decisions, the great dictator found that he needed time to think. Accordingly he retired to Sochi, and there, in his huge dacha, he cut himself off from the world. He pondered deeply, perhaps consulting his household deities, Marx and Lenin, and emerged at last with the program for Russian remilitarization and expansion which he has outlined in subsequent speeches.

If Stalin's conversations with the two European officials has been accurately reported—and there is every reason to believe that the reports are accurate—there can no longer be any doubt that the most far-reaching Russian geographical expansion is the essential part of the program which he blocked out at Sochi.

The British Empire, whatever else its sins, is certainly not expanding. It is, on the contrary, rapidly contracting, as in India and Egypt.

Therefore Stalin's statement must foreshadow a Russian geographical expansion into areas which the British consider absolutely vital to their security. Only this could mean a clash of interests so deep that the weak and weary British would be willing to risk another war.

The Russian ruler's statement is of immediate interest to this country. When he said that Soviet and American interests nowhere clashed seriously, he doubtless foresaw that this would be reported to the American leaders, and intended that it should be an important consideration in forming American policy.

Obviously, it therefore behooves this country to give the most careful thought to Stalin's views. We must consider gravely the kind of world which his remarks, and the Russian policy since the war, indicate he has in mind.

What then, is the Russian view of a safe and desirable world?

First, the British Middle Eastern and Far Eastern Empire would be liquidated, with the consent of the United States. British influence in Europe would then cease.

With Britain's power struck down, the Soviet Union would dominate Europe, Asia, and through the European colonies, Africa also.

In this connection, one aspect of the Moscow conference last autumn is peculiarly interesting. Before any progress could be made, the Russians insisted vehemently on assurances that American troops would be withdrawn from China in the near future. On the other hand, the Russians accepted without too much resistance a subordinate position in Japan.

From all this emerges a picture of a world settlement as the Russians might envisage it. The world would be split in two, as two hungry boys might split an apple.

The larger half, including both Europe and the Far East, would go to Russia.

The smaller half, including the entire Western Hemisphere and probably the Philippines, Australia and Japan, would in turn be dominated, with Russian consent, by the United States.

There would be, in fact, two mutually exclusive worlds, separated from each other by oceanic moats.

American policy is now firmly opposed to any such world settlement. Secretary of State Byrnes, by asserting that the United States would not countenance any great upheaval in the world power relationship, has made that clear.

The next report in this space will indicate some of the reasons why this decision was taken.

TOKYO, May 13 (UP) — Gen. Dwight Eisenhower continued his tour of Japan with inspections of the Seventy-seventh Military Government Company at Maebashi and three Eighth Army recreation centers in the Nikko area.

Eisenhower reviewed troops in Tokyo yesterday before beginning his tour. At Yokohama, he discussed Chicago and the Army with a Negro G.I. from that city. He told T-5 Famous Brown, "I once served with the colored National Guard regiment from Chicago—the Eighth Illinois—but that was before you were born."

Canada, Britain Leave U. S. Out In Newfoundland Defense Pact

OTTAWA, Ont., May 13 (AP).

UNITED STATES-CANADIAN co-operation in mapping defense of the northern part of the Western Hemisphere has received its first sharp jolt since the start of the war nearly seven years ago. An agreement among Canada, Britain and Newfoundland, signed secretly April 8 and announced only last Tuesday, affects defense of strategic Newfoundland.

The United States has 99-year leases on several defense bases on Newfoundland, with about $200,000,000 invested in them. The United States considers itself a principal defender of this island, which controls the airways and seaways of the North Atlantic and stands as the strategic keystone for defense of North America against attack from Europe.

Some American officials here expressed surprise the agreement was made without their knowledge after frank wartime co-operation in plans for defense of the continent.

In Washington informed officials said the agreement involved "no change" in relations of the United States with Canada and Newfoundland. They said Canada continued to be "100 per cent co-operative" and expressed satisfaction concerning relations with the neighbor country.

The Canadian view as explained officially is that the agreement did not affect the United States nor require consultation, and that it merely "tidies up" the situation regarding Canadian defense installations in Newfoundland, built during the war under agreements expiring with the end of the war.

The agreement, effective for three years, provides for return to Newfoundland of control of air bases which were operated by Canada during the war and covers future air services. The American officials in Ottawa who commented on the agreement have no objection to this, but expressed concern at Article V, which provides:

"The Governments of Canada and Newfoundland and, as necessary, the Government of the United Kingdom, will consult with one another from time to time as occasion may require with a view to co-ordinating defense requirements in Newfoundland."

The Americans saw in this the implication that there need be no consultation with the United States.

The agreement was effective as of March 31 and was made public six weeks later. American officials had their first news of it when it was presented in the Canadian Parliament Tuesday. They hurriedly consulted the Canadian Government for details. The combined chiefs of staff during the war placed Newfoundland specifically within the United States area of defense. According to the best available information, the new agreement was negotiated without reference to the permanent joint board of defense, the United States-Canadian civilian and military body which served as a clearing house for such matters through the war. The life of this board has been specifically lengthened to operate on hemisphere defense problems in this postwar period.

The wartime agreements concerning Newfoundland, in which the United States co-operated along with the other three governments concerned, provided for consultation at the end of hostilities.

Canadian and British defense installations on Newfoundland are small compared to the $100,000,000 United States naval base on the island at Argentia, paired with four United States army bases, including the elaborate and modern Harmon Field, one of the larger American air bases.

Newfoundland is a British colony at present under a commission government directed from London, but its defense during the war was given over largely to

Reorganization Bill Introduced By Lafollette

Measure Would Require Congress to Streamline Itself for Efficiency.

SENATOR LA FOLLETTE (Prog.), Wisconsin, introduced a bill today to streamline Congress by making it reorganize for greater efficiency and speeding the legislative process.

The bill was referred to a special committee of Senators on a joint Senate-House committee which formulated a reform program. La Follette headed the joint committee which held hearings for almost two years. His bill embodies most of the committee recommendations and would:

1. Reduce the number of Senate committees from 33 to 16, and limit Senators to membership on only one or two committees.

2. Increase congressional salaries from $10,000 to $15,000 a year, and provide congressional participation in the Civil Service retirement system.

3. Provide more adequate staffing of committees.

4. Establish official Democratic and Republican policy committees which would decide the party's official attitude on major issues.

5. Grant each Senator an $8000-a-year administrative assistant.

6. Established machinery for continual congressional review of independent agencies and commissions of the Government—a provision which is almost certain to arouse opposition of administration leaders.

La Follette told reporters he hoped to obtain Senate action on the bill at this session of Congress. A similar measure is being prepared in the House by Representative Monroney (Dem.), Oklahoma.

Meanwhile, other demands for modernizing Congress came from Senators Knowland (Rep.), California; Saltonstall (Rep.), Massachusetts, and Morse (Rep.), Oregon.

Knowland and Morse urged steps toward more prompt consideration of important legislative matters. Saltonstall said he would press for action of his proposal, approved by the Republican steering committee, which would require an immediate vote on petitions to limit floor debate.

Business Outlook

By J. A. Livingston

JOHN L. LEWIS relaxed his economic headlock last week just as it began to wear the country down. Steel operations dropped to 58 per cent of capacity and were headed lower; Ford closed plants; the railroads cut off less essential runs; utilities reduced the flow of gas and electricity, and everywhere industry, large and small, was gasping for coal. The third business setback since V-J Day was on in earnest.

Unquestionably, if the strike resumes, there will be business failures, unemployment, and loss of income. These are all symptoms of depression. But it will be a false depression—not the kind that bear markets are made of, not the kind that sends stocks tailspinning for weeks on end. Here's why:

1929, 1937 and Today.

In 1929 and 1937, when the stock market declined, the country's capacity to produce suddenly loomed overwhelmingly large in relation to the country's capacity to consume. Orders were canceled. Loans were called. Backlogs declined. And inventories, which a few weeks previous had seemed "sound" relative to sales, became top-heavy. In the subsequent scramble to unload, prices fell and earnings headed downward. Sellers were everywhere.

Renewal of the coal strike will not change today's fundamental disparity between supply and demand for goods. Rather, it will emphasize the unrequited demand. We'll still be in a seller's market—only more so. Indeed, retail sales may continue to break records, if stores can get goods. Business men will direct their energies toward staying in business—holding on—during the strike's duration. They'll try to (1) maintain plants in working condition, (2) keep workers, and (3) build up inventories. They'll want to be all set, when the strike ends, for the postwar gold rush.

The coal strike has repercussions abroad. At the international bargaining table, it is a constant source of weakness to Secretary of State Byrnes. For good and tangible reasons: To the disorganized countries in Europe and the Far East, the United States stands for food, clothing, shelter, and coal, steel, and industrial equipment for rebuilding war-wrecked factories and railroads. Also, the United States stands for an economic and political system: Call it "free enterprise," or Democracy, or whatever. But there it is.

A Nation Falling Apart.

Yet, ever since V-J day, the United States has presented the picture of a nation tearing itself apart with strikes. One walkout has followed another; in the first three months of this year, man-days lost due to strikes exceeded any full year on record. And that doesn't count in the coal strike, which began April 1!

The average foreigner, waiting for the United States to make good its promises of food and equipment, doesn't have much sympathy for the view that strikes are part of our system. He's too hungry, ill-clad, and war-weary to accept sociological explanations. Even the average American, waiting for a new car or refrigerator, finds it difficult to recognize that postwar strikes are inevitable. For three and one-half war years, management and labor lost touch with one another. The "no-strike" pledge supplanted collective bargaining. So when peace came, employers and labor leaders were so far apart in their views, that only strikes—throwing their economic weight around—could bring them together.

But such explanations don't help Mr. Byrnes in his negotiations. Nor does the fidgeting in Congress over the British loan. Russia bangs the conference table, says "no" to Anglo-American proposals, and builds up its own political and economic orbit in eastern Europe. Russia seems to be fashioning a barter world, in which one nation makes direct deals with another nation. It's directly opposed to the American system. When Hitler was alive we called it "autarchy."

The ultimate effect of two such opposed economic systems—one free trade and one closed—is bound to be restrictive. It will keep American buyers and sellers out of certain markets. And thus, in the long run, it will inevitably bring closer the next depression. Some persons would substitute the words "next war."

Thus the economic significance of the coal strike cannot be judged solely by brownouts, crowded passenger trains, and disemployment. On the contrary, it must be judged also by what it does to American influence in world affairs—as the symbol of the nation's current economic impotence.

People Denied Voice at Paris, Welles Asserts

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)

SUMNER WELLES, former Under Secretary of State, declared last night that secrecy keeps the people from having a voice in the foreign ministers' conference at Paris.

"Yet at this conference the decisions to be reached may affect the destinies of our nation for generations to come," Welles said in a broadcast.

"Freedom of information is one of the most essential objectives for which we seek today. Unless the peoples of the world are given a far greater measure of information regarding the objectives sought by their representatives" in this and other conferences, "the possibility of a real people's peace will be very remote indeed," he added.

Comparison With U.N.

In contrast, Welles cited the United Nations Security Council sessions as an example of "how beneficial full publicity has proved to be." He said:

"The public has known from the outset every detail of the problems taken up. It has known what is going on in Iran. It has been able to understand why the Soviet Government has followed the course which it has pursued."

Had the Paris policy prevailed, "is it not probable that, after the famous walkout from the Security Council of the Soviet delegate, propaganda would have succeeded in making a considerable portion of public opinion believe that the reasons for the walkout were wholly different from those which actually existed?" Welles asked.

"Is it not very probable that, if they had not had to face full publicity, the position of some of the

State Department Rift Between Career Men, Newcomers Grows

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP).

A WIDENING split within the State Department may vitally affect American foreign policy on almost every major outstanding issue. This is one of the main problems which will confront Secretary Byrnes on his return from Paris.

One resignation already has resulted, and speculation is rife among departmental insiders that others either will follow or there will be important reassignments later this year.

First to go was Col. Alfred McCormack, who quit as organizer of a Central American intelligence unit because he contended his plans were wrecked by opposition within the department. Speculation about possible future resignations revolves chiefly around Under Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Assistant Secretary Will Clayton, and McCormack's former colleague and successor in the intelligence job, William Langer.

Career Men vs. Newcomers.

The struggle appears to be an outgrowth of the traditional fight between career men and comparative newcomers to the field of diplomacy. It has been intensified in part by Byrnes's problem at Paris of trying to work out with the Russians, British and French satisfactory peace settlements for Europe. On the central problem of how to deal with Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and the Soviet Union, Byrnes received two strikingly different recommendations.

His regular political-diplomatic advisers under Assistant Secretary James Dunn recommended that he stand firm on every Russian demand considered to represent an expansion of Soviet powers into western Europe. These advisers wanted the conference fought out on such issues as Trieste and Tripoli, tacitly recognizing that eastern Europe is Russian and western Europe is not.

Byrnes's non-professional advisers under Acheson and Clayton, notably experts on European economy, argued this was likely to create instead of resolve international conflicts. They drew an elaborate memorandum recommending that Byrnes try first to unify Europe by seeking British-Russian agreement to some means of tackling such European-wide economic problems as transportation. After that, they said, should come the work on political issues.

Veterans at Paris Parley.

Byrnes took a staff of veteran diplomats to Paris with him, and reports from the conference show that in the main he followed their advice. His proposal of a 25-year, big-four treaty of alliance against Germany was regarded by the other side as an outgrowth of its advice, but no substitute for its idea.

This is the third time in the last few weeks that Acheson has been identified with a project which did not go through. He called for much more drastic food control and famine relief measures, only to have President Truman say at a press conference a few days later that he did not know of any more drastic measures he could take.

Acheson also was a backer of McCormack in the latter's assignment to set up an independent in-

When one is faced with the necessity of selecting a funeral service, two factors must be considered. First, the COST of the funeral. On the consideration of price and more value for that price, the choice should be the use of this beautiful mortuary, which is second to none. The second factor, the EXCELLENCE of the service is even more important. In this, too, the informed person will select our service for its dignity, beauty and smooth efficiency.

A complete funeral service with 32 selections ranging in price from $150. to $3,250., 12 of which are less than $495., including casket, concrete vault and 39 other essential items of service.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Miner Views Lewis

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Mr. Raymond of Carbondale, Ill., evidently is a newcomer to the United Mine Workers, because the history of this organization shows no indications that Mr. Lewis has the support of the rank and file.

We only have to go back something like two years to see how the affairs of the Mine Workers are conducted. A conference was called by a group of miners demanding the right to elect their own officers, as at the present time John L. Lewis appoints these officials. This meeting was packed by Lewis men, and had to be canceled to avoid bloodshed. And Ray Edmundson, who wanted to oppose John L. Lewis for the presidency, was denied a seat in the convention.

Mr. Raymond's blind devotion to his false prophet doesn't take into consideration the part played by John L. Lewis in the strike of 1932, when he signed an agreement calling for a 25 per cent reduction, which the miners had voted down. At that time, the demand of the miners was for a six-hour day and a retention of the $6.10 wage rate in effect at the time. Mr. Lewis accepted a $5 rate, but six months later he made the same demands that the so-called rebels had made. Is it possible that these men were one year ahead of the times?

Mr. Raymond might consult the records of the Illinois Legislature for 1933. In the Senate Journal, pages 1751-1754, he would find an account of the manner in which John L. Lewis dealt with the miners of Illinois. He might then be convinced that he has misplaced his confidence in the great John L.

Isn't it possible that Lewis is determined to see that the miners spend their savings of the last few years to satisfy his craving for power?

I feel that the miners are entitled to some consideration. I feel sure the general public feels that way. I have been a miner for 47 years and always advocated a pension system that would compensate the miner in his declining years. But most of us who had the foresight and the courage to stand for what we knew was right were compelled to leave the United Mine Workers to retain our self-respect after the debacle of 1932.

I am certainly not in favor of a man like Lewis having any control over such a welfare fund.

In a recent meeting of a congressional committee, he said that the stupidity of the automobile workers was only equaled by the arrogance of General Motors officials. He should know. His own ruthlessness, stupidity and arrogance are leading him to a great fall.

Sarcastic

Here is a simple remedy for most of the economic ills of America:

1. Government ownership of all mines, railroads and public utilities.

2. No employe of the Government shall vote in any state or national election except members of Congress and the judiciary.

DISGUSTED DEMOCRAT.

Discriminatory Controls

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A letter from A. B. Reinsch advocates getting rid of OPA on everything except rents, because awarding shelter to the highest bidder would "prove disastrous."

He either believes in class discrimination or doesn't realize that without price control everything we eat, wear or use would be offered to the highest bidder. I don't mean the corner grocer would auction each loaf of bread, but the wheat would be sold to the highest bidder; maybe the flour, too.

As for the landlord, with supplies and services skyrocketing, where would he be? How about the rooming houses, hotels and auto courts that furnish heat, light, water, linen, soap and other incidentals? They could only lock their doors and quit when coal, oil, electricity, laundry service, etc., soared above their reach. Then where would the housing jam be?

The Declaration of Independence said something about all men being created equal. Does Mr. Reinsch think it excluded landlords? Let's continue to be a democratic people and treat everyone alike. Class discrimination can only lead us into serious trouble. A. L. R.

Disrespect to Teachers

On the Jack Haley program recently, the playlet dealt with the selling of jukeboxes and interesting the high school boys and girls in swing records. Two characters were the former principal and former high school teacher of the salesmen. As is so often the case, the teacher and principal were held up to ridicule, the teacher referred to as a "frustrated gopher" and the other in equally unflattering terms.

Why do radio script writers, playwrights and others concerned with producing entertainment picture the teachers as such undesirable characters? Will it not make it more difficult for the educational profession to train the upcoming generation and lead them to be the kind of citizens that our country needs and wants? Or does this country want good citizens?

Food, Our Shame

Nowhere has our proud nation failed its solemn obligation so grossly as in food for Europe and Asia. Nowhere has action by the Government—meaning Secretary Anderson and President Truman himself—fallen so far behind overwhelming public opinion.

As always, the intention is good. But the performance mocks it. We shipped 582,000 tons of wheat in April instead of the 1,000,000 we had promised. In the first week of May, we fell short by 150,000 tons, or three-fifths. The accumulated breach of our promise at the end of that week amounted to 880,000 tons. That means, according to Under Secretary Acheson's estimate, either a sentence of quick starvation to 17,600,000 persons or—more likely—a still harder pinch of slow starvation on several times that number.

Unfortunately, there is no simple remedy, for the trouble reaches back to gross official underestimates of domestic and world need. The Agriculture Department, and the old-line farm organizations which exert so powerful a bias in its thinking, feared a return of unsellable surpluses. So the goals in item after item were set too low. At about the same time, the Government junked food rationing. Meanwhile, the great reserves of purchasing power have caused greatly expanded domestic consumption—and caused serious shortages and spreading black markets. There is still enough food for domestic needs plus export promises, but only if the supply is very carefully managed.

In a weak and unhurried way, the Government has tried to manage it. It has appealed to us to ration ourselves. It has appealed to farmers and processors to release their surplus stocks promptly. It has wooed wheat and corn from the farmers by offering premium prices. Now the ceiling on corn is being raised to encourage selling it instead of feeding it into meat.

Such measures help. In good time, they would probably move enough food into ports to equal our relief promises. The trouble is that time is as important as quantity in this equation. Human bodies will not run on statistics; they will not run long on hopes. So, well-meaning though it may be, the Government's policy of acquiring food by the most nearly painless way is cruel to others and a source of shame to American citizens. It is a wonderful policy to win the hate of nations whose friendship we want and need—and to make Communists of their people.

Today, we believe, our Government could do nothing quite so popular as to go hammer and tongs after food for relief. Requisition it by all means, from processors and handlers and also from the farmers direct. We are sometimes told that part of the trouble is lack of freight cars to move the wheat. Then why not requisition freight cars? Why make excuses?

The world food deficit will continue at least one more winter. That clearly calls for a resumption of rationing in the United States. Without it, the unscrupulous will get more than their share and some of our own poor will go hungry. The Government wails about the black market in meat, and well it may. But the enforcement system in connection with rationing would, we believe, actually tend to break up the black market, as also would the common feeling that rationing is fair play.

Secretary Anderson and Mr. Truman may consider rationing bad politics. But not to ration, if a current Gallup poll and an array of other evidence mean anything at all, is worse politics than to ration.

We Americans are heartily ashamed of our national record in this matter. We look to our Government to restore pride in our sense of honor.

Those shouts of "Down with the King" from 50,000 Roman throats make it plain that such unpopularity must be deserved.

County Reform Is Blocked

The 114 counties of Missouri were laid out in the days of dirt roads and horse-drawn transportation. Today there are at least 31 counties of such limited size and scanty taxable wealth that they are unable to perform the functions of government properly. Yet the power of their courthouse rings, the small-bore local politicians who cling to their petty privileges regardless of the people's needs, has been sufficient to block efforts to modernize the structure, as Curtis A. Betts explains in a Jefferson City dispatch.

In the Senate, the influence of these politicians has resulted in the sidetracking of moderate bills providing for a vote of county citizens on mergers or consolidation of functions. The Senate was not called upon for a decision; that was to be left to the people of the countries concerned, as the new Constitution provides. Yet, because the officials of the near-bankrupt counties fear they will lose their jobs or their influence if the archaic system is reformed, the sensible plan for economy and efficiency is being put to death.

It is high time that the legislators heard from the tax-burdened citizens of the small and impoverished counties whose outmoded setup is being preserved merely to gratify the courthouse hangers-on.

Trusteeship for Italian Colonies

United Nations trusteeship is a logical step toward solution of the colonial problems that have vexed the world ever since the powers began to practice what one writer has called "the gentle art of acquisitive diplomacy," which often developed into brutal warfare on native populations. So the agreement of the Foreign Ministers' Council at Paris to put Italy's pro-Fascist colonies under UN control, to which Russia has at last assented, may be a far-reaching precedent for settling a widespread and troublesome issue.

One purpose of the trusteeship system, as set forth in the UN Charter, is to prepare the territories for self-government or independence. These rights are being demanded by the inhabitants of many more areas than the colonial empire of Italy, and their aspirations can no longer be suppressed except by force.

The solution in Italy's case is fairly simple, for that country is a defeated former enemy, and its present leaders are enlightened enough to agree to the policy. But unless the French, British, Dutch and other colonial powers accept a similar course for their turbulent possessions, a long record of strife lies ahead. Britain's recent offers to India and Egypt encourage hope that enlightenment will prevail, yet a well-defined international policy of trusteeship, education and ultimate independence has not yet been developed.

Veterans as Cheap Labor

The report that veterans are being used for cheap labor is no longer news but only repetition. The description of misuse of the on-the-job training program, by employment officials meeting in St. Louis, simply adds evidence to a national outrage.

Three months ago, the Veterans' Administration was reported to be planning to crack down on employer-chiselers. Two months ago, the VA announced steps to do just that. Yesterday, in St. Louis, the employment officers renewed their demand for action by the VA.

These officials disclosed cases of flagrant violations of the GI Bill of Rights. For instance, a veteran was hired as a salesman, paid by the Government, and then put to work in a warehouse to "learn stock," where he was kept as cheap labor for months. The Louisville Courier-Journal recently published a list of such cases. There was a drug store clerk, being paid $90 a month by the Government to learn that business, working hard for an employer who paid him nothing.

Fortunately, the employers who are misusing this program are a minority. But there are many of them, particularly in small towns, and apparently they are most numerous in the South. It is reported that there are six times as many veterans receiving on-the-job training in one Southern state capital as in New York City.

The Veterans' Administration should provide for stronger inspection of on-the-job training applications, and it should give full publicity to selfish employers who exploit this program. But there is also a limit to what the VA can do.

Veterans frequently take on-the-job training employment because there is little else available. At last report, 2,000,000 veterans were unemployed. The unemployment rate for them was nearly three times greater than for more experienced civilian workers.

Gen. Bradley, the Veterans' Administrator, says that the unemployment of ex-service men "is a critical emergency." It is, as much as anything else, an emergency of reconversion, made more difficult by strikes, material shortages and attempts to hold up production to get higher prices. So it is not a problem for the Veterans' Administration alone. It is a task for the entire Truman Administration.

Service Rivalry Over Rockets

The long-range rocket is agreed to be an outstanding weapon of the future, if the future finds weapons necessary for attempting settlement of its problems. So, since this country has adopted a policy of developing its arsenals while supporting the United Nations in the hope that arsenals will become obsolete, it would appear that the utmost in concentrated and co-ordinated research would be going into development of rockets.

This is not resulting, however, because of the rivalry among the branches of the armed services that has proved a handicap in so many other phases of military planning and execution. In fact, nothing less than a struggle of Army, Navy and Air Forces is now in progress over which shall control the work on the potent new weapon.

This controversy is one of the strongest arguments to date for unifying the armed services. Certainly these quarrels over jurisdiction should not be allowed to interfere with research and tests that may prove vital to the nation's future security. The rocket is only one instance of the confusion, obstruction and wasted effort, at the front as in the laboratory, that have sprung from the survival of ancient distinctions in a time when combined operations are essential to success in war.

Ad Nauseam on the Air

The radio industry's defense of its own bad taste has become as sickening as a chorus of plug-uglies. The defense is producing daily incantations to the Constitution and unbelievable protestations of public service.

So it is refreshing to find a broadcaster who dissents. Coming from Nathan Straus, a broadcaster with a fine record in public life, an indictment of radio's irresponsibility is a strong indictment. His words, published in the Mirror of Public Opinion, are not the words of a captious critic oblivious to radio's achievements.

But neither is Mr. Straus blind to radio's consistent record of bad taste—what he terms "the indiscriminate advertising of cathartics, pain killers, kidney cures, headache powders, worthless vitamin preparations, ad nauseam on the air."

This broadcaster wants to wipe out such tripe. He advocates eradicating the commercial which jolts the listener in the middle of important news. These two steps would end the newscast plug-ugly. That is exactly what the Post-Dispatch has suggested to broadcasters.

Yet the plug-ugly remains with us, growing more noisome through constant repetition. It blares out of some of the best network newscasts. It is a plague on many individual stations. And the latest example of listener distaste was a poll in which 66 per cent of those questioned said they objected to middle commercials. But the National Association of Broadcasters has had the unconscionable gall to display this poll with pride.

The plug-ugly's persistence has an explanation. As Mr. Straus says, broadcasters are fast losing control of radio programs to advertisers. Advertisers are interested in radio only as a momentary source of profits. That's how they use radio, or misuse it.

Excessive commercialism has reached a point where radio's prestige is falling fast. A great industry is being exploited for a short-run gamble with public patience. When the Federal Communications Commission recently proposed to halt this trend, the radio men reacted—as Mr. Straus notes—with shrill hysteria. But hysteria is no defense; it is a result of no defense.

If broadcasters would discard hysteria and look clearly to radio's future, they would erase the newscast plug-ugly first, as the worst example of over-commercialism. They would recapture control of programming from advertisers. By doing that, they would retrieve a public trust.

FORGOTTEN MAN

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Advertising abuses on air are menace to radio industry, station owner says; proposes wiping out plug-uglies and limiting commercial time; thinks that broadcasters have lost control of programs to sponsors, and that FCC report should be accepted in self-defense.

An Address by Nathan Straus, President of Radio Station WMCA, at the Institute for Education by Radio, Ohio State University

The question is: "Has radio reconverted; is broadcasting assuming its postwar obligations?" My answer to this question is No.

We broadcasters may claim for radio a long list of achievements. Radio has brought good music to the masses. Radio has brought the news of the day and commentaries on the news to millions of people in this country and, as a result, understanding of great fundamental issues, both domestic and foreign, has been immeasurably increased during the last decade.

The record of public service is marred, however, by grave abuses. Variety has summed up the issue: "Slowly, but surely, over the past few years, over-commercialization has won out. Good taste, development of original radio technique and cognizance of public service programming have gone by the boards."

The Federal Communications Commission recently published a report on public service responsibility of broadcasters. The report was an eminently fair one, dealing, for the most part, in facts and statistics. For instance, the report said: "Advertising represents the only source of revenue for most American broadcasting stations and is, therefore, an indispensable part of our system of broadcasting."

Three Suggestions by FCC

The report also embodied a series of suggestions, among which were:

"To misuse the listener's deepest patriotic feelings for the sale of products over the air is a violation of a public trust.

"The increasing identification of radio as a purveyor of patent medicine and proprietary remedies raises serious problems which warrant careful consideration by the broadcasting industry.

"A listener is entitled to know when the program ends and the advertisement begins."

It would seem that the radio industry itself would welcome such criticism, carrying as it does an assurance of support in rooting out abuses.

The employer who treats his employes fairly welcomes enforcement by a Federal agency of hours-and-wages regulations which protect him from the competition of other less scrupulous employers who, in the absence of Federal regulations, would indulge in sweatshop practices.

Protection From Advertisers

By the same process of reasoning, it would seem to me, the broadcasting industry should welcome extension of Federal regulation which would save us from being forced by advertisers to do these things which no broadcaster wants to do, but which many of us are compelled to do by reason of the fact that some competing radio station may be willing to accede to the unreasonable demands of a sponsor.

This is not to say that we must agree with every criticism and every comment in the FCC's controversial report. I am exceedingly dubious, for instance, of the soundness of the contention that the public service worth of a program is to be measured solely or even chiefly by whether the program in question is a commercial one or a sustaining one.

However, criticism of the FCC report did not take the form of disagreement on specific issues. Instead, there was an instantaneous and almost hysterical denunciation of the report as a whole.

When the president of the largest trade organization in the radio world characterizes the FCC report as revealing a "lack of faith in the American system of free radio," when he adds that it indicates a "desire to impose artificial and arbitrary controls over what the people of this country shall hear," I, for one, am ready to say that this is nonsense and, what is more, from our point of view as an industry, exceedingly dangerous nonsense.

Against Middle Commercials

May I close with four specific suggestions:

(1) The broadcasting industry should take steps immediately to eliminate middle commercials in all news programs or news commentaries which run 15 minutes or less.

(2) The broadcasting industry should initiate immediately a study of the total time given over to commercials and the number of commercial interruptions in each program. The purpose of the study should be to limit the length of commercials and the number of commercial interruptions in a manner that will constitute fair treatment of advertisers, radio station owners and the listening public.

(3) The broadcasting industry should adopt a policy which would exclude from the air any medical product that purports to cure an organic disease or to alleviate the pain or discomfort resulting from such a condition.

Furthermore, the industry should take steps to keep off the air patent medicine advertising which is objectionable, either because of the nature of the commercial copy, or, what is more important, the nature of the product. The indiscriminate advertising of cathartics, pain killers, kidney cures, headache powders, worthless vitamin preparations, ad nauseam on the air is a condition which is a menace to the entire broadcasting industry.

Use of Air a Public Trust

(4) The time has come, I believe, for the broadcasting industry to recognize the fact that radio programming today has, in large measure, been taken out of the hands of the holders of broadcasting licenses and has been swallowed up by the great advertising agencies.

This is not a criticism of the programs which the advertising agencies create and air. Many of them are excellent. It is a criticism of the extent to which the advertising agencies dominate programming and determine what shall be aired and, indirectly, what shall not be aired.

The air waves belong to the people. The people, through the Federal Communications Commission, have awarded to certain station operators a license for use of a channel on the air waves. Every radio station operator should consider his license as a privilege, entrusted to him for the purpose of providing entertainment and enlightenment.

A mildewed, rickety mansion in the Georgia Piedmont, on the last 200 acres of a one-time 5000-acre plantation, is the setting of Mr. Caldwell's latest diluted-Faulkner rendering of the decayed South.

His three main characters are Grady Dunbar, one of those preposterous but—in fiction, anyway—not rare combinations of grown-up boy and brutal wastrel; Lucyanne, his wife of 10 months, and Mama Elsie, who accepts Grady's worthlessness as a natural part of the scene, like a raincrow. She dislikes Lucyanne, at whom she hurls evil charges, and sides with her no-good, sadistic son.

Lucyanne, a patient Griselda, is forever waiting for Grady either (a) to return after long, unexplained absences or (b) to show her some sign of conjugal affection. But Grady gravitates to the Negro women in the plantation's "quarters." Any anguish Lucyanne may feel, however, leaves the reader unmoved. One sweet boyish smile from this rakehell Rover Boy and she could forgive and forget anything—even knockdown blows.

The more pungent details of this pell-mell story of violence and the classic vices cannot be listed here. Mr. Caldwell lightly touches on plantation peonage and the cruel lot of the Southern Negro generally, but his propaganda is submerged in the gothic tidbits of the narrative.

Writing clumsily at times ("a clear plaintive voice drifted sonorously through the damp night"; "Grady stood up on shaking knees"), he has moved his characters up from his frequently sub-human level, but the comic grotesques are still here—"the sadism of the word," as Alfred Kazin says. We have heard all this before. Not even Mr. Caldwell's "original and mighty" American-story-telling (to parrot the publishers) can make us cheer.

The callous old reprobate, Judge Lovejoy, observes sapiently enough: "Nothing is to be gained by prolonging the existence of a Grady Dunbar." May I suggest "narrating" for "prolonging," and recommend that the reader look elsewhere in Mr. Caldwell's works for closer approaches to excellence?

Life in a Hollywood Market

This story of the Hollywood Farmers' Market, by its press agent, is mostly, if not wholly, fact, and none the less funny for that. Film folk figure, but the most diverting characters who appear are those unknown to fame—customers, attaches and the author, pounding a typewriter in a converted monkey-cage. Circuses and fiddlers' contests, with incident riots and traffic jams, enliven the story. The attempt to establish a market in St. Louis is told in factual fashion, with people's real names.

A Helpful Guide for Gardeners

"Grounds for Living," Edited by Van Wie Ingham and Richard B. Farnham. (Rutgers University Press, New Brunswick, N. J.)

Here is a book for the average gardener, one not schooled in the science of horticulture. It contains little scientific data which the layman will not readily understand. From the fundamental steps of planning the garden to the care of trees, shrubs, lawns and flowers, the book gives numerous helpful facts. The last chapter is dedicated to stone and brick construction, and has two good plans for outdoor fireplaces.

Notes on the Coal Strike

I AM afraid the President is on weak ground in claiming that John L. Lewis's demand for a miners' health and welfare fund to be built up by a royalty on every ton of coal mined, and paid into and administered by the union, is in contravention of the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

An argument can be made that the act prohibits employer contributions to unions. But there are too many precedents established to make that argument sound. The check-off has been widely accepted, and is certainly in a sense an employer contribution to the union. Furthermore, health and welfare funds exist in numerous unions. Probably the outstanding example is in the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union. There the fund is collected by a payroll tax, but the principle is the same. The fund provides clinics for workers, paid yearly vacations and many other things, and it actually was one of the easiest of concessions to get from employers.

Seizure Might Fail.

In the case of the coal miners, where this issue of the welfare fund is the chief obstacle to settlement, such a fund is in essence eminently reasonable. Coal mining is a highly hazardous industry to life and health. Many perish each year in coal mines; its occupational diseases are notorious.

It is dubious whether the President's seizing of the mines will result in miners going back to work. When President Roosevelt seized the mines at the time of the last strike, miners actually only dribbled back, until Lewis called off the strike.

There is danger that Congress will rush through legislation—such as a bill prohibiting royalties for welfare purposes—in its customary habit of meeting emergencies with hasty half-baked legislation. In a similar crisis, they passed the Smith-Connally bill over the veto of President Roosevelt, who pointed out that it would not prevent but actually encourage strikes. The legislation has plagued us ever since.

Lewis as a Czar.

The real trouble with the proposed welfare fund is the way John L. Lewis runs his union. He is an absolute czar—which fact is not alleviated by the argument that he is adored by the miners. All tyrants claim to be adored by their subjects. He treats the union and its funds as though they were his personal property. In 1936, he took half a million dollars of the miners' money, without consultation with the rank and file, and contributed it to the Democratic campaign.

The proposed welfare fund is expected to yield $60,000,000 a year, to be controlled, in fact, by one man. The Government doesn't want that to happen, and under the circumstances the Government is, I think, right, however doubtful its legal arguments. Government officials have proposed a fund to be jointly created and administered by labor and management.

But Congress has been for years remiss in its duties. It cannot hope to bring order into labor relations by the emergency bills which have so far constituted its sole contribution to our leading problem. Nor can it hope to settle matters by dealing with specific personalities, such as Petrillo or Lewis.

Power and Responsibility.

The Wagner Act endows trade unions with the powers of public bodies. Their actions involve the life of the nation, as the miners' strike is paralyzing economic life and is, in fact, a national disaster. Such powers entail responsibilities. Rights without attendant duties are dangerous and undemocratic. No bill passed by Congress even defines what a trade union is. No bill prohibits practices rife in many unions—dictatorship, failure to hold regular or secret elections, failure to make financial accounting to the membership, prohibitive entrance fees, black lists of qualified workers, sometimes for political purposes, racketeering, jurisdictional strikes, and dozens of other well-known abuses.

The unions have always maintained that they are free unincorporated associations. But conditions, not theories, confront us, and the business of government is to govern, in the interest of protecting workers, and the public. The function of government is to create and maintain law.

Against Hurried Legislation.

I repeat that there are no demands from Mr. Lewis which seem to me, at least, unreasonable per se. It is unfortunate that the President lifted all wage controls a few days after V-J day. That is the chief source of our price problem, for wages and prices can only be controlled together. But Lewis's demands are not excessive in comparison with demands already granted other unions. It is Lewis's way of running his union that is objectionable. No labor leader ought to be allowed to exercise his kind of despotism, however theoretically benevolent. And Congress must get down to brass tacks, preferably when we are not in the midst of a crisis. It ought to call hearings on union abuses. It ought to prepare carefully thought through legislation.

Actually, Lewis made the same demand for a welfare fund in 1943. It was obvious that, though he withdrew it then, it was not forever. Congress cannot, therefore, feign shocked surprise.

An Analysis of the Iran Problem

IT MAY prove impossible for a long time to know whether the last Soviet troops have really evacuated the soil of Iran. And it makes no difference. As matters now stand, a statement by the cowed but cunning Qavan in Tehran would mean no more than a similar statement a while back that "no negotiations with a foreign power could go on with foreign troops on Iranian soil."

At the time this statement was made, foreign troops were on Iranian soil and Premier Qavan was negotiating with a foreign power.

It is not Quavan's fault. He knows that he will get no protection stronger than words from the United Nations Security Council. Words cannot do what Iranian national forces were too weak to do—namely, throw out the Russians and put down the Azerbaijanee insurrection the Russians fomented. Therefore, the Iranian Prime Minister did the next best thing and sought terms from Moscow. Who can blame him?

Army as the Big Factor.

The question is no longer whether Iran shall remain a free country. Iran has lost its independence. Whether the Muscovites content themselves with a "friendly" autonomous provincial government in Iranian Azerbaijan or, through the "democratic" Tudeh party, decide to boss the whole country, the underlying fact is that Iran has been forced into the Soviet orbit.

The dominant factor has been the Red Army. The losers are the United States and Britain, the Iranians who do not wish to join Moscow's stooges—and several explicit articles of the United Nations Charter.

In view of such an overwhelming Soviet victory, Pravda's charges of "discrimination" against the Soviet Union at Hunter College would bring a chuckle to the lips of a boa constrictor.

Whether the Iranians are better represented by the Tudeh or by what the Atlantic Monthly calls "the unsavory Tehran mob" has nothing to do with the case.

Comparable Situations.

The issue before the Security Council was interference, a form of aggression by a great power. If Russia has a right to foment insurrection in Iran, Peron has the same right in Chile or Argentina. Then American forces, temporarily in Western Canada, would have had a right to foment insurrection against Ottawa in these provinces, arm the rebels, and to prevent the Canadian Government from suppressing the conspirators.

It is safe to say that if the United States, still less Argentina, had done anything of the sort, various Americans who are now piously "explaining" the Soviet case in Iran would have protested to high heaven. One fails to see why. Or do they really believe that justice can be selective?

Another and more serious question is whether the failure to protect Iran means that United Nations has failed in its first test.

The answer depends upon what you consider the purpose of the United Nations.

If, like the writer of a recent editorial in the New York Post, the real purpose of UN is to anticipate troubles in advance and provide solutions satisfactory to the Big Three, then the organization has not so much failed as gotten on to the wrong track.

Or if, like a similar writer in the New York Herald Tribune, you envisage UN as a delicate plant which, though now unable to support much strain, may grow into a sturdy tree later, then the international body has neither failed nor succeeded but merely done all that could have been expected of it.

A Curtain of Legality.

On the other hand, if, with the Russians (and the gifted editor of the New Yorker), you believe that UN as an organization of "equal and sovereign states" was intended by its authors as a curtain of legality for political decisions by the big boys, then what we have just witnessed was really a failure. For though the Soviets have pocketed Iran, the curtain of legality was missing.

Finally, if, with this writer, you believe that the purpose of UN is to preserve world peace by the stoppage of aggression and the establishment of real world law, then its failure is strident.

Then it does not matter whether the "question of Iran" is kept on the Security Council's agenda or taken off. What matters is that Iran has vanished from the map as an independent country.

After all, what did we expect? "Sovereign and equal" states have once more demonstrated that—organization or no organization—they cannot long agree. The new "League" is demonstrably following the pattern of the old "League." The people who put their hope for peace in this sort of hook-up are due for a new jolt.

And at some point around the corner, near or faraway, a new war waits for mankind.

DR. COFFIN PREACHES THE FLOWER SERMON

The Rev. Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin of New York yesterday preached the annual flower sermon at Christ Church Cathedral, 1210 Locust street. Dr. Coffin, former moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, recently resigned as president of Union Theological Seminary.

The will of Henry Shaw, donor of Missouri Botanical Garden, provides an annual sum for bringing a clergyman of note from outside St. Louis to preach the flower sermon, at which a variety and profusion of flowers from the garden are used to adorn the cathedral.

Dr. Coffin, preaching on the text, "Consider the Lilies of the Field," urged what the poet William Wordsworth called "wise passiveness" of flowers instead of bustling modern life. He said beauty and goodness will grow in human life if the proper seeds are sown and allowed to develop.

"We think today of what our generation is sowing: international brotherhood, industrial comradeliness, interracial fellowship and unity in the Christian church," he said. He predicted progress will be made in spite of the doubt of skeptics.

Dr. Coffin is a leader in the movement to produce organic unity between the Episcopal Church and the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America. The congregation yesterday included members of the two churches, both Negro and white. The cathedral's 900 seats were filled, and a number stood at the rear.

The cathedral was decorated with 250 potted plants, including Easter lilies, hydrangeas, fuchsias, azaleas, Martha Washington geraniums, peonies, lilacs, begonias, snapdragons, chrysanthemums, Canterbury Bells, gladioli, daisies and sweetpeas. The plants and large vases of cut flowers adorned the sanctuaries, chancel, pulpit, lectern and window boxes.

By Dent McSkimming
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

CLEVELAND, May 13—The Browns were never much in the first game of their doubleheader with the Indians here this afternoon, the home team piling up a 6-0 advantage in the second inning and going on to win easily, 9 to 2.

The Browns' defense collapsed behind young Stan Ferens in that wild second inning. Before a run was scored a ground ball was hit to Johnny Berardino which could have resulted in a double play if he had fielded cleanly, but he fumbled and got only one out at first. Then, with two on base, Mackiewicz hit a grounder to Ferens and, with an easy double play before him, the nervous youngster threw wild to second base. Some real solid hitting followed and the game was lost.

Of the relief pitchers, Ellis Kinder looked best, but none of the four St. Louis hurlers could match the twirling of Charley (Red) Embree, who held the Browns to five scattered hits.

About 3500 persons attended.

The Browns will open a stand at Sportsman's Park in St. Louis tomorrow, opposing the New York Yankees at 2:30 p.m.

The first game, play by play:

Ferens grabbed Mackiewicz's grounder but threw wild to second and the bases were filled. Embree doubled to left, scoring Keltner, Hayes and Mackiewicz. Case singled to left, Embree stopping at third. Case stole second. Rocco walked, again filling the bases. Galehouse replaced Ferens on the mound for the Browns. SIXTH — BROWNS—McQuillen batted for Galehouse and popped to Boudreau. Zarilla struck out for the third time. Grace was called out on strikes.

INDIANS—Kinder pitched for the Browns and McQuillen played left field. Case flied to Judnich. Rocco was out, Stevens, unassisted. Boudreau flied to Grace.

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—The league leading Red Sox resumed their winning ways by defeating the New York Yankees 3-1 in the rubber game of their three-game series before a tremendous turnout of 68,193, second highest single game crowd in baseball history.

Only the July 1, 1932, crowd of 73,592 which helped inaugurate Cleveland's municipal stadium was larger. In all, a total of 176,153 attended the three-game set.

The game was a pitching duel between Boston's Mickey Harris and New York's Spud Chandler, with Chandler going down to defeat mainly because of his own wildness and faulty fielding by his mates. Southpaw Harris held the Yanks to three hits in registering his sixth triumph without a defeat and Boston's twenty-second in 26 games. For Chandler, who also gave up three hits, it was the first loss after five straight wins. Defeat left the Yanks five and a half games behind the Sox.

Seven Straight for Tigers.

Brooklyn ran its unbeaten victory string at home to eight by pummeling the Philadelphia Phils, 13-4. Southpaw Vic Lombardi notched his fourth victory aided by homers by Ed Stevens and Augie Galan.

Somewhat overshadowed by the Boston Red Sox winning streak which ended at 15 Saturday, the Detroit Tigers have gone quietly about putting together a streak of their own to boost them back into the American League chase. Dizzy Trout pitched the Bengals to their seventh straight yesterday with a 4-1, seven-hit performance over the Chicago White Sox before 43,726 paying customers. The turnout sent the Tigers' seven home games total to 233,660. Trout's win, his third of the year, came at the expense of 45-year-old Ted Lyons, who was pitching his twenty-seventh consecutive complete game for the Sox over a three-year span.

Braves Stop Giants.

The Boston Braves slapped down the New York Giants twice 6-5 and 7-2 to drop the Ottmen into the second division. The Braves had to come from behind to win the opener in 10 innings when Relief Pitcher Ken Trinkle walked Bill Lee with the bases full. Ed Wright spaced nine hits to easily win the second game.

The Cubs whipped the seventh place Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1 behind Claude Passeau's seven-hit pitching and moved within three games of the top. The Bruins broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth when Lou Stringer walloped a run-producing single and Eddie Waitkus followed with a two-bagger.

With Stan Spence taking over the siege role, Washington's Senators gained an even break with the Philadelphia Athletics, winning the nightcap 3-1 after dropping the opener 6-4. Spence, whose homer in the first game had been to no avail, smacked three doubles in the second game and drove in the winning markers. Dick Fowler of no-hit fame, outpitched Mickey Haefner in the opener.

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—England's Liverpool football club got its American tour off to a smashing start yesterday by conquering a New York all-star pro soccer aggregation, 3-1, before 20,000 fans in the Randalls Island stadium. It was the largest crowd to witness a soccer game here in several years.

Although they had no chance to practice since arriving on the Queen Mary Friday, the Liverpool team was easily the stronger and smoother operating side. However, because of brilliant goaltending by Gene Olaf, it wasn't until the first half was nearly completed that the visitors scored.

John Balmer tallied after 37 minutes of play but Jennette of the Americans tied it up on a pass from Jack Hines two minutes before the half ended.

Balmer added another marker in the second half after William Fagan, Liverpool captain, scored in six minutes. Balmer's second counter came after 16 minutes.

In the preliminary, the Kearny Celtics whipped the Kearny Americans 3 to 1.

Liverpool goes to Baltimore for a game there Wednesday and then will return here Sunday to meet the American Soccer League All-Stars, it was announced by Erno Schwarcz, tour manager.

Cards Depart for East; Lanier to Hurl Opener Against Dodgers Today

By W. J. McGoogan

On their way to Brooklyn to open their first eastern invasion of the year, Manager Eddie Dyer and his Cardinals, no doubt, are reflecting today on the worst home stand a Redbird club has had in years. For during their stay at Sportsman's Park, which finished yesterday with a double defeat at the hands of the Cincinnati Reds, the Cardinals won four games while losing six.

And as they are about to engage the league-leading Dodgers they find themselves one and a half games behind Leo Durocher's men with three teams, Chicago, Cincinnati and Boston tied for third only a game and a half behind the Redbirds.

Yes, this National League race seems anything but a pushover for the Cardinals and fans leaving the park were complaining about whoever made the hasty decision to dispose of First Baseman Ray Sanders to the Boston Braves before Dick Sisler had proved himself a capable replacement.

Little Things That Mean Much.

Sisler returned to the lineup against the Reds. He had three hits in the first game but was guilty of some misplays which, while not costly at the time, perhaps, indicated that his inexperience may be a real detriment.

Pinch batter Max West grounded a single to right field, scoring the run which broke a 2-2 tie in the opener. Sisler broke to his left on the ball. Had he not done so, he might have got it.

On another occasion he let a grounder go through him with a man on first base then, instead of getting quickly back to the bag and leaving it up to Klein to retrieve the ball, he started after it. Fortunately Klein grabbed the ball and Brecheen got over to first to make the putout.

Dick was not the only goat of an off-afternoon for the club, however. Marty Marion missed connections with a single to deep short in the fourth inning of the first game, permitting a Cincinnati run to score and played rather nonchalantly through the game.

Big Name Boys Do It, Too.

Whitey Kurowski was guilty of some bad base running in what should have been a big Cardinal inning and as a result the Redbirds scored one run on two bases on balls and two singles.

All of this contributed to Brecheen's fourth defeat of the year against one victory and gives Dyer further cause for worry as Brecheen lost only four contests all last season while winning 15.

And to make matters worse, Charley Barrett was again knocked from the mound in the second game and was charged with the defeat. He has failed to win this year while in 1945 he won 21 for the Redbirds after gaining two verdicts for Boston. He lost 12.

The home stand brought the Cardinals' record here this season to six victories and five defeats. But there is reason for hope, too, as they have won six out of seven away from home and perhaps they'll get started now.

Red to Be Ready Soon.

Red Schoendienst was unable to play because of an injured finger but Dyer hopes he'll be ready for Brooklyn and if he is he'll go right back to second base. Sisler, it is planned, will remain at first with Musial in left field. Max Lanier is to do the pitching tomorrow as Dyer pointed out Max has done his very best pitching against the Dodgers. Max will be trying for his fifth straight triumph without a loss.

Two games are scheduled in Brooklyn. Then the Cardinals play three in Boston, three in Philadelphia, two in New York, three in Cincinnati, three in Chicago and two in Pittsburgh before returning home to face the Giants, June 1.

There is no doubt that the weather here has hurt the club for six postponements were necessary.

Bucky Walters went the 10 innings as Cincinnati took the first game yesterday, 4 to 2. He held the Cardinals to six safeties and finished strongly after the Redbirds' mistakes had helped him out of jams.

Both teams scored a run in the fourth and in the seventh Eddie Miller hit his third homer of the season to put the Reds one up. A pass to Brecheen, Klein's sacrifice and Musial's double got that back in the Cards' half, however.

Lamanno opened the Cincinnati tenth with his fourth single and Usher ran for him. Libke bunted but Brecheen's quick pick up and throw nailed Usher at second. Haas singled Libke to second and Vander Meer ran for him. Freddy Martin took over for the Cardinals and West batted for Clay. He grounded a single past Sisler and Vander Meer scored. Haas went to third and West took second on the throw to the plate. Miller was passed intentionally. Walters popped in front of the plate. Martin rushed in, reached the ball but dropped it. Sisler had charged in also and when Martin picked up the ball there was nobody to cover first and Haas scored. Frey then hit into a double play.

The Cardinals went out in order in the ninth and tenth, Sisler fanning for the final out.

Homer Starts Trouble in Second.

Grady Hatton led off the Reds' second game fifth with his fourth homer of the year and before the inning was over, Cincinnati had batted around and had five runs on three safeties, a walk and an error by Ervin Dusak, who played third base in place of Kurowski.

Dickson relieved Barrett during the melee and pitched out of the trouble. He was followed by Krist and Donnelly who held the Reds hitless and runless the rest of the way.

But the best the Cardinals could do with Ewell Blackwell, tall, slender, fast ball righthander was to score one run. That came in the sixth when Musial doubled and Slaughter singled to make the final score, 5 to 1.

Attendance was 22,183, including 20,633 paid.

Dusak's error was a funny one. With runners on first and second, Haas hit to Dusak, who attempted to tag Libke and it appeared he had him but Libke eluded the stab. Dusak then fired the ball into right field, trying to throw to second, and Libke scored.

In the first game, Walters walked Musial and Slaughter in the fourth. Kurowski bunted, trying to sacrifice, and Walters forced Musial at third, or at least Umpire Babe Pinelli called him out, and that hurt, too.

Kurowski's bad base running came in the same inning, when Sisler singled to score Slaughter. Kurowski rounded second and when Haas cut off the throw to the plate he was an easy out at third.

It was the second double defeat of the year for the Cardinals, as the Cubs turned the same trick two weeks ago. They broke even in anther twin bill with Boston.

Made Us See Red.

What appears, on paper at least, to be one of the best fights here in some time, certainly one of the most important from the standpoint of the two contestants, is scheduled for tonight at the Arena, 5700 Oakland avenue. It sends Phil Terranova, third among the world's featherweights, according to National Boxing Association rankings, against Freddie Russo, Rahway, N. J., who occupies the fifth spot, over the 10-round route.

As the match has been chosen as "fight of the week" by Boxing Promoters, Inc., an organization of which Jack Dempsey is president, he will be here to comment upon it over the radio in a nationwide hookup with Sam Taub doing the blow-by-blow. Because of radio time requirements, the contest is to start at 9 o'clock, after one preliminary. Three matches will follow. The preliminary will begin at 8:30 o'clock.

Terranova has won three straight here, knocking out Charley Riley in six rounds, then outpointing Jimmy Joyce and Aponte Torres in 10 rounds each. He has been undefeated since last July and is rated the favorite over Russo who, despite a great record, has lost two of his last three. He has not appeared here before.

In a better than usual semi-final, Freddy Latson, St. Louis Negro takes on Pete Bolos, Detroit in the eight-round secondary feature. Bolos fought here recently and held Charley Riley to a close decision in 10 rounds.

Milton Jones, making his first start since leaving the service, tackles Jerry Marshall in four rounds, while Eddie Dames, National Golden Glove titleholder, making his professional debut, opposes Oliver Johnson, local Negro in four. Gene McGovern is slated to meet Johnny Tabb in their third meeting at four rounds. In two previous contests they drew in one and Tabb gained victory in the other.

Shirley Wins After Browns Bow to Feller

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, May 13 — Although they scored three runs in the ninth inning off Bob Feller to send the opening game of yesterday's doubleheader into extra innings, the Browns lost in the tenth to the Indians 4-3 before capturing the nightcap 9-3 on the strength of a six-run inning.

Some sloppy baseball contributed to the setback in the opener. Cleveland scored two runs in the third inning with only one solid hit; then, after Kramer was removed for a pinch hitter, got another tally off Cliff Fannin in the eighth with one real blow. Cleveland's deciding run in the tenth came as a result of three passes by Sam Zoldak (one intentional) and a single by George Case.

Feller, who had been removed for a pinch batter in the extra round, was effective in the pinches and struck out 12 as he registered his fourth victory to go with three defeats.

Tex Shirley went the full route in the nightcap as the Browns got 12 safeties and six bases on balls from four generous Cleveland hurlers. Allie Reynolds and Ed Klieman were the victims of the six-run frame that took the Tribe out of the ball game.

Lord Byron Gets 68 on Final Round

HOUSTON, Tex., May 13 (AP)—Lord Byron Nelson, golf's tall tactician from Toledo, is back in the groove, adding Houston's tournament of champions to his string to give him leadership for the year along the P.G.A. trail.

Nelson yesterday shot a three-under-par 68 over River Oaks' 6558 weary yards to finish with 274 and $2000 first money as Ben Hogan, the Hershey (Pa.) bantam, failed to overtake him in the stretch.

Lord Byron now has four tournament victories for 1946—Los Angles, San Francisco, New Orleans and Houston—while Hogan has three individuals and victory in Miami's four-ball in which he teamed with Jimmie Demaret.

Thus the two top men of golf will be playing the "sugar" game when they head the field Thursday through Sunday in Fort Worth's $15,000 Colonial National Invitation.

Most of the other golfers who appeared in Houston's tournament also will be at Fort Worth.

For those who thought Nelson was slipping after going seven tournaments without a first place, yesterday's round was a revelation. Byron described that final 18 as the steadiest he ever played. The Toledo umbrella man didn't miss a fairway as he went about the business of making this game of golf look ridiculously easy and with a little luck on the stubby putting surface Nelson would have been several shots lower.

Hogan made a gallant bid. He was even with Nelson at 63 holes and missed a chance for an eagle and the lead on No. 14, where he pulled his putt from just 14 inches away. He blew his chances on the final green when his second shot strayed and he took three to get on. Ben finished with 276—three strokes better than Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., who took down third money.

Vic Ghezzi of Knoxville wound up fourth with 281, while Dick Metz of Chicago and Lloyd Mangrum of Los Angeles tied for fifth with 283s. E. J. Harrison of Little Rock, Fred Haas Jr. of New Orleans and Jimmie Demaret of Houston were next in line with 284s.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Third Time The Charm, Lord Boswell?

IT begins to appear as though Lord Boswell might yet bring home the bacon. . . . Also that fur coat which, in a moment of confidence too sublime to be connected with the mere running ability of a race horse, we told the missus that this Boswell fellow would come through with.

Although again beaten by Assault last Saturday, our stretch-running candidate for three-year-old honors came down to the finish like a streamliner passing a flag-station. . . . He ate up four lengths or more between the head of the stretch and the winning post, but could not quite make it, being beaten a whisker or two.

His display was a fine example of courageous running, since he got away next to last and after the first half mile was still many, many lengths behind the pace. . . . The race invites the conclusion that when the track is right and the distance a mile and one-half—as it will be in the Belmont—Boswell will have his day in the winner's circle.

In the meantime, Assault proved himself to be a worthy son of his daddy, Bold Venture, by duplicating his sire's feat of winning both the Derby and the Preakness. . . . If he can add the Belmont Stakes to his successes and win the Triple Crown, he will surpass the performance of Bold Venture.

Assault in Line For Money Record.

ASSAULT is now in a position to challenge the three-year-old money winning record of Gallant Fox in 1930—more than $308,000—established by winning nine out of 10 starts and finishing second to Jim Dandy in his losing venture.

His 1946 total already is around $200,000 and a victory in the $100,000 Belmont Stakes would just about fix him for a $350,000 (or better) winning season. . . . He still would have to prove his consistency by carrying on to that mark of nine victories, hung up by Gallant Fox.

Jockey Mehrtens apparently has a chance to become the golden boy of the nation's riders. . . . A victory on Assault in the Belmont would increase his big stake earnings to more than $27,000—all for a little more than six minutes of actual riding effort.

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Kentucky Derby winner Assault (next to rail) had to step on it at the finish of the Preakness Saturday at Pimlico but he made it to nose out the oncoming Lord Boswell and win first prize of $99,120, the richest purse in racing history. WARREN MEHRTENS rode Assault and DOUG DODSON was aboard Lord Boswell. The margin was by a neck but appears more because of the angle of photograph.

Jack and Sam The Boys What Am.

JACK DEMPSEY, who always will be this writer's No. 1 in the book of heavyweight fighters, is with us today in connection with the Terranova-Russo fight at the Arena. . . . With Sam Taub, Jack will assist in a broadcast of the event which will be radio-sponsored by a hat concern of national note.

Terranova has proved to be one of the outstanding ring attractions brought to St. Louis in a long time. . . . And, it is not too much to hope that the finale of the featherweight title campaign, with Sal Bartolo as one principal, will take place in these precincts.

New Leaders In Women's Title Tenpin Tourney

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 13 (AP)—Catherine Felmeth of Chicago held the all-events lead in the Women's International Bowling Congress championship tournament today, following a dizzy shuffling of the standings.

Mrs. Felmeth yesterday put together three-game scores of 659 in singles, 601 in doubles and a team mark of 575 for an all-events total of 1835, the third highest in the 26 W.I.B.C. tournaments.

Ace of the Meister Brau team of Chicago, Mrs. Felmeth's sensational performances came less than an hour after Val Mikiel of Detroit had taken the lead from Lee Leipe of Chicago, pace-setter for a week, at 1810.

Mrs. Mikiel's 682 three-game singles score, however, was good enough to replace Mildred Steiner of Chicago, 681, as the individual high mark. The Mikiel score is second high in W.I.B.C. rolling. Marie Clemensen of Chicago in 1934 posted 712.

The eleventh day of the thirty-seven day tournament saw Sally Landis and Iny Cobb of San Francisco sweep into the doubles lead with a grand total of 1178 pins.

FIVE WOMEN—Silver Seal Soda, St. Louis, 2721; Abbott Victory Girls, Waukegan, Ill., 2602; Meister Brau, Chicago, 2591; Marie's Restaurant, Chicago, 2589; James "the Florist," Detroit, 2567.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 13—Four St. Louis teams will compete on the final squad of five-man competition in the American Bowling Congress tourney tonight. The doubles and singles program will complete the 62-day run of the national pin classic tomorrow.

Included among the Mound City groups are the Breimeyers, Wiecks, Otto Stein Juniors and Say It With Flowers. Otto Stein Jr., veteran of 30 tourneys and former A.B.C. and national singles champ, will appear with the Flowers entry.

Two more St. Louis lineups failed to reach prize territory in the main event last night. The Busieks came in with 2463 and Mecklenburgs, 2400.

Kramer Wins Title.

LOS ANGELES, May 13 (AP)—The Southern California tennis championship went to Jack Kramer yesterday as he took a straight-set decision over national titleholder Frankie Parker, 8-6, 6-1, 9-7. Dorothy Bundy of Santa Monica, won the women's championship by overcoming Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, 6-1, 3-6, 6-1.

Salomon, Weiss Are Victors In Two-Man Event

By Robert Morrison.

Ed Salomon, who played a great game a week ago in the moral support department of Westwood's four-man team golf championship, was a more tangible contributor as he and Jonas Weiss captured the two-man title of the district yesterday at Meadow Brook.

Forty minutes after Normandie and Meadow Brook were in with a best ball of 68, the affable Salomon put his second shot on the eighteenth green and discovered his side needing a four on that hole to cop the championship.

Teammate Weiss couldn't help him because Jonas had caught a trap with his second and blasted 35 feet away from the cup with his third. So it was up to Salomon, who proceeded to lay his first putt six inches from the cup and hole out with a 4.

Last week, with his 87, Salomon could only stand and cheer teammates Weiss and L. J. Tennenbaum as they pulled the shots needed for the four-man title. Yesterday Weiss and Salomon each shot 74 for the 18 holes.

Over his home course, Bob Cochran was the low individual scorer with a one-under-par 70, and Howard Zachritz was next in line with 72, one of his better efforts for the young season.

Joining district competition for the first time this year, St. Louis Country Club's Paul Jamison hit long fairway shots that were exceptional. He was the only one of the 24 golfers to reach the ninth green in two strokes, needing only an eight-foot putt after his driver and spoon shots.

Other places in the best-ball competition: Glen Echo, 70; Algonquin, 71; Westborough, 71; Triple A, 72; Greenbriar, 75; Norwood, 75; Bellerive, 75; St. Louis Country Club, 75; Sunset, 76.

Four Top Golfers To Play Exhibition At the Barracks

THE driving and putting exhibition for hospitalized veterans at Jefferson Barracks, scheduled for May 22 in connection with the Western Open golf tournament here—will be put on by the four top men in the game, Byron Nelson, Ben Hogan, Sam Snead and Jimmy Demaret.

Tournament chairman Fred Dowd said a driving tee and putting surface has been prepared at the barracks and that the four major stars are scheduled to make the appearance at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The tournament at Sunset begins May 24, with practice rounds scheduled May 23.

District Track Finals Tonight

The weather-delayed St. Louis District high school track and field meet is to be held at Public Schools Stadium this evening, starting at 6:30.

By virtue of having registered 14 points in the shotput and discus events, run off last week, Normandy goes into the meet with an advantage. But observers feel that University City, Maplewood and Beaumont will be the three schools fighting it out at the finish.

Normandie Files Answer to Suit Of Clarke Morse

The Normandie Golf Club, in an answer filed today in the United States District Court to the suit of Clarke Morse, former professional at the course, said Morse was not actually employed by the club at the time of his induction into the armed service, October 1943.

Morse, who claims he was discharged by Normandie, has filed suit under the G.I. Bill of Rights.

In its answer, the Normandie Club contended that Clarke and his brother, Coleman Morse, were partners doing business on their own under the name of "Morse Brothers."

The club said that at the time of Clarke's induction the Morse brothers had a contract with the club to manage and operate as independent contractors the kitchen, dining room, bar and other so-called "concessions" in the club house and grounds.

The Morse brothers supplied their own food, took in the receipts, and acted as golf pros. But Clarke, the answer said, never was an employe. Checks were made out to the Morse Brothers, or Coleman Morse, manager of the firm.

While Clarke was in the service, the club maintained, Coleman voluntarily ceased to operate the concessions and moved equipment from the club premises, except such equipment purchased by the club from the operators.

Therefore, the club maintained, it would be impossible to consider Clarke an employe.

Normandie Golfers To Play in Match

Members of Normandie Country Club will throw a golf party Wednesday for Johnny Manion, with the 53-year-old professional captaining a team called the Slicers in team play against Jim Manion's Hookers.

Forty entries already have been received for the competition, which will be played under the Goodall system that allows one point for each nine of the 18 and one for match play victory, a possible of three. Play will begin at noon, and members of the losing team will pay for the winners' dinner.

WORLD WAR III HAVOC CALLED INCONCEIVABLE

In spite of all that has been said and written about the atomic bomb, people as yet do not really appreciate how devastating a World War III would be, Chancellor Arthur H. Compton of Washington University said today. He urged United Nations control of the means for waging atomic warfare.

Direction of atomic energy into peaceful rather than military channels is the supreme problem of the modern time, he declared, urging development of the international controls recently recommended by State Department consultants.

One of the physicists who played a leading role in development of the atomic bomb, Dr. Compton said he had decided to come to St. Louis instead of remaining at the University of Chicago partly out of the conviction that he could do more in educational work aimed at improving society than in devoting himself to technological developments.

His views were presented at the annual meeting of the St. Louis chapter, Missouri Association for Social Welfare, held at Hotel Statler.

The Rev. Charles Wilson, president of the association, in urging public protest against legislative "indifference" to the plight of needy persons in Missouri, asserted that ministers and others possibly were "a little too intelligent" and had proceeded with too many inhibitions in their appeal for state funds.

BALD EAGLE SEEN ON BIRD WALK, HAS 6-FT. WINGSPREAD

An immature bald eagle with a wingspread of six feet was the best find of the day by members of the St. Louis Bird Club, who roamed Forest Park yesterday in 10 different groups. A total of 96 different species was identified, with warblers predominating.

The warblers, characterized as "butterflies of the bird world," were spotted in such numbers that members considered they might be witnessing a "warbler wave," indicating a peak migration of warblers through an area. Among the more important species of warblers observed were the golden-winged and the Canadian warbler.

Another unusual find was a red-breasted nuthatch, an inconspicuous bird of modest coloring not usually observed by club members.

Final bird walk of the season by the St. Louis Bird Club will start at 7:30 a.m. next Sunday from Jefferson Memorial, 5700 Lindell boulevard. It will be open to the public and groups will be guided by bird club members.

INQUIRY ON ACTION OF POLICE IN MOVING 3 IN NIGHT CLOTHES

Acting Chief of Police Jeremiah O'Connell announced today that he had ordered an investigation of the action of police in taking Mrs. Helen Pott, 6742 Arsenal street, and her two young children to the Hampton Avenue Police Station dressed only in their night clothes in the rain early Saturday.

Inspector Maurice Mulcahy and Capt. Fred Grabbe, of the Hampton avenue station, will make the investigation. The case of Mrs. Pott, who is charged with peace disturbance as a result of alleged late telephone calls to her estranged husband, was continued today in police court until May 27.

Patrolman George Priester, one of the officers who arrested Mrs. Pott, told a reporter that she refused to dress herself or her children, Diana, 3 years old, and George, 9. Mrs. Pott said the officers did not give her time to change, and forced them to go to the station immediately.

EX-GESTAPO AGENT ESCAPES

LONDON, May 13 (UP)—Erik Zacharias, 35-year-old former Gestapo agent escaped from the Kempton Park race course prison camp early today. He was awaiting trial for the murder of 50 Royal Air Force prisoners at a German camp.

REBUKE BY WOMAN ON ALL-MALE NAMES FOR TRUMAN ROBINS

White House Concedes She Wins Point if More Birds Are Wanted.

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross received today what he termed a "charming rebuke" for suggesting that three robins born in a nest outside President Truman's office window be named for three columnists.

Mrs. E. E. Ericksen, chairman of the Committee on Education of the Utah State Senate, objected to calling them Lippmann, Lawrence and Kent—after Walter Lippmann, David Lawrence and Frank Kent.

She suggested that "when men do all the planning they are prone to overlook one of the first fundamental laws," and added:

"A year ago there were three baby robins in a nest just outside my window. I called mine Melba, Sylvia and Cockrobin. Had I been shortsighted and insisted they all be one gender, I would not today be enjoying the added nest outside my window—a nest full of promise, progression and fulfillment."

Reading the letter to his news conference, Ross conceded that Mrs. Ericksen "definitely has a point."

ABSENCE OF WITNESS CAUSES DELAY IN BURGLARY TRIAL

Trial of Harvey Miller, former convict who is out on bond on prison sentences totaling 20 years, was delayed today in Circuit Court at Clayton, where Miller faces another burglary and larceny charge, because of the failure of a state's witness to appear.

The missing witness was Jess Nottingham, former convict and onetime associate of Miller. Nottingham and Miller have both been charged with the burglary and larceny of the Smith Motor Co. in Ferguson, for which Miller was to stand trial today.

Circuit Judge Raymond E. La Driere sent a writ of attachment to the Sheriff's office to bring Nottingham into court. He said he would not resume trial until the Sheriff reports on his efforts to find Nottingham.

9-POINT HEALTH PLAN BY DEAN SCHWITALLA

Proposed as Substitute for 'Compulsory' Provisions in Senate Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—A nine-point health program has been laid before a Senate Labor subcommittee by Msgr. Alphonse M. Schwitalla, dean of the St. Louis University School of Medicine and president of the Catholic Hospital Association.

In an appearance before the committee last week Msgr. Schwitalla opposed what he called "compulsory" health insurance provisions of a pending national health bill. He contended this objective should be reached through voluntary initiative.

As a substitute for proposals in the pending measure, Msgr. Schwitalla made the following suggestions:

1. Agreement on a program taking into account "the moral and social obligation of each individual to provide for his own health in so far as his financial resources, the circumstances of his life, his physical strength might permit him to do so."

2. Dependence on the individual to select the method of meeting these obligations.

3. Government health subsidies for the needy, provided they attempt to save for times of emergency.

4. Insistence that the individual receiving Government aid not shirk his own responsibilities.

5. Recognition that the obligation to safeguard personal and family health "is not an absolute, but a conditional and a contingent one."

7. Supplement, rather than replace, present procedures for maintaining high health standards.

8. Inclusion in the program of individuals able to pay for health security, as well as the indigent.

9. Joint responsibility by government and voluntary agencies for the creation of health facilities and the development of health-caring personnel.

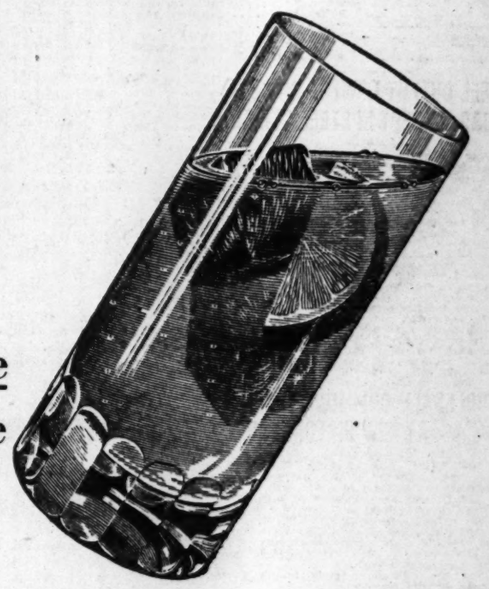
You can see the difference



You can taste the difference

There is a difference! Yes, the first basic improvement in gin in over 300 years—a natural difference.

It looks different—the color of fine vintage champagne. You can spot it at a glance on a shelf among all the colorless gins.

It tastes different—so smooth, so mellow that you can enjoy the most full-flavored Collins or "the dry-est Martini in the world".

And it is different because of our leisurely, time-honored way of producing it—a way that is exclusive with Seagram.

SCATTERED LIST RISES IN MIXED STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP) — Buyers again leaned toward special stocks today but neglected many market leaders.

Demand was largely based on individual situations, earnings, dividends and possible splitups. The return to work of the coal miners aided sentiment to a certain extent although skeptics of the labor situation generally were inclined to caution pending final contract settlements and congressional developments.

Transfers for the full session were 1,250,000 shares compared with 1,820,000 shares last Friday. Of the 996 issues traded in today 444 were lower, 355 higher and 197 unchanged. There were 65 new 1946 highs and six new lows.

Intermittent Gainers.

Intermittent gainers included Commercial Solvents, Yale & Towne, Francisco Sugar, Pepsi-Cola, Omnibus Corp., Panhandle Producing, Standard Oil (New Jersey), General Tire, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Santa Fe and Union Carbide.

Losers at one time or another were United States Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, United States Rubber, Western Union "A," Douglas Aircraft, Eastern Airlines, North American, Engineers Public Service, International Nickel, du Pont, Allied Chemical, J. C. Penney, New York Central, Southern Railway, Northern Pacific, National Distillers and Texas Co.

Trend on the Curb.

Better curb performers were Canadian Industrial Alcohol "A" and "B," Creole Petroleum, Jeannette Glass, E. W. Bliss and Powdrell & Alexander.

Steels had to contend with estimates from production centers that more than 10,000,000 tons of ingots will have been lost because of the coal walkout and steel strike. Opinions in Pittsburgh metal circles were that lingering effects of the coal controversy, ranging up to a period of several months, were likely.

Although rubber companies securities recently have reflected high hopes for the long-term outlook in this field, the Rubber Manufacturers' Association warned that producers were being forced to operate on a hand-to-mouth basis due to the lack of textiles. Some companies, it was added, have been unable to obtain any fabrics in the second quarter and were facing shutdowns unless materials are forthcoming soon.

STEEL OUTPUT LOWEST SINCE 1939, EXCEPT IN STEEL STRIKE

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—Steel operations this week will be at the lowest point since the middle of 1939 except for the drastic curtailment during the steel strike early this year.

The American Iron & Steel Institute estimated the operating rate of mills this week will be reduced to 48.9 per cent of capacity as the result of the coal strike. This compared with 58.7 per cent in the preceding week. Tonnage was estimated at 861,800 tons against 1,034,500 last week.

A month ago mills operated at 77.4 per cent and turned out 1,364,100 tons and a year ago the figures were 95.3 and 1,745,-500, respectively.

This week's activity will be the lowest since the week of May 22, 1939, when the rate was 48.5 per cent, except for the almost complete cessation of operations during the steel strike early in 1946.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 10 TO 45 CENTS LOWER

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—Cotton futures moved through a quiet session today with most traders on the sidelines pending further developments on the crop, price control, and the fuel situation in the cotton textile industry. Light hedging, partly against purchases of Government cotton, along with scattered liquidation, depressed prices as much as 70 cents a bale in early dealings, but the market came back in later trading on small mill buying and covering.

Certified stocks continued to increase, supporting the belief that a fairly substantial amount of cotton will be tendered against contracts in the May and July 1946 deliveries.

Late afternoon prices were 35 cents a bale lower to 10c higher. May, 27.37c; July, 27.56c, and October, 27.77c.

Abitibi Power Out of Receiver.

TORONTO, May 13 (AP)—The $120,-000,000 Abitibi Power and Paper Company today is back under corporate management after a 14-year receivership.

Future plans for the sprawling paper-making empire under its newly-won independence have not yet crystallized but directors say they are hopeful they will be able to make some announcement in a month or so.

Abitibi starts life anew with a working capital of possibly $20,000,000 or more and no pressing liabilities apart from a $53,-093,700 5 per cent bond issue, due in 1965.

Under the re-organization the company retains its timber and water power rights, held under a license from the Province of Ontario, with some minor adjustments.

At the peak of its corporate life in 1932 Abitibi had developed power on the Abitibi river of 120,000 h.p., and had additional water rights. It had potential capacity up to 704,000 tons of newsprint annually.

Then came the great business depression of the early thirties with shrinking demand and falling prices. Newsprint dropped from around $70 per ton to $40 and Abitibi's output fell to 195,000 tons in 1933. Default on bond interest followed and on application of the bondholders, the company was turned over to the receiver in September, 1932.

BOND MARKET IN IRREGULAR PRICE RANGE

Carrier Group Loses Early Stability, Swinging to 2 Points Either Way.

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—Quotations for rail issues fluctuated nervously in an irregular bond market today.

In the minus column near the finish were Chicago & Eastern Illinois incomes, Central of New Jersey 5s and Rock Island collateral 4s.

Wide participation was still blocked by consideration of the possible immediate and long-range effects of the resumption of coal mining.

The minor climb in U. S. Governments failed to hold on the stock exchange and final prices were 12-32 to 17-32 of a point lower. American Telephone 2¾s and 3s advanced fractionally each to end at 105 and 153, respectively. St. Paul convertible 4½s improved 1½ points in the final hour to end at 86½.

MAY RYE IN NEW PRICE SETBACK OF FIVE CENTS

CHICAGO, May 13 (AP)—Another drop of 5 cents was recorded in May rye today and deferred deliveries of oats weakened on profit-taking, dropping about a cent at times. All trading was in old contracts under old ceilings. Tomorrow the board will also have trading under the new and higher ceilings, opening up new contracts for this purpose.

A report from Oklahoma said harvesting of winter wheat had started in Oklahoma, setting a new early record for the state's harvest. The dispatch said harvesting will be in full swing by Thursday. From Fort Worth, Tex., a report said the first car of new wheat had arrived. A considerable movement was expected in the latter part of the week.

At the close May rye was down 5 cents at $2.52¾, oats were unchanged to 1 cent lower, September 82c, and wheat, corn, barley and deferred rye deliveries were unchanged at ceilings.

Beginning tomorrow, the local board will start trading in new contracts at new ceilings. Trading in new and old contracts will run simultaneously, with different ceilings applying, but activity in old contracts will be limited to liquidation only.

In wheat, these will be August and November, 1946, and March 1947; in corn, January and March, 1947; in oats, August and November, 1946, and March 1947; in rye, November, 1946, and March, 1947; and in barley, November, 1946, and March, 1947.

Ceilings on the new contracts will be: $1.98½ for wheat, $1.46½ for corn, 88 cents for oats, $1.58½ for rye, and $1.35½ for barley.

Directors of the board have taken no action in settling cash grain contracts at old ceilings, as was requested by the Government last week. The board said it was "without power or authority to make any adjustments with respect to cash contracts."

A car of No. 1 heavy red oats sold in the cash market at 91c a bushel. This is a new season high and reflects the new ceiling which went into effect today on cash grain. Corn purchases from the country at noon totaled 18,000 bu, and oats 14,000 bu.

Local Grain Receipts.

PEOPLE DENIED VOICE AT PARIS, WELLES ASSERTS

governments represented on the Security Council might have been different, and that the Council might not in its majority have stood quite so steadfastly for the principles which were finally maintained?"

Welles observed that "the kind of secrecy which is maintained at Paris prevents popular understanding. It gives rise to leaks, to rumors and to false reports."

Welles recalled that the Big Three Foreign Ministers conference at Moscow in December "was held under a veil of close secrecy" and the American people were not told of the subjects to be taken up.

The meeting resulted, he said, in setting aside Yalta commitments for free elections before installing new governments in Eastern Europe and the Balkans and agreement on our part to setting up governments "responsive only to the influence of the Soviet Union."

It meant this country would no longer be in position to insist on establishing "true democracy in a very large region of the world," he declared, adding:

"If the American people had known beforehand that there was any possibility of the abandonment by their government of this principle in whole or in part, I am convinced that they would have made their disapproval felt."

PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT OF PALESTINE JEWS PLANNED

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—Dr. Louis Altman, president of the United Zionists-Revisionists organization, told a press conference today his group intends to set up a provisional Jewish government in Palestine—with armed force if necessary.

Dr. Altman, who arrived last week after conferences in London with the British Colonial Office, said the first aim of his "provisional government" would be to repatriate 1,000,000 Jews.

Great Britain, he said, "broke all its obligations to the Jews, lost all legal and moral right to continue the government of Palestine." He said "violence is the only language that the British Government understands."

HELD IN MURDER OF WIFE

State highway police arrested Jewel Jackson, Negro, 38 years old, today at Lincoln, Ill., and held him on suspicion of the murder of his wife, Mary E. Jackson. She was shot and killed yesterday afternoon in a restaurant at 528 Trendley avenue, East St. Louis.

Witnesses told police that Jackson and his wife, both of Caruthersville, Mo., became involved in an argument while in the restaurant and that Jackson drew a revolver and fired six shots at his wife.

AMVETS OFFICER-TRAINING FOR DISABLED VETERANS

Disabled veterans will be trained for permanent positions as national service officers of the American Veterans of World War II under an education program sponsored by the organization, it was announced here today by Charles J. Hughes, state service officer.

First classes of a preliminary six-month course will be enrolled May 20 at American University, Washington, D. C., Hughes said. Veterans who can establish eligibility under Public Law 16 may make application now at the Amvets office at 320 North Grand boulevard for early and later classes.

National service officers of the organization serve in Veterans' Administration regional offices to expedite disability and other claims of veterans, it was explained. Students who finish the college course under the GI Bill of Rights will receive additional on-the-job training of from six to 18 months in Veterans' Administration regional offices.

ARMY PAPER STOPS CARTOONS OF FRAULEINS AS FAT NAZIS

FRANKFURT, Germany, May 13 (AP)—The United States Army newspaper Stars and Stripes has suspended T-5 Don Sheppard's cartoons, featuring fat, pig-tailed German girls with swastikas embroidered on their underclothes. Army officials said the action came as the result of Germans' protest that the drawings held the German womanhood up to ridicule.

Lt. Col. William G.Proctor, officer in charge of Stars and Stripes, said Sheppard still will be permitted to display his fraulein in "occasional" cartoons, but that repeated publication "could be offensive enough to the Germans to jeopardize our occupation program."

Sheppard, 20 years old, of Mill Valley, Calif., said he drew his cartoons to "discourage soldiers from taking their fraternization and frauleins too seriously."

SIX IN WESTMINSTER PLACE SUE OVER USE OF PROPERTY

Six property owners in Westminister place filed suit today in Circuit Court seeking to enjoin Dr. Sidney Levin, 4487 Westminster place, from using his property for commercial purposes.

The plaintiffs alleged that the area is zoned for single family dwellings and that Dr. Levin, who has owned his property since 1942, is renting space for physicians' offices. The suit contended such use depreciates nearby properties and increased automobile traffic due to patients visiting Dr. Levin's house creates a hazard.

Plaintiffs are Argo E. Landau, James Spencer, William Schield, W. P. Chrisler, Fred C. Lake and J. J. Schlafly.

MAN GIVING HIS AGE AS 100 IS SENTENCED TO WORKHOUSE

Robert Sheppard, Negro, who says he is 100 years old, was sentenced to 90 days in the Workhouse today by Judge Louis Comerford when he was found guilty of malicious destruction of property.

Mike Caimi, proprietor of a tavern at 4617 Macklind avenue, testified Sheppard came into his place April 17 and asked to buy a bucket of beer.

When told the tavern's beer supply was exhausted, Caimi said, Sheppard smashed three plate glass windows with a piece of pipe. Sheppard, who lives at 913 Burd avenue, admitted he had been drinking but told the judge: "You can't get enough beer these days, your honor, to make you drunk."

STATE DEPARTMENT SPLIT OVER FOREIGN POLICY WIDENING

The central issue — involving both State Department organization and foreign policy—is one which brings acknowledgements from each side that the other is both honest and sincere. To boil down the arguments:

The diplomatic experts contend they must have control of all aspects of American relations with a foreign country to make certain that policy is well developed and consistent; that helping to make policy decisions is their responsibility, for which they are trained and qualified; that there should be no such thing as a separate intelligence unit; and that the department's economic experts tend to meddle in political affairs.

The non-professionals — the lawyers, economists and others outside the foreign service—assert that the United States must develop a bolder foreign policy than the diplomats supply; that it must act more vigorously as a leading world power; that it needs a central intelligence unit to supply facts independently of diplomatic conclusions; that if the United States does not put over a workable peace no other nation will, and for this reason it should try sincerely to develop every possible way of getting along with the Soviet Union.

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—Negotiations are under way between United States and Britain for American acquisition of a number of Pacific bases—among them Christmas island, Canton, the Funafuti and "several others"—responsible diplomatic officials said Saturday night. The move is in line with the recommendation of a House naval sub-committee which proposed that the "United States should be given specific and substantial rights to sites" in the Pacific necessary to its defense.

Canton was mentioned specifically in the report as one of the places where this country should maintain bases for land and sea planes. A State Department spokesman said ownership of Canton, Christmas and Funafuti islands had been in dispute for nearly 50 years. Canton now is controlled jointly by England and the United States.

Every day we're making progress toward the goal of providing telephone service for everyone who is waiting.

That's why you'll see telephone men and telephone trucks in your neighborhood more and more frequently in the coming months.

These men are putting in cables . . . testing wires . . . installing instruments ...all in advance. Then, when "custom-built," intricate new switchboards are ready, your telephone can be hooked up much more quickly.

Everyone in your neighborhood will get his telephone in proper turn. When your turn comes, the telephone business office will get in touch with you to arrange details of your service and to let you know when to expect the telephone man.

We are working hard to make that time as soon as possible.

Possum Trot Farm

Silly Provincialism In Some City Homes

By Leonard Hall

TODAY a letter came from friends in Surrey, England, which makes America sound like what it is—the land of milk and honey. Here we complain about food shortages but manage to live on the highest calorie ration which exists anywhere in the world today. In the British Isles they get along with almost no fats, no fruits, no meat and offer to cut their bread ration — provided we in the United States will go along with them—to help feed starving Europe. Here the owner of a tavern reports being robbed of 22 dozen pairs of nylon stockings. In England, clothing is rationed and your allotment of 14 coupons, if you're of the gentler sex, is sufficient for the purchase of one pair of shoes and a single cotton dress. We complain of lumber shortages and bootleg millions of feet from back-country sawmills. In England, if your home lost no more than its windows, doors, ceilings and part of its roof, you're lucky. You patch it as best you can and make it do.

IT SEEMS TO ME that the destruction of their homes must have been one of the greatest hardships which the English people had to bear during the war. Nor is that only because it created a housing shortage which, with all our difficulties here in this country, makes our shortages look like a picnic. The English have an old custom of living in their homes for a long time—a custom which we here in America seem almost to have abandoned. There was a time, though, when American families of even modest means were likely to live long enough in one place so that the home and grounds around it gradually took on something of the character of the owners.

ALL OF US have seen such homes as these; great mansions on the plantations of the deep south which have never quite given way to the personalities of their New York owners, those sturdy white frame houses on the salt water farms of Maine where ghosts of old sea captains still walk, the farm houses of Pennsylvania where today's commuters to New York and Philadelphia cannot quite overcome the memories of sturdy Dutch farmers who laid up the stone two centuries or more ago.

There is one thing all of these homes have in common, much as they may differ in architectural design, materials and background. This is the quality of having been a vital part of the lives of their builders; of having been lived in until house and owner had the same qualities of permanence and stability. I doubt that these houses gained this quality of being "homes" by the mere fact of having been built and lived in. Rather, the mellowing process took place as the years went by. Trees were planted and walks laid. Families grew and wings were added—and thus the transition took place.

NOWADAYS, we lead a far more transient existence; a fact for which industrialization is in no small degree responsible. Perforce, we sacrifice the satisfaction of permanence to follow the fortunes of the machine. The young folks from the country move to town; the town youngsters hear the call of the great metropolis. Under these circumstances, the more transient the abode, the easier it is to pull up stakes and move on. At most, if we're in the money, we call in the decorator to "express our personalities" in terms of a modern decor and a rumpus room, which the decorator probably saw in a movie magazine. What this results in, actually, is a provincialism unknown to families whose roots are deeply planted in almost any section of America. We've had a theory, based on America's pioneering days, that increasing density of population meant a steady increase in economic, social and cultural advantages; but it hasn't worked out that way. Instead, we are in danger of developing a system under which millions of American families have no roots anywhere. And it begins to look as though many of our problems stemmed from this very fact.

AMERICA can never go back to a rural or an agrarian economy—and who would want her to? Just the same, there's satisfaction in having a home which is a real and vital part of the life of your family—and even of owning some acres of ground on which, by dint of hard work, you can leave the imprint of your personality. Such a home soon reflects signs of healthy, contented living. It will absorb your leisure—that is true. But it seems to me that this is merely a matter of putting leisure to the best possible use. To lay a stone wall and learn to do it well, to become a good vegetable gardener, to know your trees and shrubs and the birds which shelter in them at various seasons of the year, to plant and harvest, to build shelves for books which you have time to read—there's real satisfaction in doing all these things. Maybe you'll have little time left for movies and nightclubs—or money, either. But you will more than make up for this in real living.

SOMETIMES out here at Possum Trot we grow a bit discouraged at how slowly we progress. We start out in spring with big ideas and many interruptions. Summer comes and we combine fishing with gardening. In autumn we harvest our produce and make things snug for cold weather and wonder whether we've gotten anywhere. But winter passes and when spring comes again and the trees and shrubs have shot up and the perrenial flowers push their heads through the leaves, we realize that things are shaping up. Possum Trot is taking on the stamp of a place that's lived in—every day of the year. And it is our efforts which have brought this about.

Picket Line Melee at Aircraft Plant

Police attempting to break up a crowd of strikers outside the Pratt & Whitney aircraft plant at West Hartford, Conn., today in a series of disturbances that followed an attempt of some workers to pass through a shoulder-to-shoulder picket line to enter the strikebound plant. State troopers finally were called to the scene and 20 persons were arrested. No injuries were reported.

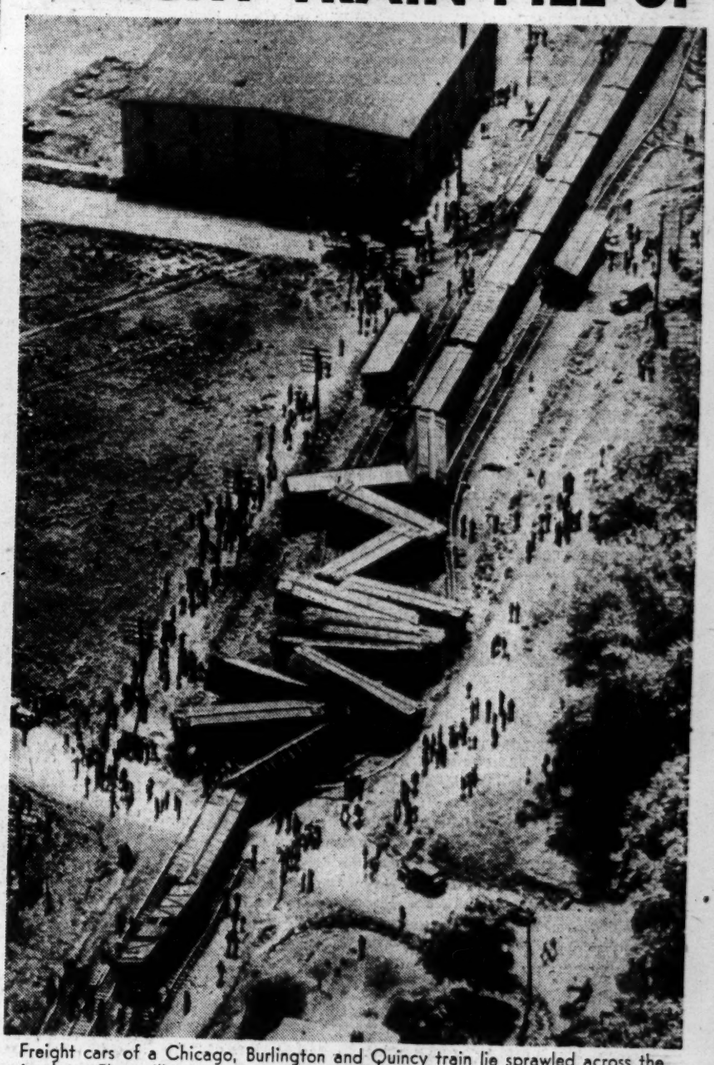
FREIGHT TRAIN PILE-UP



Freight cars of a Chicago, Burlington and Quincy train lie sprawled across the tracks at Plano, Ill., as a result of a derailment. There were no casualties in the accident. The scene is 15 miles from Naperville, where 45 persons were killed when two Burlington passenger trains crashed several weeks ago.

WATERCRAFT TO AID WOUNDED

Clemens F. Pilates, 5102 Easton avenue, who was wounded in World War I while fighting with the German army, demonstrates a "water cycle" which he believes will help restore wounded G. I.s to health. His invention consists of a reconverted bicycle frame and a tilted seat mounted on two surf boards. Two propellers drive the craft, which is used for exercise.

BROADWAY

Lint From a Blue Serge Suit

ALL the reports about the Jock Whitneys (from buying Florida hotels to having a baby) are nt-nh. . . . RKO purchased the rights (and lefts, one presumes) to the Louis-Conn fight films. . . . Measures being readied at City Hall (by O'Dwyer's bluenose Svengali) will go into effect after Decoration day. Insiders hear the rulings will make LaGuardia seem like a playboy in comparison. . . . Wm. Saroyan, whose book about the Army has been delayed by the brass hats, has decided to have it published, regardless of the threatened punitive reprisals, etc.

BRIAN DONLEVY, who makes only $8000 a week (when he works), told pals he hopes to save $25,000 this season. . . . That Hotel Taft mixup you've been reading about only partly in the gazettes—is really a lulu. . . . Wallace Beery's chums report he has dropped 22 lbs. in three weeks—that's how ill he is. . . . Scripps-Howard employes expect another series of important executive alterations in the editorial dept.

THE DINAH SHORE radio show disappearance is only the first of several to go. Three big Thursday night programs will be canned. . . . People back from the Old Country report things are so tough at Monte Carlo that it has become strictly a small-time gambling joint with nickel slot machines lining the walls. . . . A resident of Fire Island is writing a play. The first act scene is Fire Island, a peaceful place. As the asbestos lifts, a kerrickter (seated on the porch overlooking the Atlantic Ocean) says: "Gahd! Wotta beautiful sight—no people between here and Portugal!" . . . Bonita Granville's newest is an oil man.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

THE following questionnaire was submitted by a group of newly returned servicemen who write that their behavior was not too good to begin with and that unfortunately, they have picked up customs in odd places overseas.

1. "How long is it proper to stay after dinner in a friend's house?"

Answer: Usually an hour but this depends upon what is happening afterwards. If conversation is general and lively or if you play a game, you stay longer, of course, but if conversation lags, then it is best to take leave.

2. "(a) Is it proper to walk up to a table of friends in a public place when you were not asked to go with them in the first place? (b) What is right if only one of the group happens to be a friend?"

Answer: (a) It is proper to greet them, but not to join them unless invited to do so. (b) You greet the friends only if you pass the table, but you would not go up to him.

3. "Is it impolite not to look at a person all the time he is talking to you?"

Answer: Generally speaking, you are expected to pay attention to the person you are talking with, but you don't look with a fixed stare.

4. "How can you handle the situation when you stop in at a friend's house and find the family about to sit down to a meal?"

Answer: Unless you are earnestly urged to stay, you say "good-bye" and that you will come in another time. Do not accept an invitation to stay unless you are very sure it is spontaneously meant and not the result of having put your hostess in a position of being obliged to ask you to stay.

5. "Is it ever proper to contradict someone in the presence of others?"

Answer: It is never polite to contradict anyone at any time.

6. "Is it true that when one encounters someone to whom he hasn't spoken for months because of a quarrel, in the house of friends, he has to talk to him just as though nothing had happened between them?"

Answer: If the conversation is general, their not speaking may not be noticed. But if it is a formal table at which people talk two and two, it is absolutely obligatory that those seated next each other, talk, to avoid blocking the whole table. If this meeting occurs in another room, they naturally avoid sitting together.

7. "Is it rude to expect a girl with whom one is having a first date, to go to a movie or to a restaurant by bus instead of taxi?"

Economical Menus for Tomorrow

By Meta Given

JUST why is a really good ice box cookie recipe worth holding on to? Any one who bakes cookies should find one helpful. Even young boys and girls who can read and measure ingredients accurately and who have access to an ice box or a refrigerator can bake very satisfactory cookies. Mother who has more skill in handling dough can make even more elegant ones. A recipe must have the proper proportion of ingredients and have carefully written instructions. Such a recipe will turn out more delicate cookies than if rolled out because it makes possible the use of a minimum amount of flour which spells delicate cookies.

A maximum amount of flour too often used in rolled cookies in the summertime when the dough may become sticky, and there is a tendency to add enough flour to eliminate the stickiness, will result in a sturdiness that disqualifies them as being dainty and delicious. And this type of recipe is especially helpful these days when we need to make every ounce of flour count for the best. Shaping such cookies into short lengths is desirable too. These rolls or shapes need to be chilled almost but not quite to the frozen state where they will be firm enough to cut in uniform slices and keep good shape all the way through. By removing short rolls one at a time, even an amateur can get the cookies cut before they have time to soften up. Uniform slicing is necessary for uniform baking, and thin slices always produce more delicate cookies than thick ones.

Orange Refrigerator Cookies.

One and three-fourths cups all-purpose flour, one-half teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup butter, one-half cup granulated sugar, one-half cup brown sugar, one-half teaspoon orange extract, one teaspoon grated orange rind, one egg, beaten.

Sift flour, measure, and resift three times with soda, and salt. Cream butter thoroughly. Add sugars and cream until light and fluffy. Then add orange extract and rind and the egg. Add the sifted dry ingredients. Blend in well. Shape in rolls, wrap in waxed paper and chill. Slice one-eighth inch thick, place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake in a 375 degree F. oven 7 to 8 minutes. Yield 12 doz. cookies.

Baked Pork Chop With Caraway Sauce.

Combine one-half cup cracker crumbs, one-half to one teaspoon caraway seed, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, and one teaspoon salt. Dip chops into prepared crumbs, then into one egg which has been slightly beaten and one tablespoon water added, and back into crumb mixture. Pat crumbs onto chops so they will not fall away during cooking. Brown chops on each side in four tablespoons hot shortening or drippings. Remove from skillet. Blend one tablespoon flour and one-fourth teaspoon salt into the fat in the skillet and add one cup milk gradually. Stir over medium heat until gravy boils and is smooth and thickened. Place the chops in this gravy, cover and bake at 350 degrees F. for 35 minutes. Remove cover and bake 15 or 20 minutes longer. Four servings.

Ham Steak

Here's one for you that you can cook and serve at one of those outdoor picnics we talked about last week, or right in your own kitchenette. Get a ham steak and have the butcher cut it about two inches thick. Put it in an earthenware casserole and cover it with half a bottle of dry red wine. Let it stand in the wine for 12 hours or so. Just before you are ready to cook it, add a couple of cloves of garlic, a sprig of fresh thyme and a bay leaf. Put the casserole over a brisk fire and when it begins cooking hard, turn down the heat and let it simmer in the wine for about an hour and a half. Add the rest of the bottle of wine as it cooks down.

My Day -o- By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sunday

ON Friday in New York I had the pleasure of having Mrs. Gertrude Millin, the well-known writer, and her husband, a judge in South Africa, for a brief chat. I had not seen Mrs. Millin since she was here long ago, when she came to see my husband and myself. The years roll by very quickly and it seems hardly possible that so many could have passed since her visit.

The Hon. Josephus Daniels also was in New York City on Friday and I was very happy to have a chance for a little visit with him. He is one of the most remarkable men I know of his age. This second World War saw him ready to go back to work on his newspaper just as though he were a young man, and thus he freed his sons to do whatever work seemed to them more essential. I am devoted to Mr. Daniels, and I only hope that my old age will make me as wise and kindly as he is. I haven't so many years in which to catch up to him, however, so I doubt if I can hope for his wisdom.

I GOT HOME from the United Nations session around 6 Friday evening and left soon after to drive to Hyde Park. It was breathtakingly beautiful the whole way up. There is one place on the parkway where both white and pink dogwood mingle together. The maples are still covered with their little red curling leaves and the green on the willows is the loveliest pale green imaginable. As we got farther up to where one can look out from the heights westward over the fields, the sun was setting and the sky was a lovely red.

We had a few guests here Saturday, and in the afternoon I took a visitor over to see Wiltwyck school. Mist and rain were with us all day. But it was a soft, soaking rain which any farmer would enjoy, and in spite of one or two cold nights, I do not think the apple blosssoms have really been hurt.

MY SON and daughter-in-law came home from California this afternoon and found the dogwood around their cottage just as beautiful as I hoped they would.

Miss Thompson and I are leaving Hyde Park this morning because I promised to speak at the Lewisohn Stadium at a citizens' meeting this afternoon where my son, Franklin Jr., is to be chairman. A number of organizations, including the Union for Democratic Action, organized this meeting and I was made honorary chairman. I learned long ago that honorary chairmen are not called upon to do any real work, for which I am deeply grateful.

Late this afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Julian Bryant are going to call for me and give me the great pleasure of seeing some of the latest movies which Mr. Bryant has made. I have been hoping to see these for a long time, since he has been doing what I have long wanted to see done—namely, he is using movies to increase people's knowledge of each other.

Braising Broilers

A wonderful way to cook young broilers or fryers is by braising them. They are tender and moist and have an incomparable flavor. Cut the chickens in quarters and dredge them with flour to which salt and pepper have been added. Brown them quickly in hot fat, along with a couple of chopped onions, and minced clove of garlic.

Add a cup of white wine, put a cover on the pan and let them cook at reduced heat. You'll have to keep adding wine to keep "the steam up," but cover closely in between operations to confine steam to the pan. After the chickens have cooked for half an hour, add a cup of chopped tomato and simmer until done. Then put in a tablespoon of minced parsley, one chopped pimento and a couple of tablespoons of chopped spring onion tops or chives.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

WHEN I started out in high school this year I tried to impress the boys. I was pretty boy struck I guess. I wore a lot of rouge and lipstick and even bleached my hair. Well, the boys seemed to like me a lot at first but the girls didn't have much use for me. The boys have now begun to agree with them and I have heard it said its because I look so cheap and common. I didn't mean to look that way, I only tried to look pretty. So I have stopped wearing the excessive makeup and am trying to be as friendly as I can. In spite of this I am continually snubbed and left out of class doings. How can I make the boys and girls in my room realize I have waked up and am no longer such a silly girl—above all that I am not common and cheap? REPENTANT.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest, but of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

I'm afraid that unfortunately it is going to take longer to prove to the other boys and girls that you are not common and cheap than it did to make them think you were. Just keep on trying to be a sensible, well-bred girl and belie that bleach and paint job. Go your way, don't try to force yourself on anyone, make activities for yourself which will keep you too busy to worry about whether you are noticed or not. Before too long someone will suddenly begin to act friendly and you'll soon feel that you, too, belong.

Dear Martha Carr:

WHAT CAN BE done about parents who let their children run the streets and make enough noise to keep everyone awake until 11 o'clock every night? It is simply impossible to get any sleep in my neighborhood until the children quiet down. I can't move because of the housing shortage, but certainly I can't afford to lose my job being jittery every day from lack of sleep. What can you suggest? I must be in bed by 9 p.m. SOUTH ST. LOUIS.

Granted that children should not be running around, yelling and making night hideous until 11 p.m., nine is a pretty early hour for anyone to feel he must turn in, night after night, unless he is ill. Speak to your immediate neighbors and see if they, as parents, can't influence the other parents to tone down the youngsters a bit. If this is to no avail you can always take your distress to the policeman on the beat, but I am sure you won't want to go to this extreme. How about some of those ear plugs worn by some war workers when daytime sleep was at a premium? You might try those! Or take up a hobby and be busy with it until you forget about both noise and nine o'clock bedtime and cease to have jitters about anything.

IN ANSWER TO "Green Eyes": Dry those tears and forget the running away notion. You'd find lots worse troubles would be on your mind if you went through with that idea, than whether you can or cannot wear lipstick! I agree you should be allowed makeup reasonably and becomingly applied. But all these things which are worrying you so won't be important much longer. In another year you'll be out of school and probably into a job, and it will be conceded that you are grown and can be allowed more liberty.

IN ANSWER TO "Janey": The poem you refer to you can find in the book called "India's Love Lyrics" by Anthony Hope. You can see a copy at the Public Library. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my new Budget leaflet. It has some very good suggestions for the budgeting of income for a single person.

IN ANSWER TO "Roselle": You forgot both address and stamp so I was unable to mail you the "Guide for the Bride" —"rush"—as you requested. When you send the stamped, self-addressed envelope you shall have this newly revised booklet at once.

CASE RECORDS

By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE J-291: Sam B., aged 16, is a very brilliant boy who is finishing his last semester in high school. "But something has been the matter with me the last two years," he objected. "I am afraid of dying. I've already gone to three physicians and they have said I was all right, but just the same I'm scared that 'll pass out. A few nights ago I had an attack in which my heart pounded so hard I had to call my parents. They stayed by my side till morning. Then I felt better.

"My mother thinks it is just because one of my best friends was struck by an automobile and killed two years ago. Then a favorite cousin who went around with me all the time, took down with pneumonia last winter and died. Dr. Crane, do you think I have any need to worry about death? And am I just overly suggestible about it because of the loss of my cousin and my pal?"

THIS CASE is a good example of hundreds that have either come to see me in person or who have written about their dread of dying. The typical psychological explanation in a case like this, runs somewhat as follows:

Children look upon disease as punishment, and you can readily see why. Disease or sickness inflicts pain. But pain is regarded by the child as a penalty which he pays for doing something wrong. It is very easy, therefore, for a highly sensitive and intelligent boy like Sam to believe that he may die if he has done something for which he thinks a severe divine attonement is required.

What severe crime, as viewed by a young fellow, would make him dread death as punishment? Well, there is a large range of offenses which might give him a sense of guilt. There is one, especially, in which children as well as adults often feel they have violated the established ethical code and that is the sexual. It furnishes the majority of these cases in which there is an abnormal fear of death.

IF A CHILD is auto-erotic, he often feels that he has violated the divine code. It is surprising how deep-seated this belief may be. The youngster then expects to be punished in some divine manner, as by feeblemindedness, insanity, etc., or indirectly by the death of his loved ones.

This fear is deep rooted and has been passed down since the punishment of Onan in Biblical days. Sam's case was cleared up in a few weeks, because it was exactly of this sort, and all he needed was some sensible psychological advice. He is now a well adjusted young man, freed from this unnecessary dread and terror of death.

Give your young people my bulletin "Sex Problems of Young People" enclosing a 3-cent stamped envelope, plus a dime. It will help eliminate such neurotic trends. Write to me in care of the Post-Dispatch.

Acquisitive Child Needs Your Help

By Angelo Patri

THE child who pilfers or, as some prefer to say, steals, needs sympathetic consideration and study. He is not to be treated as a criminal and punished accordingly. He is to be studied, his need discovered, treated for what ails him, and helped to sound health.

Few children grow to maturity without this experience. At some time or other they take what they want because they want it. Very little children help themselves as crows help themselves to odds and ends that attract them. They like pretty bright things and pick them up. That soon passes. A few experiences, patient instruction and a supply of odds and ends of their own suffice to meet their need.

THE CHILDREN between the ages of 8 and 12 often help themselves because their appetites are bigger than their social consciences can master. They want more candy than we give them, more toys, more, more and more of everything that pleases them. Being without balance, they take what they want.

These children need to be examined to discover any real lack in their lives. If they are suffering from any physical defect that makes them feel inadequate, they will go beyond certain bounds to get more fun, more satisfaction out of life. Poor eyes, defective hearing, shabby clothes, broken homes have been found to cause this trouble.

An explanation of their behavior, and allowance, an assurance of affection, of security at home and abroad, help matters tremendously. Punishment rarely helps. The trouble is usually caused by a depressed spirit and punishment certainly will not cure that.

WHEN adolescent children steal, they are usually emotionally disturbed. Sometimes the disturbance is so great that the children will need the care of a psychiatrist. Oftener, all they need is rest, a change of routine, a change of surroundings, new interests, more attractive work, and a great deal of affection.

Sentencing an adolescent to a reform school for pilfering rarely helps to adjust him. He needs the support of family and friends. When he loses that, he loses all incentive for healthy living and his cure is doubtful. Hold on to him and reassure him.

Never allow a matter of this sort to become public. The loss of public respect is a tragic one for anybody, but for the adolescent child it is a major disaster. Cover his mistake, shield him, teach him, and he will come through all right.

Your Stars

By Marion Drew

WHAT TO EXPECT TOMORROW.

Sun in Taurus.

General Tendencies—A day in which most people seem to understand the aims or words of others close to them—anger and impatience taking the place of cooperation and justice. No one will regret this later on more than the very people who hasten to make these mistakes today, so be choosy in your comments and decisions. Haste is noticeable in all these misfiring relationships, consequently scan your motives and manner—note this around the middle of the afternoon.

If Tomorrow Is Your Birthday.

Your coming 12 months hold many opportunities for the development of character, which may be only another way of saying that there are a number of trying events to be expected. We learn our characters best when they are tried out in the open crucible of difficulty, do we not? But do avoid the risk of money or belongings in 1946-47; above all else be careful about small losses or thefts and other forms of violence which you think would never happen to you.

Tomorrow's Watchword — "Self-sacrifice is the real miracle out of which all other miracles grow," Emerson declared at one time, and in Emerson we have an American thinker who is not fully appreciated even at present. Turning over the idea of self-sacrifice in mind as I look through my note book, I find a more cynical wording of the results of this force in George Bernard Shaw. "Self-sacrifice enables us to sacrifice other people without blushing," says he—I like Emerson's attitude better.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

THE Los Angeles Limited wasn't 10 minutes out of the Chicago Union Station when a sweet little old lady noticed a man in the front of the car whose head was buried in his hands and whose shoulders shook with uncontrolled paroxysms of sorrow.

Her motherly instinct prompted her to console the man, but she restrained herself with the thought that he was a stranger and might resent her interference. All that day and the day after she spent her waking hours surreptitiously watching him sniffle into his handkerchief.

On the third morning, while the train was already winding its way through the orange groves of California, she could stand it no longer. "My poor boy," she said as she patted him on the shoulder, "maybe if you tell me what is breaking your heart, it will make you feel better."

Paints Neckties for His Education

By Clarissa Start

NO matter how sartorially perfect Saunders (Sandy) Schultz may look when he starts out for class, he usually comes home minus his necktie. The sharper students and cravat connoisseurs at Washington University where Sandy is a freshman literally buy the ties from around his neck, so great is the demand for the original handpainted designs he makes. Fast becoming the Skinker Sulka, Sandy has difficulty juggling his studies, his other art work, and his advance orders in the tie business, and frequently has to sacrifice his own wardrobe to his customers.

Tie painting is one of Sandy's projects for working his way through college but by no means his only claim to fame. At 18 he is the youngest artist ever to be represented at the St. Louis Artist Guild show, now in progress at The Playhouse, 812 North Union, and the past several years of his career in art have been a series of prizes, exhibits, and special awards. So much so that Sandy, a typical college freshman, complete with crew cut, protests with some embarrassment that he's had too much recognition.

Despite this protestation, the record shows that there is reason for Sandy's "most likely to succeed" reputation. Among recent awards have been two first prizes at the National Scholastic Art Show held at Stix, Baer & Fuller, where seven of his paintings last year and nine this year were selected for exhibition, the winners later exhibited at Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh. In addition, a $100 war bond was awarded to him in a national art contest sponsored by the Harry Doehla Art Competition of New York City.

More interested in this serious painting than necktie art, Sandy has a part-time scholarship to the Washington U. Art School, and though the school is too crowded for him to enter this year he will be enrolled next semester.

"Meanwhile I'm taking all the hard subjects I have to take this year," he explained, "so when I get into Art School I can dive into painting."

Actually Sandy, who lives with his parents at 6609 Kingsbury boulevard, dived into painting at the age of five when he first visited the Art Museum. He became a regular Saturday visitor. Soon he was winning enough prizes there to keep him in painting materials, and showed enough promise in his work to be taken under the respective wings of numerous St. Louis artists. To date he has studied with Tanasko Milovich, Fred Conway, Fred Carpenter, Dorothy Young Soffer, James A. Harmon and Thelma Webb. Art counselor for several summers at a junior military academy in Tennessee, he has also done volunteer teaching at the St. Louis Negro Art Center.

Sandy prefers watercolor as a medium because he "thinks it's fresher" but has done oils, lithographs, murals in sand and limestone, and linoleum block prints, as well as ceramic art objects, aluminum trays, and incidental art work. The walls of his parents' apartment are covered with evidences of his work. He has done a landscape mural that covers one entire wall of his aunt's house, and has a job tentatively lined up for this summer which will give him the opportunity to paint murals for hotels and restaurants.

The watercolor on exhibit at the Artist Guild show was painted as Sandy likes to do much of his work, on walks through the countryside looking for a quiet spot, ostensibly to study.

"I took my books and my painting materials as usual that afternoon," he recalled, "and was walking around Creve Coeur when I saw this quarry. Everything about it, the colors, the composition, was perfect. Nature had really done all the work for me. I sat down and started to work on it and by the time I had finished it was too dark to do any studying."

SAUNDERS ("SANDY") SCHULTZ, WHO IS WORKING HIS WAY THROUGH WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY BY SELLING HANDPAINTED TIES SIMILAR TO THOSE HE IS DISPLAYING HERE.

While time means nothing to him he manages to get a lot of extra-curricular work done in spare hours. He has worked as a messenger, bus boy, clerk and cutter in a dress factory, and in his high school days was a partner with another boy, in a baby sitter agency which employed 30 University City High School girls. The agency did a thriving business until the help situation caught up with the two boys and they were forced to go on too many "sitter" jobs themselves and finally gave it up.

Recently most of Sandy's self support has come from painting. He is keeping up his promise of working his entire way through school without help from his parents. He has sold so many paintings he has lost count and in one particular instance learned that the buyer was offered triple the original price for a watercolor. At the present time he is doing some floral watercolors on a commission and also a cover for a Mother Goose book being compiled.

In the necktie business, he has sold several hundred, ranging in price from $4 to $10. The most popular designs, he's found, are flowers and birds such as the pink flamingo tie he was wearing, but his business was given a big impetus when a musician at school had him paint special drum designs on a tie. Immediately other musicians gave him orders for trumpets, saxophones, and in one instance, a portrait of the musician "inside a large note, going crazy."

Other popular designs are a panther leaping through the air, mallard ducks in flight, bird dogs, ships ("for returning sailors"), with many lovers of fine art preferring pin-up girls. The pin-up girls, a few artistically undressed, met some opposition from the faculty but the latest designs have put an end to that. The girls now emerge from a background of flowers so, as Sandy explains, "When you look at it from a distance it looks like flowers, but when you look close up, you see how wrong you were."

With orders usually several dozen ahead of him because there simply aren't enough hours in the day for all his activity, Sandy doesn't have many of his ties for his own use, but he still clings to a few favorites, among them the pink flamingo, and another, a wolf. He calls this latter, simply, "Self portrait."

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

DECLARERS who decide to "take just one round of trumps" sometimes forget that the defenders may strenuously object to a cessation of trump drawing. That was the case in the following deal.

South, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

♠ 2 ♥ J7 ♦ A9854 ♣ QJ972	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠ 543 ♥ AQ942 ♦ K102 ♣ 86
	♠ AKJ10 ♥ 8 ♦ QJ73 ♣ AK54

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

West was quite right in feeling that his hand did not warrant a vulnerable overcall—not that he would have been in trouble in this deal. North had so many of his partner's suit that he still would have raised strongly. As it was, of course, the jump to four spades was purely preemptive, and probably the best bid on North's distribution.

West opened the club queen—apparently the safest lead from his holding. Declarer won and for reasons best known to himself, laid down a high trump. He then shifted to the singleton heart, putting in dummy's king, but when East won he promptly followed by declarer's idea about trump leading. Declarer won East's trump return with the ace, cashed the club king and ruffed a club, but when he led the singleton diamond from dummy East shrewdly put up the king and played still another trump. Now with only one trump left in dummy and one in the closed hand, declarer found it impossible to eke out the contract.

The last thing South should have done in this hand was to touch the trumps! If he had led his singleton heart as soon as possible, and dummy's singleton diamond, he could have established ten tricks for himself without great difficulty.

Common-Sense Medicine

PAROTITIS (mumps) is a contagious febrile disease marked by inflammation and swelling of the parotid gland. After an incubation period of about three weeks, the symptoms appear with fever, headache, and pain beneath the ear. Soon there develops a tense painful swelling in the parotid region, which interferes with mastication and swallowing and renders both actions painful. After a period of a few days to a week the symptoms gradually disappear. Sometimes the submaxillary and other salivary glands are involved and occasionally the testicles and mammae become swollen. One attack generally confers immunity from another. The causative organism is probably a filterable virus.

The parotid gland is a large salivary gland in front of the ear. It is a very communicable infection and occurs mostly from 4 to 16 years of age. Adults up to middle age sometimes contract the disease. It rarely develops in infants.

When adults contract mumps it is important that they remain in bed until most of the symptoms subside due to the possibility of a disagreeable complication, inflammation of the testicle, which occurs in about 10 to 30 per cent of the cases in the male. This complication is most likely to occur during the first or second week of the illness. As a rule only one testicle is involved, but in rare cases both may be affected. It is not serious, but very painful and may lead to subsequent atrophy of the testicle or even sterility when both testicles are involved.

It is uncommon for these glands (testicles) to become involved before adolescence. It is rare to affect the corresponding glands (ovaries) in the female.

Your physician should guide the case for occasionally a condition other than mumps may be present.
